CHINESE DOWN U.S. NAVY PLANE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An unarmed U.S. navy plane was shot down by a MiG when it strayed into Chinese air space Tuesday near Hainan Island, the Pentagon announced today.

The Pentagon said the downed plane was one of two navy A1 Skyraider aircraft which "experienced navigational difficulties and inadvertently strayed" within five miles of the island.

"One of the planes was shot down by a Chinese Communist MiG aircraft," the Pentagon said. The second flew to the U.S. Marine air base at Da Nang, South Vietnam.

A Radio Peking broadcast said the planes deliberately violated Chinese air space as a "military provocation." The broadcast heard in Tokyo said the plane was shot down as "punishment" but made no mention of the fate of its pilot.

The two propeller-driven Skyraiders were on a ferry flight from Cubi Point in the Philippines to the aircraft carrier Coral Sea in the Gulf of Tonkin. Each plane carried one pilot.

This was the second incident of this type involving navy planes in six months. Last Aug. 27, two navy A6A Intruders crossed briefly into Chinese air space after raiding North Vietnam and were shot down.

OF FOREST INDUSTRY

Wage Talks Hold Key To Survival

By BRUCE YEMEN

Resources Minister Ray Williston delivered in the Legislature Tuesday what he called a "most serious" economic warning.

He also slapped higher taxes on the forest industry.

The minister said the basic economic stability of the province hangs in the balance at forthcoming forest industry wage negotiations.

He called for "responsible citizenship" by both labor and management and added pointedly:

"I trust that the shipyard industry has not set an example."

He said a continuing successful industry "will depend upon the manner in which those directly affected resolve the economic problems they now face," and warned of the danger of the forest industry pricing itself out of markets.

"We have arrived at a very important crossroad."

$400,000 A MONTH

Mr. Williston said the current forestry strike in the interior is costing the government $400,000 a month and traced a decline in government revenue from the industry over the past two years.

"I am confident the bottom would have been reached but for the present strike," he said.

The new revenue boosters are in addition to the increased logging tax announced in the budget.

They will account for about $4,000,000 extra revenue and should hold 1968 forest revenues at about $46,000,000, compared with the 1966 high figure of $50,000,000. Last year's total was about $48,000,000.

The new measures are:

- Doubling the forest protection tax from six cents to 12 cents an acre to cover more costly and effective fire control techniques.
- Tripling sawlog royalties for fir on the coast and white pine in the interior and doubling those for other species.
- Reducing the allowance in lieu of higher costs for interior pulp mills from a range of $9-$12 per 1,000 board feet to a standard $7.

"Log prices have now increased and it is hoped that the combination of measures announced will fairly stabilize the revenue return to the people, who own, protect and manage the natural resources," he said.

Surveying the forest industry last year, Mr. Williston said it had been a good year "from a strictly operational point of view," with the 1966 record cut of 1.6 billion cubic feet almost matched by the 1.57 billion total of 1967.

Mr. Williston said the U.S. Pacific Northwest had met its problem of oversupply of logs and resulting downward price pressures by exporting round logs—5.7 per cent of the total in 1965, 7.3 per cent in 1966 and a substantially higher percentage last year.

The B.C. log export comparison for the same periods was .65 per cent, 1.5 per cent and 2.2 per cent of total cut said the minister.

"This province cannot afford to export jobs and so it is not proposed to recommend a change in our export regulations," said Mr. Williston, denying opposition charges that the government was encouraging round log export to Japan.

BACKS UP WARNING

Mr. Williston gave the legislature a lesson in basic economics to back up his warning about inflationary pressures.

"We must produce, we must market; and we can only provide the quality of life in British Columbia which other people are able and willing to pay for.

"We do not develop merely by perpetuating services for each other."

Mr. Williston said that up until two years ago the forest industry seemed to provide each contributing segment—labor, management and the Crown—with a fair return on investment, with wages related to productivity.

"Then came the 1966 wage negotiation on the coast . . . I point no finger of blame in any direction but I do strongly suggest that this negotiation marked the end of an era in the

'Improve Lousy French' Trudeau Tells Quebecers

HAMILTON (CP) — French-Canadians should abandon their demands for more rights and use the powers they already have to improve the "lousy French" spoken in Quebec, Justice Minister Trudeau said in a television interview Tuesday night.

"I don't think Ottawa should give one single whit of power to the province of Quebec until it has shown the rest of Canada it can teach better language in its schools," Mr. Trudeau said.

The justice minister was replying to questions from a panel of French-speaking students at Carleton University, Ottawa, on the television show Under Attack.

The pre-recorded program was shown on CHCH-TV Hamilton Tuesday night.

Mr. Trudeau said some Quebec nationalists and separatists speak "awful French" and "they want to impose this lousy French on the whole of Canada."

SOME FRENCH GOOD

Asked what standard he would set for the language, he said French spoken on the CBC is "very good." He also said "some educated Quebecers . . . speak very good French. . . ."

He said the Quebec government should realize "there's a state of urgency as regards the language."

He said Quebec has had full control over education for 100 years and it isn't the fault of the rest of Canada that "our French is lousy."

"I think French-Canadians have been betrayed by their elite for 100 years," he said.

Mr. Trudeau said he does not agree there are two nations in Canada—one English and one French.

"But there are some naive people — including politicians — who think it's nice, who can get a few votes by saying: 'I'm for two nations.' But they don't realize that the people who are putting the two-nation concept forward are people who really want two Canadas, and I don't."

The justice minister said those who accuse him of being a traitor to Quebec are displaying "the masochistic tendencies of just about all French-Canadian nationalists."

School Boards to Be Made Responsible for Finances

SURROUNDED by newsmen UN Secretary-General U Thant, centre, wearing hat, refused to answer questions following talks today with Mai Van Bo, North Vietnamese representative in Paris, for 75 minutes. Thant is attempting to get peace talks started. (AP Wirephoto.)

WON'T COMMENT ON PEACE EFFORTS

Thant Meets Top Hanoi Envoy

PARIS (UPI)—UN Secretary-General Thant, making a surprise detour on his Vietnam peace mission, met in Paris today with Hanoi's top diplomat in the West and then discussed Vietnam with President Charles de Gaulle in a session lasting more than an hour.

Thant made no statement to newsmen and the exact aim of his quick trip from London to Paris remained an official secret.

But observers said Thant may have been informed that Hanoi was ready to answer questions he had put last week to Nguyen Hoa, North Vietnam's consul general in New Delhi.

In London, informed reports on Thant's Paris talk with North Vietnamese diplomat Mai Van Bo said Hanoi apparently had refused to soften its stand on peace talks with the United States.

The London reports said the North Vietnamese remained adamant on their formula for peace talks, demanding unconditional cessation of American bombing on the North and a halt to other "hostile acts" as Hanoi's price for coming to the conference table.

MET WITH WILSON

The UN chief, who had visited New Delhi, Moscow and London on his solo mission seeking a formula for Vietnam peace talks, flew in unannounced today from the British capital where he had conferred with Prime Minister Wilson.

After his hurried round of talks in the French capital, Thant announced he was flying back Thursday to the U.S. where, it was expected, he would waste little time conveying the result of his talks to Washington leaders.

He was picked up at the airport in a black limousine and whisked to headquarters of the North Vietnamese general delegation in Paris, where he conferred for an hour and 10 minutes with Bo, ranking Hanoi diplomat in western Europe.

A Thant aide later told newsmen the conference was held in a "friendly spirit" but he refused any details. Bo, intercepted by newsmen afterward, declined to comment.

Thant's visit to Paris apparently caught everyone off guard. A confused Elysee presidential palace spokesman announced at one point that the French president would not see Thant. Later the de Gaulle meeting and a subsequent session with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville were arranged.

ITALY GETS HANOI WORD

ROME (UPI) — The Italian foreign ministry said today Italy has been approached by North Vietnam in connection with possible peace talks and has relayed the information to the U.S. state department.

The ministry did not say what Hanoi's terms were or how Washington reacted.

WALLS CRUMBLE

Citadel 'Turned Into Flaming Hell'

SAIGON (UPI) — Tons of bombs began crumbling the thick walls of the last Communist stronghold in Hue today in an intense attack marking the first heavy use of American airpower in the battle for the old imperial city.

Napalm fireballs and clouds of non-toxic gas turned the battleground into a flaming hell.

U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen holding most of the ancient citadel area pulled back temporarily to let the low-flying bombers blast through the walls around the palace where North Vietnamese regulars were holding out and fighting back against seemingly impossible odds.

"That wall was built to defend the city, and the damned thing is doing its job," Brig. Gen. Foster C. Lahue of the U.S. Marine Corps said as he commanded the siege from a helicopter.

"As soon as we crack that wall, we're going right in."

Sharp Words Used At Panmunjom Talks

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — A North Korean representative said today there will be war unless the United States gets out of Korea. The U.S. delegate replied that the North could ensure peace by stopping acts of aggression.

The harsh exchange came at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission called to discuss charges by the United Nations Command of armistice violations by the North Koreans. There was no discussion of the fate of the 83 crew members of the Pueblo, the U.S. intelligence ship seized by North Korea Jan. 23.

Meanwhile, U.S. special envoy Cyrus Vance extended by still another day his visit to Seoul, where he is trying to patch up U.S.-South Korean differences over U.S. priorities in Korea.

The South Koreans have complained that the United States is paying more attention to the Pueblo incident than to the attempted assassination of South Korean President Chung Hee Park Jan. 21 by 31 North Korean commandos who invaded Seoul.

MANY VIOLATIONS

Rear Admiral John V. Smith, senior U.S. representative on the armistice commission, cited the assassination attempt today and said there had been 74 other serious truce violations by the North in the last 44 days.

"The decision whether there is peace or hostility depends upon the whim of an apparently irresponsible North Korea," he said. "Your side can have peace merely by unilaterally stopping acts of aggression.

"You must stop dispatching armed murderers into the Republic of Korea."

North Korean Gen. Pak Chung Kook glared at Smith and replied: "We don't want war but we are not afraid of it."

He said North Korea would match buildup for buildup, blow for blow "and all-out war with all-out war" if it should come to that.

Pak added that it would come to war unless the United States agreed to "take your bloody hands off Korea and withdraw from South Korea."

The only mention of the Pueblo was a charge by Pak that the United States was taking advantage of the incident to make "full preparations for war" and create a climate in which hostilities could be touched off "at any moment."

ROCKET BOMBS HIT HANOI

TOKYO (A)—Radio Hanoi said U.S. jets attacked a populated area of Hanoi with rocket bombs today. If true, it would be the first raid of the year on the North Vietnamese capital.

The broadcast account said three planes were shot down over Hanoi and three others over Nghe An Province, at the country's midsection. Several pilots were reported captured.

Peterson Plans Major Changes

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Education Minister Leslie Peterson told the Legislature today that major changes will be proposed to make school boards directly responsible to ratepayers.

He did not elaborate on the methods that will be used to make the change, first hinted a year ago when there was a province-wide reaction against the government over large school tax increases.

"It is our purpose to effect major improvements at this session of the legislature," the text of his speech in the House said.

"School boards will be made completely responsible for the management of the financial affairs of their districts.

"In the future, school boards will be the taxing authority, will fix the mill rate for school purposes and will be answerable directly to the local taxpayers."

Mr. Peterson also indicated that some of the $18.9 million increase in government grants to school districts will be used to change the present cost-sharing formula under which the province picks up about half of the overall average tab for operating schools.

Grant System to Be Revised

"The formula for determining the cost of the basic education program will be revised," he said.

"The new plan will be simpler in many respects and will overcome the complaints of school boards that the basic costs on which grants were computed were far below actual costs.

"The new plan will ensure that the cost of basic education programs will automatically increase from year to year and always in relation to actual costs.

"A uniform basic levy will apply in every school district to ensure that education costs are spread more equitably across the province as a whole," his text continued.

"Improvements will be made in the budgeting procedures of school districts to encourage efficiency and economy in their operations.

"The specific details of the changes will be part of my submission to the House when the amendments to the Public Schools Act are presented and I shall say no more about them at this stage."

The education minister also said he plans to set up a special committee aimed at rationalizing the program of the three public universities to cut costs caused by a prestige race among them.

Caught in Net of Own Making

His speech said many cost increases, such as inflation and enrolment, are beyond the universities' control.

"But with respect to others, the institutions are caught in a net of their own weaving.

"The rising expenditure of any one—perhaps through an understandable desire to embrace too many disciplines and too many specialties — become the reason for an increase in the others.

"Considering the high expectations we have for the total program of our three public universities—and considering those expectations in relation to the budgetary demands of all other provincial services—I feel that we must now ensure there is neither redundancy of effort nor fruitless competition among the institutions.

"With this in mind, I propose to establish a small advisory committee to study the relationships between the three.

"This will be a difficult assignment but one of major importance and I would expect to give the committee enough latitude to allow it to consider seriously any reasonable modifications in our present arrangements."

Judge Draws Line, Won't Skirt Issue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Judge Joan Dempsey Klein disapproves of the mini-skirts worn by another blonde judge, Noel Cannon.

"She's a constant source of embarrassment to me and to every municipal court judge I know," Judge Klein said Tuesday at a press conference called to announce her candidacy for the Superior Court bench.

"We feel her conduct is not befitting a member of the court."

Judge Cannon delights some and appalls others by wearing mini-skirts.

Judge Cannon was not available for comment, but in the past she has not been defenceless. When three-fourths of the municipal court judges censured her last year, saying she sought personal publicity, she accused some of them of "immorality, intemperance, inability and absenteeism."

To those judges who criticized her clothes, Judge Cannon replied: "I don't criticize their attire—I don't point out that some of them wear food on their clothing."

OR WILL IT LEAD TO WORLD CATASTROPHE?

Arthur's Hideout Just Purr-fect

By JOHN LeBLANC

LONDON (CP) — Is Arthur the tom a catspaw in an international intrigue?

The foreign office, the Soviet embassy and the courts are all agog today over Arthur's whereabouts. He's also on page one of most of the morning papers.

Arthur is a white tomcat with the valuable knack of eating with his paws. This has made him the star of a series of TV commercials for a cat- food firm.

But actor Toneye Manning claims ownership of Arthur, and a week ago he got a court order to take him out of the kennels where the firm was keeping him. Then Tuesday, the catsmeat people got a high court order telling Manning not to take Arthur out of the court's jurisdiction pending an ownership hearing next week.

However, the actor told reporters later that Saturday night he had got political asylum for Arthur in the Soviet Embassy.

As he describes it, he and Arthur ran into a Russian diplomat coming out of the embassy.

"I asked him if he would give political asylum to a cat. At first he laughed but when I explained the situation to him, he agreed he would look after the cat, took it in his arms and walked off."

The Russian Embassy denied any knowledge of Arthur Tuesday night.

The foreign office was puzzled about Arthur's status in the diplomatic field.

"I can't see that the cat would qualify for political asylum," an official said. "He has not committed any political act that would endanger any of his lives."

U.S. Frustrated By Hanoi Stand?

Alleged Rejection of Peace Bids May Have Led to Troop Buildup

WASHINGTON (CP) — Some diplomatic observers said today President Johnson's decision to send another 10,500 troop to South Vietnam is a warning to Hanoi that the U.S. will not be driven to the conference table under military pressure.

The decision to send the troops came less than 24 hours after a report that North Vietnam apparently rejected U.S. peace moves. It also follows the recent huge Viet Cong-North Vietnamese offensive in the war.

Official confirmation Tuesday that a foreign emissary visited Hanoi within the last few weeks on a U.S. peace mission gave further credence to feelings that Washington's diplomatic patience in the current round of exchanges with Hanoi has grown thin.

Johnson himself told a group of college student editors Monday that the U.S. has "gone just as far as decent and honorable people can go" in offering to talk peace with North Vietnam.

CANADIAN MENTIONED

There was speculation here Tuesday that a Canadian acted as the emissary to Hanoi.

However, a Canadian embassy spokesman here said Ormand Dier, senior Canadian representative on the International Control Commission, visited Hanoi on a "specially Canadian mission."

External Affairs Minister Martin said Dier was in Hanoi "on the instruction of the Canadian government and nobody else."

The dispatch of these "insurance" forces does not upset the authorized troop strength limit of 525,000 men expected to be reached later this year. The new deployment will raise U.S. forces in Vietnam to 510,500.

Senior military officers say privately they believe at least one division should be called up from the army national guard to bolster the strategic reserve of divisions available in the United States for swift deployment around the world.

The question of a call-up of group reserve units is under study and no decision has been reached. But pressure for such a call-up is rising.

Military officers in the Pentagon express belief further ground force deployments to Vietnam will be necessary and that the current build-up objective of 525,000 will be raised. This also is under study.

. . . WAGES

approach to such important wage bargaining."

NOT PROSPERING

The forest industry for various reasons did not prosper in relation to the higher costs resulting from the wage settlement and the resulting problem was compounded by difficulty in attracting new capital into a declining profit industry, he said.

Mr. Williston said that during last year's interior wage negotiations he was obliged to speak out when a labor spokesman argued that interior parity costs could be recouped by management through a reduction in stumpage (paid to government) which would become automatic once the new wage charges were placed in the cost appraisal.

"As the person responsible for the people's interest in the direct revenue return from the forest industry, I could not remain silent.

"If one of the three elements in the benefit-sharing triangle of management, labor or Crown were able to obtain such a parity base, it could not logically be denied the other two.

ASKS MORE MONEY

"The only way this could be done would be to further reduce coastal stumpages and in so doing further deplete Crown revenues at a time when every social service is asking for more money."

Mr. Williston said wood-related industries dominate the entire economy of B.C. and that more than half of the province is reserved for the perpetual growth of forest crops.

"No other group of workers or industries has had the base of their activities protected with such a regulated, perpetual resource owned by all the people."

Mr. Williston said that because the public had a stake in the forthcoming negotiations the government has offered to pay part of the cost of finding necessary "basic economic facts." Both sides have been requested by Labor Minister Peterson to appoint qualified accountants to do the research.

Mr. Williston said he had faith in the long-range development of the forest industry because the province possesses the basic elements needed to produce quality products and the intelligence to analyse and resolve the difficulties facing the industry.

But he said, "At a time when faith and confidence in the future are essential there are many causes for uncertainty and concern."

Civilian Toll Hits 20,000

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 20,000 civilians were killed or wounded in 12 days of fighting in the Viet Cong guerrilla offensive against South Vietnam's major population centres, U.S. officials said today.

The officials said that 3,730 were killed and 16,000 wounded from Jan. 29, when the attacks began, through Feb. 9, an arbitrary cutoff date although fighting has continued around many of the cities and inside Saigon and Hue.

In Saigon, 4,270 persons were treated in the municipal hospitals. The hospitals reported only about 250 persons died, a figure which appears low when compared with the killed-wounded ratio for the rest of the country.

The figures are considered still incomplete, especially those from Hue, where fighting continues.

Disease Feared

SAIGON (Reuters) — South Vietnamese government medical teams began an urgent mass inoculation campaign Tuesday as fears increased that bubonic plague, cholera and typhoid might break out among thousands of refugees crowding the capital.

A U.S. embassy official warned that epidemics could hit the estimated 158,000 refugees packed into unsanitary emergency centres in the war-shattered city.

Doctors and nurses started anti-plague injections at over 100 refugee centres. The U.S. spokesman said 40,000 cholera injections were given earlier.

Scuffle at McGill

MONTREAL (CP) — An anti-war demonstration turned into a minor battle in front of the McGill University Students' Placement Bureau Tuesday afternoon as 200 students tried to batter down the door of the building. They were protesting on-campus recruiting of students for jobs with Hawker Siddeley Canada Ltd., manufacturers of engines and transportation equipment, whose representatives continued to hold interviews inside the bureau during the melee.

Westwick Re-Elected Sixth Time

DUNCAN — Henry Westwick of Cowichan Station has been re-elected president of Cowichan Agricultural Society for a sixth successive term.

This is believed to be without precedent in the 100-year history of the organization.

Mr. Westwick, 32, operator of a well-known Jersey farm with his father-in-law, Harry Standen, is still one of the youngest CAS presidents.

He is also a director of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

Re-elected as first vice-president was Norman Quist, Westholme, owner of one of the largest Holstein farms in the district.

Completing the executive is Don Ellison, Glenora, replacing Don Morton as second vice-president.

Two new directors were welcomed to their first meeting, Bill Wikkerink, Cobble Hill, and Harold Myrhe, Cowichan Bay.

A protest will be sent to the B.C. Public Utilities Commission about the proposed raise in freight rates.

The notice of intention published in newspapers last week indicated that 5 per cent will be added to all freight charges from Vancouver to Victoria and another 5 per cent to freight going on to all other Island points.

Nearly all major freight companies signed the notice to the PUC.

The protest will be against the additional 5 per cent and will be made directly to the PUC as well as through the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

Rates will go up March 15, 1968. Protests must be filed by Feb. 29, 1968.

Draft Dodgers To Get Word About Canada

TORONTO (CP) — About 5,000 copies of a 132-page booklet telling United States draft-dodgers how to move to Canada will be distributed in the U.S. by the end of this week.

Mark Satin, 21, a New York draft-dodger who now directs the Toronto Anti-Draft Program, said in an interview Sunday the booklet attempts to give an accurate picture of Canada without offending Canadians.

Called the Manual for Draft-Age Immigrants to Canada, it contains step-by-step instruction on how to qualify as a Canadian immigrant as well as information about Canada, jobs and school opportunities.

"We don't paint life in Canada blacker or whiter than it is," Mr. Satin said.

A chapter on Canadian history states flatly that Canada is dominated by the U.S.

Library Passes 1,000,000 Mark

COURTENAY — The Vancouver Island Regional Library passed the 1,000,000 circulation mark for the first time in 1967, the annual report shows.

The report notes the withdrawal of the village of Cumberland Library from the Island library scheme as "unfortunate," stating that this will add one more "inadequate" municipal library to a generally improving pattern of libraries in B.C.

Phil Promises 'To Blow Lid Off Attackers'

Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi Tuesday said disciplinary action will be taken against a departmental sign painter at Kamloops.

He said all department employees are being warned not to moonlight.

Frank Methot, a sign painter who painted and erected signs for the controversial Del Ciell Investments real estate firm, will be disciplined, he said.

Mr. Gagliardi, whose sons have been linked to the company in some reports, said he will "blow the blasted lid right off the legislature" Thursday night when he speaks on charges of mismanagement in his department.

He said an "organized attack" has been launched against him and he "might name names" of the instigators.

"You'd all better be there with lots of paper," he told reporters.

CHICAGO (AP) — About 300 Roman Catholic priests from across the United States voted Tuesday to form a national federation of priests to co-ordinate the work of local priest associations and senates.

COPTER HITS BIG TOWER

GALESBURG, N.D. (AP)— A United States Marine Corps helicopter crashed and burned today after striking a guywire of a television tower near here.

Officials at Grand Forks Air Force Base confirmed that two of the four men aboard the CH-53A helicopter were killed. The helicopter, on a routine training mission, was stationed temporarily at the base.

The 2,060-foot tower, second highest man-made structure in the world, buckled and fell to the ground.

SOVIET EXPANDING, SAYS ADMIRAL

'Nato Navy Must Expand'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization must develop a major naval task force to match expanding Soviet naval power, a senior British naval officer said Tuesday.

Vice-Admiral Sir David Clutterbuck, deputy commander of NATO's newly-formed naval "watchdog" force in the Atlantic told the English Speaking Union that the Soviet Union is rapidly creating a global maritime fleet.

"They have set the old seafaring nations an example and they have indeed given NATO something new to reckon with," he said.

"It means that NATO must henceforth keep a watchful eye on all these maritime activities, wherever they may appear."

Sir David said the new "watchdog" force has only six escorts, but is a step in the right direction.

"What we need, and what we really must hope it will lead to, is a NATO fleet, for use by the alliance in all waters of the NATO area."

In an earlier interview in Vancouver, Sir David said he would like to see Canada contribute a destroyer to the unit.

LUNAR SCIENTIST FINDS EVIDENCE

Warm, Moist Areas on Moon

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New studies indicate the moon may have moist, warm areas—possibly conducive to microbial life —a lunar scientist reports.

Dr. Jack Green told a seminar of the University of California at Los Angeles chapter of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics Tuesday that evidence of moisture was found in specially filtered telescope pictures of an area near the crater Aristarchus.

Aristarchus, in the upper left portion of the lunar disk, is the site of red flares, possibly indicating volcanic activity, reported by several astronomers.

Green said his belief that there may be warm, moist areas near the crater is based on apparent detection of sulphur with a filter, producing photographs in which that mineral shows up black. Large black areas several miles square were found in photographs recently made to investigate earlier indications, Green said.

SIMILAR TOPOGRAPHY

"On earth sulphur, the most abundant volcanic mineral, is always found in the presence of hydrous or water-bearing rock," he said. "If this holds true on the moon, then there must be large areas near volcanic craters which are warm and moist and conceivably could support small organisms."

Green, research scientist for McDonnell Douglas Corp. and a consultant on the U.S. space agency's Surveyor program, said his study covered only an area near Aristarchus but he hopes to survey other craters later.

Green said a soil-testing device taken to the moon by recent Surveyors was not equipped to detect sulphur.

Water-bearing rocks near sulphur deposits on earth, he said, can be made to yield up to a gallon of water per cubic foot of rock by heating them to 500 to 800 degrees Fahrenheit. On the moon, where surface temperatures rise to 250 degrees at noon, such temperatures could be achieved by focusing solar rays on hydrous rock, Green said.

BIAFRANS PEACE BID DISCOUNTED

LAGOS (AP) — The hard-pressed Biafrans are talking peace but making daring attempts to counter-attack in the Nigerian civil war.

The Nigerian federal military regime says it has beaten back Biafran efforts to regain Nsukka, a university town that fell to federal soldiers 10 days after the civil war erupted last July.

High federal officials also discount a Biafran bid for peace talks which brought British Commonwealth Secretary-General Arnold Smith of Canada to Lagos for intensive talks with the federal regime during the weekend.

Authoritative sources in the federal regime said Tuesday that before peace talks can begin, they must see more concrete signs that Biafra, the former Eastern Region of Nigeria, is willing to return to the federation.

About 8,000,000 of Biafra's 13,000,000 population are Ibo tribesmen. They claim the federals are waging a war of genocide against them.

LIBERAL JOINS TORY CRITICS

Drug Bill Hits Cross-Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legislation aimed at cutting drug prices ran into unexpected cross-fire in the Commons Tuesday as a Liberal back-bencher joined Conservatives in attacking it.

Raymond Rock (Montreal Jacques-Cartier-Lasalle) said the bill would jeopardize Canadian jobs, the future of university graduates, the balance of payments and the drug industry itself.

It would also destroy inventors' property rights, he said, and should be sent to a House committee where critics could put their views on record.

Conservatives criticized safety guarantees as the bill was debated for the second day on second reading.

The Senate, meanwhile, returned from recess a week early to open debate on the government broadcasting bill, passed by the Commons last week.

The drug legislation before the Commons would amend the Patents Act and the Trade Marks Act to allow broader importation of patented drugs in finished form under licence.

It would also permit the importing of trade-mark drugs from foreign firms in competition with their Canadian subsidiaries.

Liberal members have argued repeatedly that the measure has nothing to do with drug safety, but Conservatives Tuesday continued to raise questions in that area.

Richard Cashin (L—St. John's West) who accused Conservatives of using scare arguments planted by the drug industry, came under sharp attack from Mr. Rock, a fellow-Liberal.

He said Mr. Cashin's speech sounded like a snow-job, and suggested he would be playing a different tune if the bill allowed importation of cheaper fish—or if Mr. Cashin had drug firms in his constituency.

Marvin Howe (PC—Wellington-Huron) said Canadian drug firms have operated with an enviable record of safety and reliability for years.

"But what guarantee is there in the case of imported material, originating we know not where?"

He asked Consumer Affairs Minister Turner to give serious thought to this aspect "in order to avoid the horrible tragedies to which Canadians and many thousands who live in other countries have been subjected in the past."

David Orlikow (NDP-Winnipeg North), said Dr. P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East), who spoke against the bill Monday, wanted to give the drug companies "a licence to continue stealing from the people of Canada."

Criticism of the bill had given the impression that there would be a great danger if Canadians were allowed to buy drugs under their generic names, as opposed to brand names, Mr. Orlikow said.

But the "facts are very plain" that every hospital in Canada used generic drugs, and they would not do so unless they were safe.

J. Angus MacLean (PC—Queens) said the drug industry was being depicted as a "gasping, bloated" one, but the myth that it was any better or worse than other industries had not been proved.

Several Conservatives urged referral of the bill to a committee for study, but Mr. MacLean indicated this might be avoided if the government would accept some changes.

An Overhaul Is Urgent

HAVING STUDIED THE EFfects of Premier Bennett's budget on Victoria's financing, Mayor Hugh Stephen is gratified by the increase in the per capita grant allowed the city but still convinced of the necessity for a complete overhaul of all cost-sharing programs and the system of grants.

Ostensibly this year's grant increase will provide an additional $496,000 for Victoria. But off-setting it will be an increase in the share the city must pay on welfare —an amount estimated at $232,000 —and the loss of $68,000 which the province previously paid in matching grants for arterial highway construction and maintenance.

With the city's share of welfare doubled and the provincial allocation for arterial highways lost, the $496,000 in extra per capita grants shrinks to $196,000 in net city benefit at this time. And Victoria's share of welfare will probably grow in cost in this year of economic cutbacks.

A similar assessment of Oak Bay's position has been given by Acting-Reeve Frances Elford who expects the increase in per capita grants to Oak Bay to be wiped out by the rise in the municipality's welfare costs, coupled with the loss of the provincial payment on highways. With Mayor Stephen, Mrs. Elford feels that the aid to municipalities in Mr. Bennett's budget is no satisfactory substitute for a study in depth of the whole problem of provincial-municipal financial relations and division of responsibilities.

This is the point which Victoria, adjacent municipalities and other spokesmen for the governments closest to the people have been emphasizing in recent years. A full and open discussion is essential between municipal and provincial authorities at their highest level to determine how revenues should best be raised and how services should be administered in a manner fair to all. This is particularly important to councils whose source of income depends so heavily on the tax returns from homes and real estate.

The case has been made numerous times before. It is repeated again. How long can Mr. Bennett ignore it? And how long can civic and municipal leaders continue to function in the uncertainties now plaguing them in financial matters?

A Little Wider Please

PROPOSALS TO SOLVE THE Causeway traffic problem by widening the roadway ten feet on the eastern side should receive a lot more study before they are implemented. There is a natural desire in this city of gardens, trees and green places to preserve what we have — and particularly in such a showcase location as the Empress Hotel lawn. But even those who are ready to sacrifice appearance to utility should consider that a much less expensive, much quicker and much more flexible solution lies in the prohibition of parking on one or both sides of the roadway.

Granted, the parking is a boon to the various commercial vehicles whose proprietors ply their summertime trade with the tourists, but should such a concession be carried to the point of hampering the traffic of the community? At some stage it will have to be recognized that the roadway is needed for moving traffic rather than for commercial stands. Should that stage not be recognized before the lawn is chopped back and the city is put to considerable expense for it?

It may be said that the projected sewerage project will require that the sidewalk be opened up in any case, but this opportunity for narrowing the lawn should not be made a reason for doing so. And there will remain the problem presented by the narrow stretch of Government Street running northward from the Causeway. A widened Causeway could add to the congestion of that thoroughfare.

Surely it would be wise to experiment with the relatively easy method of freeing one or both curb lanes to moving traffic, until the implications of the impending one-way-street plans, the projected Humbolt and Wharf Street waterfront rehabilitation, the possible future wall-side walkway, and other factors may be seen more clearly. The lawn treatment should be viewed in the light of a last desperate resort — particularly in a year of mounting costs — and we have not yet used up our other alternatives.

Not Worth Buying

A REPORT FROM COPENhagen discloses a public reaction to unsavory literature which might impress some Canadians seeking to purify the stream of printed matter now available over the counter. Last June the Danish parliament decided to end censorship of all literature written in Danish. At present, according to the report, the market for smut has dried up — except for sales to foreigners.

The Danish government apparently was deeply impressed by the argument that pornography had no dangerous psychological effects. When the ban on publication and distribution was lifted, a deluge of pornographic books followed—but only for a time. Then, says one publisher, "Just what I expected to happen did happen. Nobody wanted to buy the rubbish which began to flood the bookstalls."

The development supports the argument that prohibition, by itself, creates a demand for the item legally withheld. Beyond that, the report underscores the fact that much of the material produced for prurient readers is so inferior that, robbed of the notoriety which censorship brings, it finds few customers.

Let It Not Lag

ONCE AGAIN OPPOSITION members have raised provocative questions in the legislature; once again Highways Minister Gaglardi finds himself defending his conduct of the department; and once again the public is perturbed at accusations which attack the integrity of the government.

It is unfortunate that these situations keep cropping up, unfortunate that there is usually such a protracted campaign of disclosures and conjectures before the government moves to clarify the situation and the public can be sure of what is going on — or, equally important, of what is not going on.

Mr. Bennett should not wait for innuendo and distrust to build up before he acts in response to the opposition statements. There should be complete clarity and openness in every respect. Mr. Gaglardi's position, and the sanctity of the democratic government process itself, demand no less.

"Why are they all out to get me . . . ?"

FROM QUEBEC CITY

By STAN McDOWELL

Mr. Johnson's Version for the Homefolks

McDowell

PREMIER Daniel Johnson went on the French television network of the CBC early this week to play an extra inning of last week's federal-provincial constitutional conference. When he was through it was a noticeably different ball game. The "breakthrough in linguistic equality" for which Mr. Johnson had been willing to give much of the credit to the other provinces had evolved into a triumph for the "firmness of Quebec."

The modest credit that Mr. Johnson had been willing to give the federal government four days earlier had evaporated. As seen by Mr. Johnson, the federal government's chief contribution to the conference had been a retreat, from opposition to constitutional change to recognition that a constitutional overhaul was necessary.

The federal government's attempt to entrench French language rights in the constitution had become "a terrible snare, much more serious than the Fulton-Favreau formula" that might have let Ottawa invade the field of education by the back door of minority language rights. This invasion was foiled by the alertness of the Quebec delegation. "We recognized the snare at once," Mr. Johnson said.

Warmed to Quebec

The other provinces had warmed up dramatically to the Quebec proposal of a substantially decentralized federalism as a means of giving Quebec the powers it wants.

Mr. Johnson was not at all sure that the other provinces would want to delegate the new powers to Ottawa.

"The governments of the other provinces are not anti-autonomist," he said.

The duel between the Union Nationale Premier and Justice Minister Pierre Trudeau was still on. Mr. Johnson still saw a discrepancy between Mr. Trudeau's constitutional views and the policy of the federal government and warned that the justice minister's "rigidity" could "blow up the country."

The composite picture drawn by Mr. Johnson in this conference postscript was of a Quebec government, firm but patient and restrained in victory, making its way toward new constitutional powers, with the other provinces benevolently neutral at worst, and a chastened federal government slowly opening its eyes to reality. Mr. Trudeau and Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia stood off to one side as the diehard opponents of enlarged powers for Quebec.

This was not precisely the picture most observers had carried away from the conference itself.

No Endorsement

Far from endorsing a massive transfer of power from Ottawa to the provinces, the other premiers, all nine of them one after another, had insisted on the need to preserve "a strong central government."

But the deeds of some of the other premiers, as opposed to their words, did offer some justification for Mr. Johnson's view.

Only Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Newfoundland were willing to collaborate fully in the federal strategy aimed at restoring the central government's prestige in the province in which it is in danger — Quebec.

Mr. Johnson could be forgiven for concluding that the defence of the central government, on the part of the other premiers, was the same sort of verbal ritual that the defence of French-Canadian nationalism often is on the part of the government of Quebec.

The Quebec premier's attack on Justice Minister Trudeau was in the best Union Nationale tradition of federal-provincial relations.

The first sign that it was coming was Mr. Johnson's elaborate tribute to Prime Minister Pearson on the second morning of the conference. Mr. Johnson had done that once before, at a press conference during a federal-provincial conference on tax sharing in the autumn of 1966. That time the kind words for Mr. Pearson were a warm-up for a vehement attack on Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, who was the key federal minister at the conference.

At that time domestic political considerations made it necessary for Mr. Johnson to go home from the conference looking like a winner, pleased with what Ottawa had conceded. So he could hardly wind up with a head-on denunciation of the federal government.

Diversionary Attack

Mr. Johnson got around that difficulty by giving Mr. Sharp a tongue-lashing, and finding a glaring contrast between Mr. Sharp's policies and those of Mr. Pearson's government.

This time again it was necessary for Mr. Johnson to go home looking like a winner. Once again, he was dependent on the federal government for the trophies — progress in bilingualism and the machinery of constitutional reform — that were to be carried back to Quebec in triumph.

But a Union Nationale leader, by definition, never gives a federal government an IOU, especially if the federal government is Liberal.

Mr. Trudeau, key federal minister at the conference, was the natural target. By praising Mr. Pearson, who is about to retire, Mr. Johnson gave the Liberals no blank cheque to be cashed in Quebec at the next federal election. Attacking Mr. Trudeau, architect of Liberal consitutional policy, he reserved his right to work against the federal Grits on the hustings.

Despite the euphoria in which the conference ended last week, the war between Quebec and Ottawa is still on.

The picture of federal policy that came through as tolerable in Mr. Johnson's television wrap-up of the conference had been heavily retouched.

He is not reconciled to the real federal position which Mr. Trudeau spelled out during the one open confrontation of the conference.

The agreement to set up "machinery" to revise the constitution does not imply any agreement on the sort of product the machine is expected to produce.

The other provinces are still being presented in Quebec as potential allies in Quebec's eventual showdown attack on federal power.

Mr. Johnson maintains more strongly than ever that Quebec need not choose between Levesque-style sovereignty and Trudeau-style federalism but can have the extra powers it wants without the risk of leaving confederation.

Expanding Horizon

But a start has been made toward language rights for French Canadians in the other provinces. And, no matter who gets the credit, that can only help widen the horizons of French Canada beyond the borders of Quebec.

A major and real grievance remains in the heart of Quebec itself. Thousands of French-speaking Quebecois are held back in their professional careers by the unnecessarily large place the English language has kept in the industrial and commercial life of the province.

But so far none of the advocates of sovereignty, or special status, has offered a convincing argument that a new constitution would give Quebec's government any more bargaining power, or any more courage, to deal with this serious problem effectively.

Letters to the Editor

Misplaced Criticism

As a Canadian I am probably placing myself between two sections of the United Kingdom in coming to the defence of the author on the death of the British Empire.

I found the article factual.

The criticism of your paper was quite unjustified and could have been put to better use by directing it to the noisy few who are still trying to make Canadians feel as if they were foreigners in their own country. — Len Skelton, 4068 Grange.

Puritan Outlook

To put the point briefly and bluntly—I think that the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council's decision to classify "The Doctor Speaks Out" as unacceptable for youths up to 18 years of age reflects poor judgment and an attitude which breeds ignorance of sexual matters so often shown by the "birth out of wedlock" figures we see today.

It is this stilted, puritan outlook which impedes the progress in these fields that teenagers are entitled to.—W. B. Hemmingsen, 3880 Ripon Road.

Regional Planning

It has been suggested recently that regional planning in Greater Victoria and surrounding areas should be transferred from the Capital Region Planning Board to the new Regional District Board, apparently in the belief that this will make regional planning effective after many years of frustrated effort.

While the authority which should control regional planning is of some importance, and the acceptance of this function by the Capital Region Board would appear to be a logical step, the most crucial matter is the division of responsibility between the Board and the member municipalities. We should bear in mind that detailed zoning is and should remain the responsibility of municipal councils as they are elected by and are responsible to those people most directly affected. They also have the best detailed knowledge of their local areas. An attempt should therefore be made to define the principal aims and objectives in regional planning with a view to establishing a division of responsibility which will allow regional aims to be attained while preserving the zoning rights of the municipalities as far as possible.

The most immediate aim of regional planning in this area should be to maintain a reasonable amount of open countryside for the enjoyment of all our citizens both now and for generations yet to come.

It would therefore seem reasonable to suggest that the basis of our regional planning should be the division of lands in the region into urban lands and non-urban lands; the latter including farmland, forests, wild areas, and regional parks.—Douglas Watts, 2285 Woodlawn.

Protecting Consumers?

By MAURICE WESTERN from Ottawa

Western

MR. JOHN TURNER, speaking of preparations for the "chequeless and cashless society," has urged a bill of consumer rights to be implemented at this time of constitutional change. Among the rights which the minister is anxious to entrench is the opportunity for consumers "to choose among similar products, with information available on what each involves and contains."

Cashless citizens will accordingly be interested in a recent change authorized by Parliament at the urging of one of Mr. Turner's colleagues while the minister's attention was diverted, presumably by his new departmental responsibilities.

Speaking on the same day, Miss LaMarsh alerted a House committee to what is in store for the television consumers of this troubled nation. The committee has arranged a full month of hearings on ETV which, at the moment, carries a $50 million price tag and was originally to have come to us through a supplementary estimate.

In the course of her remarks, Miss LaMarsh indicated that the government plans to open up the UHF band of channels for educational television. Existing sets, she explained, could be adapted for UHF at costs ranging from $25 to $50. While this should present no problem for educational institutions, Miss LaMarsh — possibly with the cashless society in mind — said that it might be "a detriment to achieving widespread public viewing at an early date."

Danger

One can see the problem. The CBC, presumably, is to give up education in order to devote more single-minded attention to its governing interests. When our present electronic marvels go, there is a danger that we may be tempted (by the "seductive appeals" which never cease to alarm Mr. Turner) to purchase replacements without UHF equipment. In this case we may have money in pocket — long enough to pay some other bills — but we will be proof against the continuing education to which we should all be exposed.

There was a time when the government might have been prepared to overlook such matters; when it might have felt that these details could be left to the citizen's own sense of responsibility. But events have proved to Miss LaMarsh that citizens are undependable; one has only to recall the manner in which they fouled up the plans of government and the electronics industry by their reluctance to buy high-priced color television sets.

The minister of culture, on this occasion, is taking no chances. As she told the committee: "The new Broadcasting Act includes, as an amendment to the Radio Act, a provision which would empower the governor-in-council to require that all television receivers offered for sale in Canada be capable of receiving both VHF and UHF channels."

Control of Sales

Indeed, the provision goes farther. The government is empowered to make regulations prohibiting or regulating the offering for sale of radio apparatus "of any class described in the regulation that does not conform to technical requirements established by the minister".

Fines are prescribed for any who transgress the regulations.

One can only hope that Mr. Turner can dissuade Miss LaMarsh from limiting us to color sets.

It is not clear how the plans of the minister of culture can be reconciled with "an opportunity to choose among similar products." But perhaps we should approach this matter from a different standpoint. What the government had done through the Broadcasting Act is a demonstration of how much we need a bill of consumer rights, preferably embedded in the constitution, to protect us against the acts of government. Mr. Turner obviously is a little late, too late to head off Miss LaMarsh but perhaps not too late to preserve some vestiges of our shopping freedom.

Looking Back

From the Times, Feb. 14, 1908.

Attorney - general Bowser has issued definite instructions to the inspector appointed under the new Natal Act to oppose the landing of 220 Japanese expected on the steamer Monteagle.

The Monteagle is due in port Saturday next and her coming will be watched with interest by Victorians.

The action of the attorney-general will be the means of testing the legality of the act. The general opinion is that the act will be found to be unconstitutional as being ultra vires of this province.

Theory Explains Why More Boys Born Than Girls

By JOHN NEWELL

(In Spectrum, British Science News Journal)

In terms of the survival of the human race, it is not difficult to understand why more boys than girl babies are born. For, contrary to popular opinion, men are the weaker sex.

They do not live as long, they suffer more from infectious disease, both as adults and children, and are more susceptible to shock, pain and fear than women.

For these reasons Nature has provided a male-to-female sex ratio at birth, over the whole world, of 0.5146; that is fifty one point four six per cent of all babies born are boys.

Artificial medical care is now, to some extent, doing away with the biological need for the excess of males over females, by allowing the more fragile members of the weaker sex to survive and mate. As one expert has recently written, "we are now heading for a world shortage of marriageable females."

While it is relatively easy to see the need for an excess of boys over girls at birth and to discuss the effects of abolishing that need, it is less easy to understand the mechanism which determines the sex ratio.

One theory which has been put forward is that the sperms which carry male characteristics are marginally lighter and swifter in movement than those which carry female characteristics, because the male sex chromosome, or Y chromosome, is smaller and lighter than the female X equivalent and so is more likely to achieve fertilization of the egg.

More Complex

But the latest theory to be developed, which has some experimental evidence to back it up is more complex. It has been proposed by the distinguished geneticist Professor C. D. Darlington, of the Oxford Department of Botany, together with three other Oxford zoologists and botanists, to account partly for the sex ratio.

Put simply, their idea is that more boy babies are born because the egg cells from which they develop are more foreign to the mother they develop within. There is, of course, a paradox here, which is that normally any human body tends to resist the presence of any foreign cell within it—the more vigorously the more foreign the cell is.

But there is now a good deal of experimental evidence that in fact this, resistant, so-called immune reaction, in which antibodies are formed in response to the presence of foreign proteins or antigens, actually aids the implantation of egg cells into the mother's womb after fertilization.

No one yet seems fully to understand how the antibody-antigen reaction aids implantation, but a number of workers have put forward evidence that this is so. Darlington suggests that, since the male cell contains more antigens than the female, it will be favored at implantation, and that this is the explanation of the sex ratio.

The thing which makes the male cells more foreign is their possession of the male sex chromosome, the Y chromosome. The genetic material carried on this is responsible for the production of the particular bits of the cell which make it male, and since the mother is female these constituents are foreign to her and so will tend to evoke an extra degree of immune reaction, which will not be present with female cells containing no Y chromosome.

Tip the Balance

This extra effect is bound to be small, because the Y chromosome is a tiny chromosome, but it could be sufficient to tip the balance in favor of the male eggs and so, to produce the sex ratio.

The evidence for the theory is as follows. The greater the similarity between male and female eggs in general the greater the effect of the Y chromosome might be expected to be, because its effect will remain constant.

In marriages between first cousins, blood relations, the genetic contributions of the parents are unusually similar, and so on Darlington's theory one would expect the Y chromosome to have an unusually strong effect and so the ratio of males to females born to be abnormally high.

Not only did Darlington find this to be so, when he investigated the offspring of a number of first cousin marriages, he also found that the ratio of male to female offspring increased still further when there had been marriages between blood relatives for three generations. This brought the sex ratio up to 0.61. And in some highly inbred communities, such as the Samaritan communities of Jordan and Israel, it has been found that the ratio rises to 0.62.

As Darlington and his colleagues say in a recent report, this evidence and its theoretical backing provides grounds for considering the immunological response to male eggs at implantation as one of a number of factors affecting the sex ratio at birth.

MINDSZENTY

Cardinal Confined For Life?

By GEORGE ARMSTRONG
The Manchester Guardian

A well-informed Vatican source says Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty probably now will never leave the United States Embassy in Budapest because the Hungarian government cannot get a guarantee from the Vatican that he would remain silent if he left Hungary.

The cardinal, after more than 11 years of self-exile in the embassy, has completed six books which the Hungarians would not like to see printed.

The late Pope John XXIII, and later Pope Paul VI, tried to persuade the Hungarian primate to come to Rome, in order that the Holy See might eventually be able to resume relations with the Hungarian government which would permit the appointment of new Hungarian bishops and a new cardinal.

Budapest promised that the cardinal would have safe passage if he left the country immediately, but the cardinal refused to budge. He thought of himself then as a symbol of resistance to the regime.

Last October, he packed his belongings, including the six manuscripts, and was about to walk out of the embassy. Franz Cardinal Koenig, of Vienna, who has visited him regularly as papal emissary and who was then in Rome, was informed.

He flew to Vienna to persuade him to stay because had he set foot on the pavement, without a previous agreement, he would have been put under house arrest.

Just as the Pope could not order him to leave Budapest, he cannot order him to remain silent. Various Catholic groups, particularly in the United States, would like to send the cardinal on a world-wide speaking tour. His presence in the American embassy is the only guarantee of the silence.

'Law Must Serve the People'

(Excerpts from a speech by Justice Minister Pierre Trudeau at the federal-provincial constitutional conference in Ottawa last week).

BELIEVED ON VERGE of declaring himself a candidate in the Liberal leadership contest, Justice Minister Trudeau was right-hand man of Prime Minister Pearson at last week's constitutional conference.

Perhaps a good place to begin is to ask what role we think the law should play in Canada? Is it to be, as it so often now seems to be, little more than a set of rules which regulate our activities; a body of statutes and judicial decisions which act as precedents for our conduct? Do we give the impression of persons constantly looking backward over our shoulders, attempting to see what was done in the past?

The law by its definition is static; rather than serving us, we find that it controls us. It is a rigid framework within which we must remain, an inflexible harness which binds us to the status quo and intimidates our attempts at change. Surely this is not the proper role of the law.

Properly employed, law is the instrument which will permit the preservation of our traditions and the pusuit of the ideals which our society cherishes.

Individual Dignity Most Basic Ideal

These ideals, or values, are many, but the most basic of them, I suggest, are the freedom and the dignity of the individual. If we, as individuals, do not have the opportunity to stand erect, to retain our self-respect, to move freely throughout our country unhindered by any artificial impediment, then we have not created in this land the political climate that we are capable of creating. We will not have made use of the law as we should.

We will have failed to understand that, in the words of one scholar, "History . . . is a tension between heritage and heresy, which law in its groping way seeks to mediate." Law properly employed, permits change without the loss of stability.

These were the thoughts, then, that guided us as we approached the question of constitutional change. That there is desire in Canada for change is evident by our presence here this week. But, as we all know, recognizing the demand, and adequately satisfying it, are quite different matters. How then should this task be approached? We are of the opinion, as the Prime Minister has stated, that any changes found necessary should be related to the basic ideals of Canadian life. What better place to start on constitutional reform, then, than by asserting the human freedoms to which we believe people in this country are entitled as of right?

Must Be Permanent To Be Effective

The Charter of Human Rights attempts to do that. It reflects the Government's proposal that we take steps to recognize and protect the most fundamental of our social values. It also reflects the Government's view that this recognition and protection will be effective only if they apply to every Canadian in a permanent—and that means constitutional—fashion. To achieve this goal will require co-operation among the several governments.

In short, it is our belief that this charter is not only a good thing in itself, but that it forms the path for an orderly reform of our Constitution.

What we are proposing is scarcely revolutionary. Men have sought to protect their individual human rights for centuries. They have sought to protect them from kings, princes and governments. Philosophers in ancient times argued that man was possessed naturally of certain rights which distinguished him from animals, and that any denial of these rights was an affront to "natural" law. More modern philosophers have argued that governments are the instruments of the people and cannot possess, or exercise, powers which are a denial of the individual's liberty and dignity unless the people expressly agree,

Bill of Rights Paved the Way

In England, in France, in the United States and, since World War II in virtually dozens of countries, the representatives of the people have chosen to speak out in favor of the individual person and guarantee to him the essential ingredients which will permit him the opportunity to live in freedom and dignity. In this country, in 1960, at the suggestion of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Parliament gave unanimous approval to a Canadian Bill of Rights, which has paved the way for what we now propose: a Charter of Human Rights for Canadians which will act as a fetter on the unlimited exercise of power not only of Parliament, but of the provincial legislatures as well, and which by its place in the Constitution will possess a measure of permanence not now attaching to the 1960 bill which is in the form of an ordinary statute, subject to repeal at will.

In this Charter of Human Rights we propose that rights of four different categories be constitutionally protected: political rights—such as freedom of expression, freedom of conscience and religion, freedom of assembly and association; legal rights—such as security of life, liberty and property, the presumption of innocence, the right to be protected against self-incrimination; egalitarian rights—the right not to be discriminiated against in employment, use of public services or accommodation and the like on the ground of race, national origin, color, religion or sex; and finally linguistic rights—guaranteeing to Canadians the right to communicate with government institutions, and to be educated in either the English or the French language, as they choose.

'Willing to Surrender Some of Our Powers'

I wish to make it clear that in proposing this measure there is no suggestion that the federal government is seeking any power at the expense of the provinces. We are stating that we are willing to surrender some of our power to the people of Canada, and we are suggesting that the provincial government surrender some of their power to the people in the respective provinces. It is because we are a federal state, with competence to legislate divided between provincial governments and the federal government, that we must all act in order effectively to protect all of the rights of all of the people.

Admittedly, some aspects of these rights fall within the exclusive competence of Parliament, some aspects fall within the exclusive competence of the provinces, and some are subject to shared competence. There is no intention that the federal government intends to use its criminal law powers as a means of invading provincial jurisdiction.

Most Fall Under Federal Jurisdiction

Indeed quite the contrary. An examination of the categories of all fundamental rights however described, for which we propose protection, reveals that the bulk of them fall now under federal jurisdiction. This means that in this process of surrender of powers that we are proposing, Parliament will be giving up far more than will the provinces. There is no transfer, no delegation, no encroachment from one level of government to another. The items in the charter which are properly within provincial jurisdiction remain there and remain subject to provincial and not federal sanctions. Some items, particularly those involving linguistic rights, will require co-operation. It is evidence that a single, constitutional Canadian Charter of Human Rights is required to deal adequately in this federal state, Canada, with the protection of human rights.

'We're Not Innocent Of Book-Burning'

I have been asked what need there is in Canada for a bill of rights. My answer is that our need may not be so great as is that of persons in some other countries. But my answer as well is that we should not overemphasize our righteousness. We are not in this country innocent of book-burning or banning legislation, of deprivation by law of previously guaranteed minority language rights, or legal expropriation which at times appears to be more akin to confiscation, of persons arrested in the night and held incommunicado for days. We have no reason to be complacent.

How many Canadians know that Canadian law permits evidence to be introduced by the police into criminal trials no matter how illegally that evidence may have been obtained? Apart from confessions, for which there are elaborate rules to ensure that they are voluntary, incriminating evidence is admissible in our courts no matter how obtained. It may have been gained by fraud; the law enforcement agencies may have stolen it; they may have obtained it without a search warrant, or by means of breaking and entering private premises. To the great credit of the police forces of this country, these tactics are seldom employed. But do we wish to live in a country where they may be employed? And where on occasion they are employed? Where one standard of conduct is expected of citizens and another permitted of government agencies? I do not, and it is my guess that the great number of Canadians do not.

Some Opposition From U.S. Experience

It is for this reason that I ask you to consider the inclusion in the Charter of Human Rights of some protection which the law does not now offer. And I ask you as well to consider that this is a Canadian charter, for Canadian circumstances. I am aware of the criticism from some quarters in the United States of some of the results of American civil rights legislation, and I am aware that some of the initial opposition in this country to a bill of rights was based upon the evidence of American experience.

It would be unfortunate if our criticism of some aspects of American society caused us to forget that there has been created in the United States one of the great legal systems of the world. In our natural desire to borrow some of what is good from that system, we should not be inhibited by those who warn us of what is bad. We are aware of some of its shortcomings; I simply say that the American precedent with respect to those shortcomings is not valid in Canada.

Our Police Enjoy Respect of People

Canadians are not prone to acts of violence. Our police enjoy on the whole the respect of the people. We find abhorrent the "shoot-to-kill" legislation which permits some policemen elsewhere to attack criminal suspects who are running away. Our courts function differently than those in many other countries. Canadian lawyers owe a duty not only to their client and to society but to the court as well for they are "officers of the court," and subject to the courts' contempt sanctions. They are also subject to the vigorous discipline of their own professional societies.

Criminal prosecutions are not generally in Canada a game between an elected prosecutor and a flamboyant defense counsel, as can happen elsewhere. The rules of procedure in Canadian courts differ from those, for example, in other countries, and the exclusion of evidence by an appellate court will not necessarily result in a quashed conviction and a repetition of the entire trial procedure.

In short, we should not underestimate the strengths of our society and assume that the public interest will automatically suffer if the interest of the individual is further protected.

You Can Tell the Baboons By the Way They Chatter

By ART STOTT

Stott

No doubt boyhood's impressions derived from Tom Brown's School Days and the Sir Henry Newbolt tradition—"There's a breathless hush in the Close tonight, ten to make and the match to win"—have conditioned me to consider cricket the most gentlemanly of all sports. I never played it, never watched it for more than five or 10 minutes at a time, and never understood it. But when spectators stage a riot at a test match, as they reportedly did in Kingston after the umpire called a West Indies local hero out, I'm disappointed.

The incident becomes more unseemly when you read that England's captain, appealing for calm, was struck on the legs by two bottles thrown from the gallery. (Is that "leg before bottle"?)

The uproar in Kingston isn't without precedent. If memory serves, Australian enthusiasts expressed similar chagrin a decade or so ago against English bowler Harold Larwood, whose deliveries threatened to maim batsmen. Body-line bowling, roughly comparable to "bean-ball" pitching by a baseball player, became a cause celebre—and they smuggled Larwood off the train before he arrived at one city where indignant cricket faithful had prepared a rousing reception for him.

Still, if the fans won't stay orderly at cricket matches, at what other game will they behave? Soccer, in parts of the world other than Latin America, has frequently been an excuse for mayhem. And even in this community some school rugby encounters have led to raised eyebrows, dander, fists and boots.

★ ★ ★

Some contests invite spectator vocal participation. It has always seemed to me that baseball is granted a special dispensation in this respect. The crowd calls can even be engaging if they're inspired by wit. And in the classical days of the Brooklyn Dodgers, sports page readers had reason to wonder, on occasion, which was the main entertainment feature, the playing of "dose bums" or the antics of the bleachers.

But there comes a time when crowd behavior needs quelling and when some thought should be given to a certain rudimentary sportsmanship that can be reasonably expected from those who gather to see games.

In an age that seems far distant now, we were under some restraint at Oak Bay High to behave reasonably well at inter-school fixtures. Our teachers did not insist, as those at University School did then, that we limit our sideline comments to "Played, school, played," or a polite round of applause. At the same time, if we brought discredit on the school by unseemly conduct as spectators, we heard about it the next day—and people like the late Gordon Downes, who was Oak Bay principal, had the vocal power and the diction to be impressive.

It seems to me that we've reached a point in sport where a little conditioning of the young is required to make them acceptable as onlookers at games when they grow up, at least chronologically. Heaven help us if we damp down the enthusiasm of youngsters to the point where they cease to yell encouragement for their team. But encouragement for a team is something quite different from vilification of an opponent or plain bad-manners to a referee or other officials—except, of course, in baseball.

A permissive society may accept the idea that self-expression is valuable for the spectators, but not to the point where the self-expressing destroy the enjoyment of others attending an event. It's largely a forgotten word now, but there is such a thing as deportment. Perhaps the noun should be revived.

The young, I believe, would be amenable. I speak from some experience. On a distant day, the late F. Ashley Sparks refereed a rugby game in which I played. In the course of it, he had occasion to whistle me down for an infraction. I disagreed with his decision and let him know my opinion in a few ill-chosen remarks. At that point I left the game. Years later Mr. Sparks became a good friend—and among his many companionable conversations, I counted highly his quiet and authoritative comment on the undesirability of hoodlumism in sport.

And I remember, but cannot print, an effective demonstration given by Horace Goad during a city championship rugby match in which one of the supporters of his team had bellowed distracting comment to an opponent trying to kick a penalty goal.

Horace raced to the sideline and told his team backer where the Goad fist would reach into the spectator's throat if he ever did that again. The spectator was chastened.

We need more of the same if sport is to retain sportsmanship. And the place to begin is with the young. The older rowdies seem beyond reform.

WINNIPEG (CP) — A somewhat broader export interest in nearly all commodities featured trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Most of the activity was in oilseeds and rye with a highlight being the reported sale of 56,000 tons of Canadian wheat to Japan and indications that more than a cargo of wheat had been taken by Britain.

Flax showed underlying firmness and North Korea was credited with taking 1,200 tons. Some activity was noted in rapeseed where a parcel lot was reported sold to Japan.

Oats trade was light and domestic.

Rye reflected upturns in Chicago.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat all were unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP)—Corn futures advanced 1¼ on the Board of Trade today, influenced by a possible cut in acreage in the 1968 crop.

●

After three days of severe pounding the New York stock exchange staged a rebound today.

Trading was heavy as the market, embarked on a technical rally from an oversold condition, was subjected to selling on news that a U.S. navy plane was shot down by the Chinese and a call for economic controls by chairman William Martin of the U.S. Reserve Board.

Following the trend on Wall St. the Toronto market rallied in light activity.

Share prices also staged a comeback at Vancouver in forenoon trading.

AT TORONTO uraniums carried the day in the base metals section. Denison was up 4½ to 68½, Rio Algom 2¾ to 32¼ and Roman Corp. 2½ to 21½.

Central-Del Rio paced the western oils advance, gaining 1½ to 18⅞. Great Plains climbed 1¼ to 18¼ and Husky and Banff 1⅛ each to 20½ and 14.

In industrials, Pembina Pipe Line rose 1 to 15¾ and West Coast Transmission ⅞ to 23⅛. Beaver Lumber gained 1¼ to 44¾ and Moore Corp. 1 to 27½.

AT NEW YORK steels and motors were mostly higher. Gold mining issues encountered some profit taking on Tuesday's strength. Glamor stocks, clobbered in recent sessions, snapped back.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange appeared to withstand the news shocks even better.

AT MONTREAL Royal Trust retreated 1⅝ to 16⅜ with Hudson Bay Mining and Levy Industries both losing one point to 55½ and 29 on slight turnovers.

AT LONDON the stock market appeared uncertain today despite optimistic remarks made by the governor of the Bank of England.

Industrials were mixed and gilts fell back after an early rise, but maintained some of their gain.

AT VANCOUVER trading remained quiet, but gains far outnumbered losses, with mining issues showing the most consistent increases.

Churchill Copper was trading at $2.40, up .25 from Tuesday's close. Magnum Consolidated was up .12 to $1.75, Hurley River .12 to $1.30, Lornex .10 to $7.25 and Brenda .15 to $7.85.

Oil Import Program Set by U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian crude oil may be imported at a daily rate of 415,000 barrels for the first seven months of this year, Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said in releasing the terms of the mandatory U.S. oil import program.

The allocations were made much later than usual and for only six months, reflecting assorted problems.

The allocation for Canadian oil in the vital area east of the Rockies is 280,000 barrels daily compared with actual deliveries last year of about 245,000 barrels.

The 1967 forecast was 225,000 barrels but the Middle East war helped increase it.

The figure reflects the U.S. approval given this year for construction by a U.S. subsidiary of the Interprovincial Pipe Line Co. of a new line into the Chicago market.

The level of 280,000 barrels daily represents private Canadian producer agreement not to take advantage of the new pipeline with exports that would stir resentment among U.S. counter parts.

On the West Coast, Udall said, Canadian overland deliveries will be 135,000 barrels daily compared with last year's allocation of 144,000 and actual deliveries averaging about 195,000. This again is attributed to delivery disruptions working in Canada's favor due to the Arab-Israeli war and the closing of the Suez Canal.

But the smaller allocation for the first half of 1968 is also a token of rising competition west of the Rockies from Alaskan oil.

Udall said he will announce by March 15 a proposed plan for crude oil and some other categories of imports "which, following public comment and review, will provide the basis for allocations in the latter part of 1968."

Compromise Gas Proposal Gains Approval by U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. Federal Power Commission moved half-way Tuesday toward settling a stalemate with Canada over the price of additional imports of Western Canada natural gas on the West Coast.

The National Energy Board of Canada still has the settlement offer before it.

The commission said it approves the import of an additional 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily—making 500,000,000 if Canada agrees—by the El Paso Natural Gas Co. from Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. of Vancouver.

The price would be 30.5 cents a thousand cubic feet—with provision for a once-cent increase Nov. 1, 1972. This compares with the commission's stipulated maximum last year of 29.5 cents a thousand feet and no increase over the 20-year life of the contract.

The Canadian board, having approved a price higher than that for the export, balked at the U.S. price.

The El Paso-Westcoast compromise followed.

The commission in its ruling noted the testimony of a "critical need for the increased gas supplies." It thereupon rejected a proposal from its staff members that the additional imports be rejected unless the figure was at its originally-set price.

It said it did so after analysis "in the light of all the relevant factors" but said that this approval "in no way lessens the obligations of El Paso to take steps to provide for future firm requirements of natural gas for this region as they develop on reliable and reasonable terms."

Further, it said, the latest ruling "does not constitute a recognition of any principles which may underlie it."

The commission had said one reason for rejecting the first price offered for the Canadian gas was that it was higher than customers of Westcoast in British Columbia were paying.

City Club's Choice Wins World Honor

A world organization of marketing executives will recognize Canada's super salesman Jean Drapeau at a Mexico City congress in May.

The mayor of Montreal will be named businessman of the year by the congress of Sales and Marketing Executives International Association in recognition of his success at urging, organizing and promoting Expo 67.

Mayor Drapeau was nominated by the Victoria branch of Sales and Marketing Executives Club, apparently without opposition by any other club.

"It is a privilege and honor for us to have our nomination accepted," said Victoria president Norman L. Ross, a vice-president of Ker and Stephenson Ltd.

"Here was a man who had done a tremendous job of work for Canada and we thought he should be recognized for his contributions."

This "tremendously active and enthusiastic man" drew travellers from around the globe to Man and His World, which racked up more than 50 million individual visits during its six-month run.

Mr. Ross said there would be unifying effects from the nomination of a Canadian from the French-speaking part of the nation by a branch of the association at the opposite end of the country in thoroughly English-speaking Canada.

Mayor Drapeau will accept his title at a Canadian businessmen's luncheon to be attended by about 1,200 delegates from the Western nations in the new Maria Isabelle Hotel, May 28. The congress runs May 24-29.

Tax Tips

By P. J. KELLY

Q. What if I didn't receive a personalized return?

A. If you did not receive a personalized return or if you have lost it, you can get an ordinary type return at your local post office or taxation office. If you have spoiled your labelled return, transfer your identification code number to an ordinary return, entering it just above the blocks for your name.

Q. What shall I do if my address has changed since last year?

A. If your name or address is now different, be sure to make the necessary changes and do this in the "correction" area immediately below the label. Also be sure it is the labelled return that you send to the data centre. If your address has changed since filing and you have claimed a refund on your tax return, write to your district taxation office informing them of the change. Many refund cheques are delayed each year as a result of taxpayers changing their address after filing.

GM to Spend $1 Billion On Big Expansion Plan

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. will spend about $1 billion this year building new plants and improving old ones, the world's largest manufacturer announced Tuesday.

GM board chairman James M. Roche, in a news conference held on the release of the company's annual report, said most of the new spending would be done in the U.S.

The annual report confirmed preliminary estimates that GM profits fell by $166 million during 1967, the second straight year of decline from the record level of 1965.

Roche told reporters that only "20 to 25 per cent" of the 1968 capital expenditures will be made outside the U.S.

Roche said the sudden switch of Semon E. "Bunky" Knudsen who left GM as an executive vice president to become president of rival Ford Motor Co., will have no impact on GM's long-range plans.

"We could not make changes if we wanted to," he said, "and that applies to both Ford and Chrysler," on the models for the next two or three years. He said Knudsen was a "man of integrity."

"While his knowledge may have an influence on decisions he may have to make I'm sure he's not busy sketching every detail of our plants," Roche said.

He admitted that Knudsen, in his former position, had access to "most of GM's styling plans.

Roche also defended GM against industry critic Ralph Nader, who said the major firms were charging an inflated price for shoulder harness belts required as of Jan. 1 by U.S. law. GM increased the prices of its 1968 cars by $22 per car when the belts became mandatory.

Roche said the price increase was not intended to cover just the belts, but increases in labor and material costs as well.

STEALING THE SCENE

Russian goalie Victor Kolovalenko appeared surprised when Sweden's Tord Lundstrom seemed ready to steal goal during Olympic hockey game Tuesday. Lundstrom was merely trying to halt his forward progress during the Swedish attack. Konovalenko was one of big scene-stealers as Russians squeezed out 3-2 victory to extend unbeaten record. THAT'S PUNCH

Coldest Hand In Hot Chase

By The Canadian Press

Some truths could be brought home in the National Hockey League tonight.

Coach Punch Imlach says his Toronto Maple Leafs are a great home team and he could find out if he's right when Montreal Canadiens, leaders of the Eastern Division, visit the Gardens.

Bobby Orr won't be on defence for Boston Bruins—he's out for about five weeks after a cartilage operation Monday—and coach Harry Sinden could find out just how important the 19-year-old Parry Sound, Ont., youngster is to Bruin plans when they are host to Chicago Black Hawks.

And coach Billy Reay of Chicago could be reminded, again, of a possible off-season faux pas when his club faces former Hawks Phil Esposito, Fred Stanfield and Ken Hodge, now in Boston uniform.

IN TIGHT DUEL

The truths could all cause considerable pain, depending on your point of view, to each of the coaches except possibly Toe Blake of Montreal whose Canadiens hold a five-point edge over Boston in the eastern standings.

Chicago and Boston are locked in a duel, a point apart, for second place while the Leafs are battling to get back into the playoff picture.

They are four points behind fourth-place New York Rangers following a near-disastrous seven-game road trip during which they managed only a win and a tie.

AMPLE SUPPORT

But the man with the coldest hand in the hottest race is Imlach, who faces the task of generating some momentum in an attack that has gone sour with the team that last year won the Stanley Cup.

He has ample support for his contention that Leafs are a home team. They have won only seven of 28 games on the road this year, but they're 16 for 25 in Maple Leaf Gardens.

Unfortunately for Imlach, the Canadiens have lost only one of their last 15 games.

On top of that he has rebellion in the ranks with winger Jim Pappin home in Sudbury sitting out a suspension for refusing to report to Rochester of the American League and defenceman Tim Horton is nursing an ankle injury that has sidelined him for everal games.

Braulio Baeza Will Receive Jockey Award

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Braulio Baeza, the Panamanian who has been United States national money winning rider the last three years, was announced Tuesday as winner of the George Woolf Memorial Jockey award.

Baeza will receive his trophy Feb. 22. The award, voted by turf writers covering the Santa Anita winter meeting, honors a rider for a career which reflects credit to the race-riding profession.

Woolf, a native of Cardston, Alta., died in a racing accident at Santa Anita in 1946.

Baeza, 27, last season rode mounts that won $3,088,888. In three years his mounts have earned more than $8,600,000.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Secretary Wendy Merluk filed away neat 868 total to capture women's fivepin award in annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest. Wendy, a B.C. government employee, repeated former victory by rolling games of 331, 305 and 232 in Classic League at Town and Country Lanes.

COST-OF-LOSING INDEX RISING FOR GRID LIONS

VANCOUVER (CP)—It cost the British Columbia Lions $100,000 more to finish in the basement of the Western Football Conference in 1967 than it did in 1966.

The club's financial report which will be presented at its annual general meeting February 18 shows a net loss of $111,270 on operations in the Canadian Football League in 1967.

In 1966 they lost $9,732 while finishing in the league cellar.

The loss represents about one-quarter of the club's operating surplus at the start of the year and leaves it with a surplus of $334,270 as of December 31.

The bulk of the 1967 loss came from extra coaching, player and travel expenses.

BONUS SYSTEM

Soccer League Puts Emphasis on Attack

Vancouver Royals of the North American Soccer League, who play Bonsucesso of Brazil in an exhibition game at Royal Athletic Park tonight, should be attempting to build a high-scoring club.

Royals learned this week that the professional circuit decided this week at a New York meeting to determine its team standings with a system emphasizing offence.

That is the system used last season by the National Professional Soccer League in which six points were awarded for a victory, three for a tie, none for a loss and bonus points for each goal up to three.

The United Soccer Association, which combined with the NPSL recently, used a conventional system without bonus points.

FANS WANT GOALS

But owners of the league's teams felt fans want the emphasis on offence, a spokesman said.

It also was decided to set up Western Conference headquarters in the San Francisco area, while the Eastern Conference office will remain in New York.

A 32-game schedule for each team was also approved. The season opens on March 30 and ends Sept. 8.

SECOND START

When they trot out at Athletic Park tonight at 7:30, the Royals will be starting their second preseason exhibition match.

Coach Ferenc Puskas, assembling a club from 23 players from 10 countries, got his first look at the Royals under game conditions last Sunday at Seattle.

He said he was satisfied with their efforts as they squeezed out a 1-0 win over Bonsucesso but added that he expects greater cohesion and efficiency tonight.

Macs, Lions to Skip Senior Hoop Playoff

Coffee Macs finished in first place of the Victoria Senior Men's Basketball League but won't be around for the playoffs.

Only three teams will take part in the double round-robin tournament Saturday and Sunday at the University of Victoria.

Macs find themselves in the position of having been abandoned by their top players—Bill Spotswood, Ken Gregory and Darrell Lorimer—who will play for Labatts in the playoffs. Without this trio the Coffee crew couldn't floor a competitive club.

TURN DOWN OFFER

Red Lion Inn, winner of only three games out of 28, turned down the chance to substitute for the league champions and left the field open to Colony Inn, Farmer Construction and Labatts to compete for the right to represent the Victoria area in the Island playoffs.

If after the six games are completed there is a three-way tie a points-for and against average will dictate the winning club. In the event any two clubs are tied the best points spread in the two games involving those clubs will belong to the winner.

A sudden death playoff will result only if this point spread is identical.

Hassle of Hot Runners Keeps Heat on Officials

Scandinavians Continue Nordic Skiing Dominance

GRENOBLE, France (CP)—Politics and protests and the continued dominance of Scandinavians in Nordic men's skiing focussed main attention on the Winter Olympic Games today. And there was Jean-Claude Killy.

Organizers of the 10th Games were threatened with a mass walkout of competitors in the luge sled events unless the entire East German team—men and women—is disqualified in a squabble over a hot runner.

West German bobbers took their appeal for a gold medal a step further and were turned down a second time. The International Bobsled Federation refused to reverse an Olympic decision that Italy won the two-man gold and West Germany the second-place silver although both countries were tied in combined times.

Scandinavians scored a sweep in the men's 40-kilometre 25-mile cross-country skiing relay race. Norway's four-man team won the gold in two hours, eight minutes, 33.5 seconds. Sweden, the defending champion, placed second and Finland third.

Erhard Keller of West Germany won the first men's speed skating gold in the 500 metres with a clocking of 40.3 seconds. Defending champion Terry McDermott of the United States and Magne Thomassen of Norway had identical 40.5 times and each got a silver.

Soft Surface Delays Luge Singles

Killy, the 24-year-old French world champion, easily won his first qualifying heat in the men's giant slalom and took a moment to term the system "ridiculous."

Killy completed the first two legs of an Alpine triple by winning the downhill and slalom golds earlier. Many observers are calling these Games Killy's Olympics.

The Canadian team finished 14th in the 40-kilometre race and in the speed skating, Bob Boucher of Winnipeg posted the best Canadian placing—25th.

France and Norway had the most gold, three each, among the 19 awarded so far. The luge singles were postponed again because of a soft surface, leaving only the pairs figure skating final still to come in today's program.

NANCY WINS SILVER

Canada's first medal, a silver one, came Tuesday when Nancy Greene finished second in the women's slalom.

And the Canadian hockey team beat the Czechs 3-2, and if it can next beat Sweden and Russia, it will win a gold medal.

Coach Jackie McLeod said he has reminded the players in strong terms at two meetings that they are here for gold—nothing else.

In skiing, Miss Greene picked up Canada's first points when she came home just 29-100ths of a second behind Marielle Goitschel of France in the women's slolom Tuesday. The 24-year-old Rossland, B.C., will have one more chance for the gold in the giant slalom Thursday. She was 10th in the downhill.

The luge situation was heating up in more ways than one. Whether it will explode into a major political and sporting argument wasn't clear at this stage.

Nine countries including Canada and the U.S. signed a petition to be discussed by the organizers today calling for the entire East German luge team to be disqualified.

"We are leaving the door open," said U.S. team manager David G. Rivenes. "We don't want to compete with them, but we plan to continue even if they are not barred."

HEATED RUNNERS

The East German girls were booted out of the Olympics after being turned in for heating the runners of their luges—illegal under Olympic rules instituted since 1964.

The International Luge Federation jury, after an emergency session, disqualified Ortrun Enderlein, the defending Olympic women's champion, Anna Maria Mueller and Angela Knoesel.

Miss Enderlein was the leader in women's luge singles. Misses Mueller and Knoesel were second and fourth, respectively.

A number of luge countries thought the penalty wasn't stiff enough—that all of East Germany's lugers should have been barred.

Canadian luge coach Paul Levesque of Montreal said eight countries had signed a petition threatening to withdraw from the luge unless the entire East German toboggan team was ousted.

Levesque said Canada, West Germany, Poland, Austria, Italy, Spain, Argentina and the United States had signed the petition Tuesday.

"We are not protesting because it is the East Germans. It just happens to be the East Germans in this case."

Levesque recalled that there had been a similar incident in world luge competition last year and an East German was disqualified.

"I was assured that it would never happen again, and now look at what has happened here."

ADN, the East German news agency, in a report from Grenoble, said the accusations were a "carefully prepared West German plot ... a new, desperate attempt to damage the reputation of the German Democratic Republic."

"The decision is final," a luge federation official said of the girls' disbarment.

CANADIANS WIN

Dropping Door Cools Czechs

GRENOBLE, France (CP) — Canada's hockey team literally opened the door to an historic win—perhaps an Olympic medal—at 14:40 of the third period in a game against Czechoslovakia Tuesday night.

At that moment the Czechs looked dangerously close to getting the tying goal in a 3-2 game and the Canadians seemed to be running out of legs.

Just then, during a change of lines, the door to the Canadian bench fell off its hinges on to the ice. Repairmen had to be summoned to mend the hole in the heavy plastic rink boards.

In the seven minutes taken for the job, the Czechs cooled off and the Canadians had time to regroup and reorganize.

Coach Jackie McLeod instructed his players to drop back into a more defensive role, with only one man instead of two going in to forecheck.

The tactic worked and Canada held on to beat Czechoslovakia 3-2 for the first time in world or Olympic hockey since 1960. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen defeated the Czechs 4-0 at the Squaw Valley, Calif., Winter Olympics that year.

Goalie Ken Broderick said beating the Czechs has given the team a mental lift before playing the Swedes Thursday and the Russians Saturay.

"We're past a big obstacle," he said. "Czechoslovakia has always been the one that slowed us down."

What's more, it was a clean, undisputed win in contrast to Czechoslovakia's 2-1 victory in 1966 and the 1-1 tie in the 1967 world tournament, which featured disallowed Canadian goals and an uproar afterwards.

Some Soviet observers didn't think the Russians played their best game in defeating Sweden 3-2 Tuesday, but the defending champions showed they still have a strong enough defence to back up the forwards when they need help. The winning goal was scored by defenceman Vic Blinov.

The Russians play the Czechs Thursday. Sweden's game against Canada also is on that day and the Swedes and Czechs clash Saturday.

The Canadians have an outside chance at the gold medal, but more likely there will be a battle for the silver for second place.

Russia leads the eight-country tournament with five wins and 10 points.

FIGHT FOR SECOND

Canada, Sweden and Czechoslovakia are deadlocked for second place, each with four victories in five starts and eight points.

Fran Huck, Roger Bourbonnais and Ray Cadieux scored three goals in 10½ minutes in the second period.

Huck, 22-year-old student from Regina, broke a scoreless tie in the third minute after intercepting a wayward Czech pass.

Almost six minutes later Bourbonnais made it 2-0 with a wrist shot. Then Huck set up Cadieux and the Winnipeg-based chartered accountant made no mistake, firing a screened shot past Vlado Dzurila.

The Czech goalie had 22 saves while the busier Broderick made 32.

CANUCKS EXHAUSTED

The Canadian players were dog-tired after two periods and the final session wasn't a minute old when Jan Havel scored from close in. Czech supporters had even more to shout about when Broderick failed to hold on to a shot from Jiri Holik and Vaclav Nedomansky rapped it in a minute after Havel's goal.

The Czechs desperately tried to salvage a tie, pulling Dzurila out in the last minute for an extra forward.

The American and Finnish referees called just two penalties in the game, one to each club in the first period.

The Swedes were tough against the Russians, playing them to a standstill for almost 2½ periods.

Anatoly Firsov opened the scoring for Russia in the first period only to see Carl Oberg tie it up. The second period was scoreless.

Firsov broke the tie at 7:15 of the third period and the Swedes were shorthanded when Russia scored the winner two minutes later.

Time was running out when Sweden's Bletnart Svedberg stickhandled in alone and blasted a shot past goalie Victor Kovalenko.

WINTER GAMES GREAT BUT FLOP AT THE GATE

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — Competitively and artistically it may be a success, but financially the 10th Winter Olympic Games are turning out to be a bust.

"We had expected 40,000 people a day," expláined a Grenoble city official. "Frankly, we had that many opening day and last Sunday, but the rest of the time we have run far below expectations."

Ticket sales for the Olympic events are also runing far below the 1964 attendance at Innsbruck. While the figure skating and important hockey games in the 12,000 seat Stade de Glace are officially sold out, the outdoor events have had sparse attendance generally.

"We didn't sell many advance tickets for the outdoor events," commented Claude Esperandieu, Olympic information chief. "Most of the French people wait to see how the weather is and if it is nice they will get on a bus at the last minute. If not, they stay home and watch it on television.

Olympic Cup Goes To Pan-Am Hosts

GRENOBLE (Reuters) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said in an interview with the BBC Monday night that the IOC will not tolerate open Olympics—in which professionals could compete.

"The games would be finished if we made them open to everybody," he said.

Brundage was answering a question about open tennis, which Britain, the U.S. and Australia have voted to support.

"The value of open sport is to the promoters and professionals," he said. "It is not for amateurs."

Brundage, who denied that the IOC has been beaten on the question of commercialism in sport, confirmed that the committee is going to stand firm on its ideals.

The IOC is not going to allow commercialism in any sport, and it will oust from the Games sports in which it finds commercialism, he said.

On the future of the Winter Olympic Games, Brundage said a special committee is being formed to investigate various aspects. It would look especially into commercialism.

He added that he believes the Winter Olympics now are too large, too expensive and too extensive.

The idea of the Olympic movement is for young people to live together during the Games, but in Grenoble there are a number of different villages, he said.

Adair won the championship Monday with an 11-15, 15-11, 15-9, 15-13 victory over McGill University junior Peter Martin.

Henri Salaun of Boston retained the veterans' title by defeating Vic Seixas of Philadelphia 15-11, 12-15, 15-9, 15-4.

KOVITS, BOSENCE, MUSGROVE LEAD INVASION . . . . . . OF SATURDAY MEET AT VANCOUVER

Victoria Fighters Making Bids for Provincial Judo Crowns

Black belts Gary Bosence, Bill Kovits and Paul Musgrove head the list of local fighters going to the annual B.C. open judo championships Saturday in Vancouver.

The championships will be held in the Garden Auditorium on the PNE grounds and are expected to draw the largest number of competitors ever.

Fighters are entered from clubs in Vancouver, Steveston, New Westminster, Comox, Campbell River, Nanaimo, Cowichan, Kamloops, Kelowna, Penticton, Prince George, Kent, Meridian, Seattle, Lethbridge and other Alberta points. Normally more than 30 clubs compete in the meet.

The tournament begins at 12 noon with official opening ceremonies at 7:30. Following these will be the final colored belt eliminations and the black belt contests.

Junior competitors (16 and under) will fight this year in four divisions: 75 pounds and under, 100 pounds and under, 125 pounds and under and over 125.

Senior contestants and black belts will use the Olympic weight system in determining matches. The weights are: 139 and under, 154 and under, 176 and under, 205 and under, and over 205.

Juniors representing Victoria are George Hutchinson, Greg Inouye, Wayne Tippett, Norm Lock, Jose Carmona, Mark Stewart, Ian Lave, Tom Burley, Roy Fox and Jim Grant.

Also fighting for Victoria are seniors Mike Page, Mike Barlow, Al Morgan, Pat Arnold, Nick Klinick and Chark Nipp.

In judo tournaments, colored belts—called mudansha or non-black belt holders—do not fight the black belts, called "yudansha" or black belt holders.

The colored grades are "kyu" grades, commencing with ungraded white, "mukyu," and working up to brown, "ikkyu." The colors are white, yellow, orange, green, blue and brown.

Following these are the black belt degrees. These are the "dan" grades, ranging from "shodan" (first degree) to "judan" (10th degree).

The grade of "judan" is almost never given. After fifth degree, "godan," there remains nothing physically to be learned about judo. From then on it becomes a way of life to the advanced "judoka," or student of judo.

Judo itself was founded in the 1880s by Professor Jigoro Kano, who, having found many techniques in ju-jitsu to be very harmful, refined the sport, eliminating those techniques which he found dangerous and substituting ones of his own.

In 1912 a selected 12-man judo team from Dr. Kano's own "Kodokan" school met a selected 12-man police ju-jitsu team in individual competition. This was the decisive test of judo. Failure would mean the complete loss of any public faith or support.

The judo team won 10 matches and tied the other two.

Since then it has gone on to become one of the world's fastest growing sports.

If enough women register for the Vancouver championships, the women's division will be revived. Going to Vancouver for this event will be Jan Charlton, Colleen Halliwell and Jackie Goode.

Club "sensei"—instructor—Y. "Lanki" Inouye, in evaluating Victoria's chances, said "I think we'll take first place in both junior and senior heavyweights.

"I don't know about the rest," he continued.

Asked about the black belts, he said, "Bill Kovits should take his division. Gary Bosence is always a very strong competitor and Paul Musgrove has a good chance if he manages to make the middleweight division."

PRESIDENT CLAIMS

Outlook Bright For Puck Loop

SEATTLE (CP) — President Al Leader of the Western Hockey League said Tuesday the circuit is in its healthiest financial condition ever, with attendance exceeding last year's pace and the outlook bright for next season.

If the National League should annex Vancouver it would hurt, said Leader, but: "I can't see them going for just one city."

"Next year we shall have Denver in, with solid financial backing. We then will have six cities — the proper number — all with good rinks and all with good-sized populations."

Loss of San Francisco and Los Angeles to the major league was expected to be a heavy blow to the WHL but Leader said those two cities, as WHL members, did not draw as well as San Diego and Vancouver are doing this season.

★ ★ ★

"We were sweating out Phoenix (the newest member)," said Leader. "It did not draw too well at first and we felt the test would come with the influx of tourists after the holidays.

There has been a real surge, with crowds up to 10,000. The wonderful thing this is we feel it is the residents, not the tourists, who are responsible.

"Seattle is up 10 per cent over last season. San Diego is doing even better than last season, when it set a league attendance record,

"Vancouver in its new rink has been averaging 8,000 to 9,000 a game, in spite of a home-ice jinx that has brought the Canucks only one victory in their own rink.

"The only city down in attendance is Portland and it has only a slight decrease. Portland is a solid hockey town."

SYNCHRONIZED MEETS

Swimmers Ready For Two Contests

Two major events in the field of synchronized swimming are on tap this coming weekend at the YM-YWCA pool and at the Centennial Pool in Colwood.

At the "Y" pool Saturday, the third annual Vancouver Island championships will be held.

At the Centennial Pool Sunday, provincial trials are scheduled for the first time on Vancouver Island. Top swimmers will represent B.C. at the Canadian championships next month in Winnipeg.

Some swimmers will compete in both meets although they are not connected.

No less than 94 girls will vie for honors Saturday. They range in age from 10 to 21, and represent clubs from Vancouver Island and the lower mainland. Figures events start at 2 p.m. and team events get under way at 7 p.m.

Admission is free to the afternoon performance, but a charge of 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students will be the price for the evening competition.

England's Win Hopes Shattered by Sobers

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) — After a sensational fifth day's play England was tottering at 19 for four in an attempt to score 159 runs for victory when insufficient light ended play Tuesday in the second cricket test against the West Indies.

The West Indies, 258 for five in the second innings at the start of the day, declared at 391 for nine with their captain, Gary Sobers, unbeaten on 113. This left England to score 159 in 155 minutes to win.

England's hopes were shattered in Sobers' opening over when Geoff Boycott and Colin Cowdrey were dismissed in the space of three balls without a run on the board. Ken Barrington and John Edrich were both dismissed with the score at 19 before Tom Graveney successfully appealed against the light.

One of the most dramatic days in test cricket history belonged almost entirely to Sobers, unquestionably one of the world's greatest cricketers. Almost single-handed he steered his team from the brink of defeat with his 365-minute innings.

England, after dominating the first four days, now faces an agonizing 75 minutes today. The first test was drawn.

AMERICAN LEAGUE BASEBALL TEAM . . . . . . ON FIELD NEXT YEAR

Seattle Voters Approve Domed Stadium

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle and King County voters endorsed a $40,000,000 bond issue for a domed, multipurpose stadium in a special election Tuesday and will field an American League Baseball team next year.

Contacted at their homes, Joe Cronin, American League president, and William Eckert, commissioner of baseball, said they are looking forward to the association with the Pacific Northwest.

"It will mean so much to the community ... I'm so happy about it," Cronin said.

"Simply wonderful news," said Eckert.

Both men were among the parade of sports figures who visited the area to give support ot the stadium issue. Others included Mickey Mantle, Y. A. Tittle, Carl Yastrezmski and Ron Santo, who grew up in Seattle.

Max Soriano, president of Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., the group awarded the baseball franchise, called passage of the proposal "a victory for the entire community."

Soriano said he and his brother, Dewey, outgoing president of the Pacific Coast League, would meet soon with William Daley, Cleveland industrialist and third principal stockholder, to consider ways of bringing other stockholders into the organization.

No site has been selected for the 55,000-seat stadium, but Joseph Gandy, chairman of the State Stadium Commission, said he hoped one could be announced in 30 to 45 days.

"We want to get started on this as soon as we can," Gandy said. "We are determined to have the finest stadium in the country but we are also interested in having it completed without undue delay. We would like to have it ready by the summer of 1970, if possible."

In the interim, the new team will play in Sick's Stadium, home of the PCL's Seattle Angels, which is to be enlarged for about 30,000 fans.

Both major professional football leagues have expressed interest in the area and Seattle is considered a good bet to get a franchise in the next expansion move.

Passage of the stadium issue climaxes a drive that began eight years ago. Voters turned down a $15,000,000 proposal in 1960 and a $38,000,000 issue in 1966.

'PENNY-PINCHING' ATTITUDES HIT

Library Agreement 'Near Collapse'

Greater Victoria's year-old intermunicipal library agreement tottered precariously on the brink of collapse Tuesday afternoon.

The agreement, signed with full ceremony little more than 12-months ago by Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Central Saanich and held together by only the slimmest thread, did teeter into its second year but on shaky feet.

Oak Bay Coun. Frances Elford, who is also a member of the library board, gave the somewhat shaky child of municipal politics the first hefty smack when she charged municipal governments of adopting a "penny pinching" attitude when it came to library costs.

"You appear to begrudge the expenditures required to carry on this educational facility," she said. "If the present attitude continues I can see no hope of a branch library in Oak Bay."

Coun. Elford was addressing a joint meeting of the Intermunicipal Committee and the library board called to discuss the 1968 proposed budget.

The board has asked for and will probably receive a $3.75 per capita grant from all municipalities involved in the library program, although final decisions have yet to be made by individual councils.

Oak Bay and Central Saanich have already agreed to go along with the $3.75 per capita fee, a 25 cent per capita increase over last year.

Mayor Hugh Stephen indicated that he resented the rebukes of Coun. Elford.

"The purpose of this meeting is to permit the Intermunicipal Committee to make a legitimate inquiry into library costs," he said. "I don't think anyone here is suggesting that money is being wasted. We are just trying to exercise the caution urged on us this year by the senior governments."

The mayor added that Coun. Elford's bid to raise the terms of the original agreement could prove disastrous to the joint venture.

He was commenting on a charge by Coun. Elford that the 6 per cent charge levied by the city for administrative services was excessive and harmful to the general operation of the library.

"I don't think any municipality should make any money out of a library," said Coun. Elford. "I am quite sure that library board is capable of running its own affairs and would suggest that you give us a one-year trial to see if we can administer the library satisfactorily."

As an alternative Coun. Elford suggested the appointment of a firm of consultants to study the situation and recommend whether Victoria should be responsible for some aspects of administration or whether the library board should function as an independent body.

The 6 per cent surcharge imposed by Victoria under the terms of the original agreement covers services rendered to the library by city hall staff members.

In 1967 the 6 per cent cost the library board $28,847.

This year, if the per capita grant remains at $3.50, those services will cost an estimated $29,209 and if the per capita rate increases to $3.75 the service charge will run to $31,345.

"The administration fee is based on all costs incurred by the library board except debt charges and rentals," Coun. Elford said: "We know that we could do the job much more cheaply if the municipalities would let the board run its own show and call for experts on a fee for service basis when they are required."

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis defended the city's 6 per cent fee for administrative services.

"When the agreement was being drawn up the city asked for a 10 per cent fee," he said. "That touched off considerable controversy and the fee was eventually cut-back to 6 per cent with all member municipalities agreeing at the time that the fee was fair.

"While I have every sympathy for Coun. Elford's case, I think it should be clearly stated that at no time did Victoria seek to keep unto itself the administration of the library. In fact city officials stated quite clearly several times that if any other municipality wanted to take over the administrative responsibilities the city would welcome the move."

Esquimalt Coun. Jerry Horne made one last plea for reason.

"I came here to discuss the $3.75 per capita grant," he said. "I am very concerned about the way the meeting has gone. I would hope that we can all go back to our respective councils ready to stress the need to increase the per capita rate.

"I know I intend to. As a school teacher I could never recommend that library services be reduced. I would leave council rather than do that."

Labor Code Changes Stressed

OTTAWA (CP) — Bryce Mackasey, newly-appointed minister without portfolio, said Tuesday the Liberal party has a moral responsibility to introduce legislation along lines suggested in the 1965 Freedman Report on a CNR dispute.

Mr. Mackasey, named last Friday to be acting labor minister during the absence from Ottawa of Labor Minister Nicholson, made the surprise statement while addressing a Canadian Labor Congress delegation.

The 300 union leaders, on hand for the CLC's annual brief to the cabinet, broke into applause.

"If management cannot in the next few months adopt the Freedman recommendations, then it is the moral responsibility of the Liberal party to transform them into legislation," he said.

Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg suggested in his report that unions should have a legal right to say how working conditions should be revised to adapt to automation. He also called for advance notice of technological change and protection of workers whose jobs are eliminated or adversely affected.

Industry, Labor Support Report

VANCOUVER (CP) — Key industrial and labor leaders in British Columbia generally favor the Nemetz report on labor relations that recommended broader use of binding arbitration to settle disputes.

The report, released Tuesday, suggested creation of a permanent panel of prospective conciliation board chairmen whose decisions would be binding.

It also suggested a labor court system, permanent inquiry commission, and strengthening of present conciliation services.

Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz of the B.C. Supreme Court said binding arbitration should be used primarily in the public sector of the economy, such as education and public safety. It already is used in these areas by some communities.

William Hamilton, chairman of the B.C. section of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, said, "I think society is coming to the conclusion that compulsory arbitration is needed."

Mr. Hamilton said labor negotiations are the only area where the principles exemplified in the courtroom do not apply.

Gerald Morris, general manager of the Vancouver Board of Trade, said his group advocates some form of public protection in health and safety fields.

On the court idea, he said, "I have no idea how a rigid setup of this kind could handle the volume of grievances that would arise." Mr. Nemetz' labor court proposal was a tribunal paid for by government, with findings made public.

Ray Haynes, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said many of the points in the report have been long-standing requests of the federation.

Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, said Mr. Nemetz has some good ideas, particularly in the appointment of mediators.

But he rejected the suggestion there should be extended compulsory conciliation in the public field.

"People in these fields won't like their wages kept at two or three cents decided by a board, while others in industry receive perhaps 20 cents."

Teamster Joint Council president Ed Lawson said, "I am in support of a number of his recommendations, but I hope the government will exercise sound judgment in bringing the parties together to discuss the matter."

'SPREAD FEAR'

U.S. Rejects Soviet Bid On N-Flights

GENEVA (Reuters) — The U.S. rejected Tuesday Communist bloc demands that it stop flights of U.S. nuclear bombers over the territory of other countries.

Alexei Roshcin, Soviet delegate to the 17-nation disarmament conference, said the U.S. violated the 1963 Moscow test ban treaty by flights such as the one last month in which a B-52 with four nuclear bombs crashed near Thule, Greenland.

U.S. delegate Samuel de Palma rejected the accusation as "without foundation."

Roshcin, backed by speakers from Poland, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria, said "who can guarantee that the next crash involving U.S. aircraft armed with nuclear weapons will not occur over a densely populated area?"

De Palma accused Roshcin of "gross exaggeration designed to inspire fear among those who do not have full access to the facts or the technical knowledge necessary to evaluate the facts."

University Way A Better Name?

Public Works Minister W. H. Chant isn't enthusiastic about plans to use a strip of the Empress Hotel lawn to widen the Causeway.

"I'd suggest more than a second look at it," the Victoria MLA told the legislature Tuesday night. "I'd suggest a third and a fourth look."

Mr. Chant also took aim at the name of Foul Bay Road, suggesting Unversity Way as a better name. He said he felt residents of the road would solidly back the new name.

Mr. Chant praised Victoria city councils of recent years for making civic improvements while keeping the tax rate at a reasonable level in spite of rising costs.

He said his department has $25,000,000 worth of projects planned or under way and that it is waging a major fight against inevitably rising costs.

The Victoria court house which was completed in 1962 at a cost of $14.35 a square foot would have cost about twice that much to build today, he said.

He said the labor cost factor in the construction industry rose seven per cent in one year and materials four per cent. Labor accounts for 60 per cent of building costs and materials for 40 per cent, he added.

If costs increase at a compound rate they will double in another 11 years, he warned.

DICTATOR Alfredo Stroessner of Paraguay has easily won re-election to another five-year term in a general election Sunday. His party also won absolute majorities in house and senate.

Vernon Man Killed By Gunman

VERNON (CP) — Police Set up roadblocks throughout the Okanagan Valley in the British Columbia southern interior early today, seeking a lone sniper who killed Albert Stanley Lane, 57, with two shots apparently fired at random.

Police said Mr. Lane, a heavy equipment salesman, was Standing at a counter in the shop where he had worked for 23 years when one shot smashed a light fitting and another bullet smashed through a partition and a ventilation pipe before ripping into his shoulder.

Police believe two shots were fired from a car, with the killer unaware anybody would be hit. The shots were believed to be about two minutes apart, with Mr. Lane killed while investigating the first one.

Officers said there was no apparent motive for the killing of Mr. Lane, who had a wife and four children.

CAN CREATE HAZARDS

Malicious damage to Hydro installations can cause power interruptions or create hazards to life and property.

BRIGHT-EYED YOUNGSTERS MAKE THE DARNDEST REQUESTS

If One Asks About 'Germ Warfare for Beginners' . . . Nab Him!

By JIM HUME

If you have any skeletons in your closet, look out.

There's at least one high school youngster in Greater Victoria seeking ways to preserve them.

The bright-eyed youngster, whether male or female isn't known, dropped into the young people's section of the Greater Victoria library the other day with a simple request: "Give me everything you have on the methods of preserving skeletons."

The library, as always when the request is reasonable, complied.

Other requests for information made the same day (the details are contained in a "day-at-the-library" report prepared by chief librarian Jack Lort) reveal some fascinating aspects of the reading habits of our often belittled teen-agers.

Along with the request for skeletal knowledge came a call for information on cosmic cells and the details on how to build a fuel cell.

Somebody thinking of starting from scratch to see if he can build a better man?

As adults so often say, "You just don't know what the kids are up to these days."

Tied in with the cosmic-skeleton business was a request for the Communist Manifesto and whatever books were available on contemporary Indian problems.

Ha, plotting a revolution in the quiet backwaters of Oak Bay.

Down in the pamphlet section, the requests for information were as varied as the youngsters asking the questions.

One wanted to know all about milk goats, how to breed, feed and raise them. Another wanted a leaflet on LSD and yet another a paper on VD.

•

And one budding tycoon sought all the available data on shipbuilding in Britain, thus serving notice to VMD and Yarrows that all is not lost in the shipyards.

Other requests on the day the survey of library-users' habits was taken included a demand for airline pilot training information, background on travel agents and occupational therapists.

Experts in the first two fields say the third request is essential if would-be pilots and travel agents are to remain sane.

Adults using the reference department the same day were pretty square when compared with the exotic and exciting selections made by the youngsters.

What were the grown-ups looking for while their children sought ways to pickle skeletons? Such sparkling tomes as The International Yellow Pages, the Standard Trade Index of Japan and the Financial Yearbook of Europe.

Could be a father and son team, of course. The youngster preserves the skeletons in the basement while dad looks after the shipping.

Adults did a little better in the general book circulation departments.

Library staffers there answered requests for Philippine rice recipes and a travel guide for Hawaii. The Pacific is obviously beckoning at least one family.

Other requests and guesses at the identity of the borrowers:

The British North America Act. Premier Bennett?

How to Build Dog Houses. The Association of Irate Housewives?

Leather Tanning. The mother of the lad looking for skeleton preservatives?

How to Make a Telephone. Eric Mallett, local manager of the B.C. Telephone Company?

Lip Reading Techniques. A joint loan made by members of the press corps covering the present legislative session?

Opportunities in New Zealand. Minister of Highways P. A. Gaglardi?

Text of "The Innocents." Opposition leaders Bob Strachan and Ray Perrault?

All these, says Mr. Lort in his report, are fairly simple requests handled on the average day by his staff.

•

The going gets a little tougher when they are asked for a book on carpentry "to buy for a friend building a home in northern B.C."

The library staff is always polite, but they can be forgiven if they think that request comes just a little late.

Nothing really perturbs the librarians. Requests for information on hypnotism, palmistry, yoga, sex or how to prune a tree are routine.

But how to preserve skeletons? Well, that is just a little scary, isn't it?

Especially if the average reader has as many hidden away as the average newspaper reporter.

FROST TRICKS DRIVERS

Four Injured In Collisions

Four persons were injured in traffic accidents on Greater Victoria streets early today.

A navy truck eastbound on Esquimalt Road skidded on frosty pavement just before 7 a.m. and collided head-on with a car.

Truck driver William Brander, 2579 Bowker, was treated for cuts. Esquimalt police report car driver Michael Dunn, 150 Egerton, was uninjured.

At 7:30 a.m., two men were injured in another head-on collision on Hillside near Grosvenor.

Police said an eastbound car driven by Giovanni Lepetrone, 904 Hillside, collided with a westbound car driven by Harald McLaughlin, 4574 Sumner Place.

BACK INJURIES

At press time, McLaughlin was being treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for back and shoulder injuries. A passenger, Don Andrew of 4456 Tyndall, was released after treatment for facial cuts.

At 7:45 a.m., a car went out of control and struck a tree at Shelbourne and Blair.

Driver Alide Hodder, 4385 Robinwood, is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital with head cuts.

The weatherman predicts morning frost on roads in the Victoria area for at least the next two days.

Lockheed Hires 12 Victorians

The big Lockheed shipyard in Seattle has signed up 64 Vancouver pipefitters and about a dozen from Victoria.

The figures were provided by officials of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Pipefitters in both cities.

The Seattle shipyard sent representatives to B.C. last week looking for 100 pipefitters to overcome a shortage which is preventing employment of other skilled trades, said a company spokesman.

A second American shipyard, Ingalls of Pascagoula in Mississippi, hired about 40 platers and pipefitters last month in Victoria and more from Vancouver.

14 RETURN

Fourteen of them have returned to B.C. already, expressing dissatisfaction with living conditions and tight security in the shipyard which is constructing a nuclear submarine for the U.S. Navy.

Four of the 40 hired in Victoria have returned, one of them because of a family illness.

Two of the others "didn't take kindly to the very strict security," said a union spokesman. But he added, everyone was told about security when recruiters were here.

Skilled shipyard and construction workers have been leaving B.C. because of the lack of work here.

Decision Delayed In Arbitration Of Mill Firings

Decision was reserved Tuesday in a labor arbitration case involving dismissal of two workers at Sooke Forest Products sawmill.

The case was taken to arbitration by the International Woodworkers of America, Victoria local. The two men, Darshan Singh Gill and Banta Singh Sihota, were discharged last November.

A decision is expected in a few days. The press was excluded from the arbitration hearing, held in Victoria Law Courts building.

Members of the arbitration board were B. W. Dysart, chairman; Allan Cox, company nominee; and I. D. Pal, union nomineee.

Brief Stoppage At Chemainus

There was a brief work stoppage at the MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. sawmill in Chemainus Tuesday affecting half a dozen men.

Company public relations officer Ted Stroyan said today it was a "contract revision dispute" affecting carrier drivers.

After a brief work stoppage the men met with management and the matter was resolved.

No pickets were put up and there was no general shutdown of the mill.

President of Duncan Local 1-80 of the IWA, Weldon Jubenville, said today he had no comment on what was a "minor incident."

Child Swallows Cleaning Solvent

A two-year-old is in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today after he swallowed a quantity of cleaning solvent Tuesday afternoon.

Aubrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Sommerville, 95 Battleford, was taken to hospital just after 5 p.m. Tuesday by Saanich fire department ambulance.

$900 Car Damage

Reginald Welcher of Duncan was fined $300 in central court today after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Court was told Welcher was the driver of a car involved in an accident on Craigflower Road Tuesday night causing $900 damage.

HAVE A HEART BUILD OUR SCHOOLS NOW

PTA LOBBY in support of thawing the current school construction freeze began in a ladylike fashion at the Legislative Buildings today and featured programmed discussions with MLAs in committee rooms. Dainty signs carried by Mrs. Byers, left, PTA regional director, and Mrs. Frank Whittaker, president of Victoria PTA Council, expressed gentle request. But then the men came.

PTA Lobby in Tizzy As Cutback Protest Escalated by Unions

By PETE LOUDON

It started out as groups of matrons in pretty hats in quiet discussion with their members of the legislature.

But it was soon a full-fledged demonstration with unemployed men carrying placards and marching back and forth before the "Buildings."

The Parent Teachers' Association wasn't too happy this morning when their dignified protest over education cutbacks took on a scrappy tone.

MENACING

It was all well-organized and orderly but to the PTA a large body of marching workers with placards, appeared menacing.

Some of the women were reluctant to have a labor union on their side in case it hurt their cause.

"They said they wouldn't carry placards and look at them," said Mrs. A. B. Thompson, first vice-president of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation.

The PTA members from lower Vancouver Island points began gathering at the Legislative Buildings shortly after 10 a.m.

"Don't call it a demonstration," they cautioned reporters.

They didn't have signs except for two tiny, red, heart-shaped ones which no one really rushed to display.

WE WANT SCHOOLS
NO OVERCROWDING IN OUR SCHOOLS

FREEZE ON SCHOOLS is a freeze on jobs said militant unemployed marchers called out by Vancouver Island Building Trades Council to reinforce PTA protesters. Women, who had been trying to avoid appearance of a "demonstration" were reluctant allies.

"Have a Heart, Build Our Schools Now," they read.

The women from the local area entered the building in small groups and were soon closeted in committee rooms with MLAs according to previous arrangements.

Mrs. Martin Redgrave, of Trail, provincial PTA president, was to meet with Education Minister Peterson. It was all being done in the dainty fashion of lady finger sandwiches.

But soon after 11 buses began to draw up, three carrying PTA delegates from mainland points, one from Duncan and one from Nanaimo.

"Progressive Education Without Accommodation," shouted a huge banner displayed on a bus by a Coquitlam group.

TRADESMEN

Another bus offloaded men from the building trades who formed up with a Victoria delegation of unemployed carpenters. They formed up in militant fashion with placards on high, 150 strong.

"We Want Schools."

"2,000 Carpenters Unemployed in B.C."

"No Overcrowding In Our Schools."

"Thaw The Freeze."

The placards were bold and demanding.

The affair that started with a whisper was ending with a shout. Suddenly there were more than 400 protesters roaming the corridors searching for MLAs to buttonhole.

Main purpose of the event was to show opposition to the current government cutback in school building funds.

PTA spokesmen said, "We're interested in sex education in the curriculum (they support it) and teaching French in elementary schools, a wide program of kindergartens and more elementary school libraries—but we're mostly interested in lifting the construction freeze."

In Coquitlam the freeze is keeping hundreds of children on swing shifts and the PTA fears the trend will spread.

The labor union men say they were appearing principally as parents, "But we're interested in our jobs too."

Whether it will all make an impression on the government wasn't immediately indicated.

FARE HIKE, SUBSIDY?

Reaction Cool To Bus Warning

Speech Renews Dumping Fears

Municipal leaders in Greater Victoria reacted coolly today to a warning by a B.C. Hydro director that in the future there must be higher bus fares or heavy municipal transit aid.

Resources Minister Ray Williston told the legislature Tuesday B.C. Hydro will lose $3 million this year on bus service in the Victoria and Vancouver areas in spite of the recently-annunced $1 million subsidy from the government.

"If rates are not to rise in the future, the areas of benefit will have to assist in stabilization of the costs," he said.

Outside the legislature, he said "if they (municipalities) don't want the buses dumped then some type of shared cost agreement obviously will be necessary."

FACE PROBLEM

But he added that B.C. Hydro isn't suggesting a cost-sharing formula.

He "just threw out the suggestion so we could face the problem instead of everybody saying it's not our responsibility."

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant said the Hydro director's comments did not surprise him and he remained convinced the government will dump the buses on the metropolitan areas.

"I am afraid I was not one of those who heaved a sigh of relief when the budget speech (announcing the $1 million subsidy) was over," he said.

'YEAR OF GRACE'

"We have been given an apparent year of grace but I fully expect that with the usual Social Credit aplomb, the losses would be shifted to us in some other way. And here it is, right in Williston's speech.

"As far as I am concerned the provincial government will have to pass an act physically ordering the municipalities to get into the transit system before I move. I shall resist bitterly any other moves."

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said "the latest manoeuvre by the government pushes us further along the line for what has been a discouraging year," pointed to increased sharing by municipalities in social welfare costs and problems caused by a new tax form notice.

'NOT VALID'

"The business of municipalities sharing in some of the cost is just not valid. We are not sharing in the revenues from electricity." Yet the urban areas were supporting rural electrification, where customers are few and distance are great.

"When the price was arbitrated for the takeover of B.C. Electric the losses for transit were taken into consideration.

"I can't accept the argument that municipalities should accept the money-losing side but not the profit side. It's like making you a shareholder but you only share in the losses."

Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen said he didn't interpret the speech as meaning "the government is going to force us, just a hint." The 60 per cent of B.C. residents living in Victoria and Vancouver areas are in effect subsidizing other areas and it was "quite legitimate" that Hydro should subsidize transit.

MISSING MAN TURNS UP AT NANAIMO

A former Victorian feared drowned three months ago has been found alive, suffering from amnesia.

Rex Jackson, a Vancouver auctioneer thought to have drowned in Burrard Inlet, was traced last week by chance when a doctor answered an emergency call to a fever patient in a Nanaimo motel. The patient turned out to be Jackson.

Mr. Jackson disappeared after he planned a business trip to the Nanaimo area from Vancouver.

RCMP found his car abandoned in North Vancouver. Divers searched the area for his body after his wallet was found floating near Second Narrows Bridge.

"We are just thrilled," his wife said in Vancouver Tuesday.

"He has no recollection at all of the last three years, and was startled to see I had some grey hairs."

Road Program Slashed In Saanich

A recommended road construction program in Saanich was cut from $1 million to $246,710 Tuesday night.

The original recommendations by municipal engineer Neville Life for the 1968 were reduced to just over $400,000 by department staff before being considered by the public works committee.

Dropped from the original recommendation were such major items as $210,000 for four lanes on Lansdowne, city to Foul Bay, and $69,500 for Quadra, from McKenzie to Nicholson.

Shelbourne Street, which was to be widened to four lanes from Ruby to Feltham for $14,000, was cut back to $40,000 by reducing the length to Ruby-Blair.

Biggest casualties as the committee sliced into the already-reduced recommendations were $70,000 for four lanes and two intersections on Carey, Tillicum to Glanford, $55,000 for Durrance Road and $35,000 for Interurban—but a proviso was made in the last case to use any funds left over for it.

'RIDICULOUS'

Reeve Hugh Curtis said it is "ridiculous" to cut back road work to $246,710 and criticized the provincial government for lack of help in this area.

"We're doing one-tenth of the work we should be doing," he said.

"Until there is recognition by the provincial government we won't be able to afford any more road work."

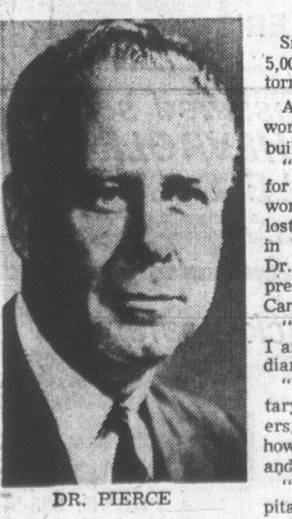
Wanted by 'Dr. Bob': Dedicated Canadians



DR. PIERCE

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Six new villages, each housing 5,000 persons are needed in war-torn Vietnam.

And competent Canadian workers are being asked to help build them.

"These villages are needed for all the thousands of men, women and children who have lost their homes and livelihood in the Vietnamese war," says Dr. Bob Pierce, founder and president of World Vision of Canada.

"To help build these villages I am recruiting dedicated Canadians of various skills.

"We need draughtsmen, sanitary engineers, drainage workers, and people with the know-how to help us establish poultry and crop-raising.

"We also need nurses, hospital orderlies, nutrition experts and people experienced in all kinds of welfare work. But they must believe in what we are doing and be willing to work under difficult conditions."

On a cross-Canada speaking tour from his Toronto headquarters, Dr. Pierce met local clergy in the Empress Hotel this morning and will address a public meeting in Metropolitan United Church tonight at 8.

He is throwing out a challenge to Canadians to join in the latest of many projects he has initiated over the past 21 years.

SITES CHOSEN

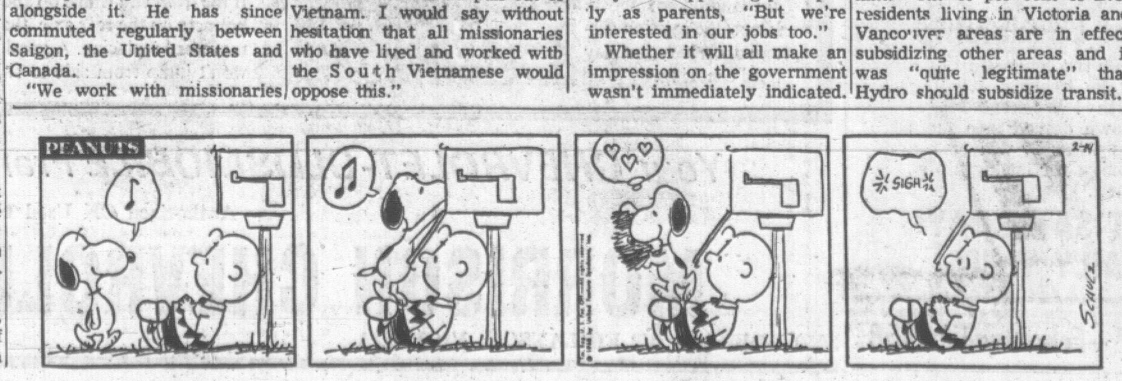
"I have already picked out six very suitable sites for these villages," he said, "but I may have to re-assess my plans in view of current war developments."

A tall, grey-haired enthusiast, Dr. Pierce is a doctor of theology who was originally a Baptist minister. Today he is associated with all Christian churches and prefers to be called Dr. Bob.

He established a headquarters for World Vision at Saigon, Vietnam, five years ago, and set up a pre-fab residence alongside it. He has since commuted regularly between Saigon, the United States and Canada.

"We work with missionaries of all Christian churches," he said, "and we have turned many churches into schools where the largely illiterate population can be taught to read and write."

"It is very easy to say the United States should pull out of Vietnam. I would say without hesitation that all missionaries who have lived and worked with the South Vietnamese would oppose this."



'B.C. Flirting With Disaster'

By BRUCE YEMEN

Resources Minister Ray Williston lashed the Opposition Tuesday for failure to realize the province is "flirting with disaster" if its hydro power program fails to meet its deadlines.

He accused the Liberal Party of being "almost hysterical in its denunciation of investment in B.C. Hydro activities" and aroused the NDP MLAs with this blast:

"Someone has got the message across that unless there is effective disruption of the present program now, future opportunities to create the depressed environment necessary for effectiv growth of socialism will be lost for a long, long time."

Mr. Williston, a Hydro director, said the opposition has shown no understanding of the relation of hydro development to employment, growth and productivity.

AVERT BLOWOUT

"Unless we meet our energy deadlines for new productive capacity and distribution facilities we are flirting with disaster," he told the legislature.

"At mid-December the co-operation of industrial plants on Vancouver Island as necessary to avert a brown-out.

"If the Peace is not on line by next October and the distribution network complete, the situation as far as jobs are concerned will become much worse.

"Difficulties with long-range, unsupported, medium range transmission to Prince George have been largely responsible for 37 outages in 11½ months by Prince George Pulp alone.

"The average cost of each emergency shutdown approximates $5,000 to $6.000," he said.

Mr. Williston said major projects employing "thousands of workmen" await the start of Peace River power generation.

"There has been some implication that if we were to stop such (hydro) investment and place all capital funds in educational facilities, our problems would be solved," said the minister.

But he said if there are no jobs for graduates then the province loses their productivity and often their manpower.

"Over the years the braindrain from our eastern maritime provinces has been most serious. We cannot afford such resource loss here." he said.

ROLLING DOWNHILL

"The effects of created natural resource activity can be likened to an accumulating snowball rolling downhill," he said.

The initial snowball roller in British Columbia is B.C. Hydro and the sooner opposition members recognize this fact—the sooner some degree of sanity will be found in debate on this topic."

He expressed confidence that the first Peace River power would be ready by the fall of this year.

Mr. Williston also struck back at critics who have described the Columbia River treaty as a sellout to the U.S.

He quoted Dr. John Krutilla who he described as a senior research associate on the staff of Resources for the Future, an independent research organization supported by the Ford Foundation.

Dr. Krutilla was quoted as writing, "There is no doubt Canada, and British Columbia in particular, figured with a very sharp pencil" on the treaty and that there was a net gain in monetary terms of $225-$275 million to Canada and a relative net loss to the U.S. of $275-$350 millions.

The minister also shot back at criticism of Hydro's reservoir clearing record, saying that everything done has been in accordance with specifications established in 1964 by the comptroller of water rights in collaboration with the deputy minister of lands.

BIG JOB

"The immense undertaking of clearing the Mica reservoir will eventually involve up to 75,000 acres of forested land but first priorities will be given to the navigation channels, recreation areas and industrial areas around the lake perimeter," he said.

He said the remainder will be cleared on a progressive basis.

"It has been estimated that to clear the entire reservoir before flooding would cost in excess of $50 million. This expenditure with little return would represent a totally indefensible and needless misdirection of public funds at this time."

Some opposition members have described as a "tragedy" damage to natural life and resulting mess of incomplete basin clearing.

The minister said the opposition should know better than to ask what had happened to B.C.'s "cheap power."

"The reason there is no cheap electricity is that we haven't made any yet," he said.

Reconsider Pull-Out, Peterson Urges IWA

Labor Minister Peterson Tuesday urged the International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations to get back together on a government-proposed statistics study.

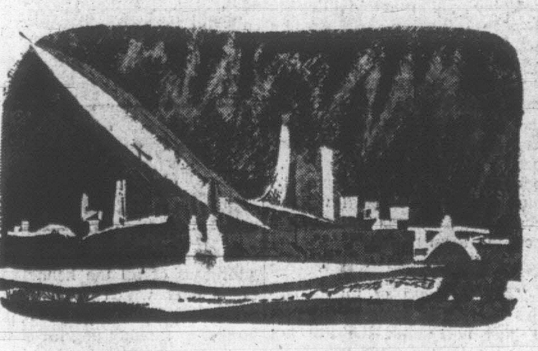
The IWA pulled out of the study Tuesday claiming the forest industry placed too many restrictions on company figures which could be studied as economic background for forthcoming negotiations.

The pull-out came just hours after Resources Minister Williston urged both parties to exercise "responsible citizenship" or risk serious damage to the provincial economy.

Mr. Peterson Tuesday night said he had sent a telegram asking each party to appoint a chartered accountant or other professional consultant and leave it up to them to set terms of reference for the study.

He told reporters there didn't appear to be much hope of settlement on the major issues of the negotiations if such a preliminary issue caused problems and added:

"One cannot help but wonder if the IWA was seriously interested in the proposal for an independent study when they gave up so easily in trying to reach agreement on terms of reference."



Our Beautiful Future

Will computers match or even surpass man's abilities? Will we be able to choose the sex of our children? Will a wife just plug-in to a central computer to keep track of her husband? Those of us who will still be here in the year 2000 have something to look forward to. According to Herman Kahn, brain of the Hudson "Think Factory", interviewed by Weekend Magazine writer Philip Smith, the future that awaits us will be filled with many good things of life undreamed of today ... unheard-of luxuries within easy reach of everyone. All this from Kahn's recently published book of predictions about life in the year 2000.

The High Cost of Leadership

If you were a candidate for the leadership of a federal party you should be healthy, wealthy and wise. Especially wealthy! Weekend Magazine writer Robert McKeown delved into facts and figures and forecasts what it will cost a candidate to run his campaign for leadership at the April Liberal convention.

'Can We at Least Have a Survey?'

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

A northern Social Credit MLA spent most of an hour-long speech Tuesday blasting the provincial government for neglecting his riding.

Don Phillips (SC — South Peace River) said his area has had to endure poor roads and makeshift river crossings for years while B.C. Hydros Peace River development was given priority

He criticized the federal government for proposing to gamble $10 million in an "oil wildcatting" project in the Arctic but said that at least it had built the only major bridge over the Peace River while the province procrastinated on other needed crossings.

"Our highways in the South Peace are not receiving the attention they should Mr. Minister," he told Highways Minister Gaglardi.

He complained that most roads in the riding are "just patched up here and patched up there."

While a road was built to the W. A. C. Benett damsite in a matter of months, it took the government 15 years to complete paving the Hart Highway conecting the major centres of Prince George and Dawson Creek.

"But that didn't impress the pioneers of Clayhurst," he added. "They've been waiting for 20 years for a bridge over the Peace River and Mr. Minister, surely we can have at least a survey of it this summer."

NO CAMPSITES

He also criticized Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan for failing to provide campsites and other facilities along the Alaska Highway which starts at Dawson Creek

He said the province does not have to maintain the road yet benefits from gasoline taxes paid by U.S. tourists travelling to Alaska who "are going home and saying not to come up that way because there's nothing there.

"Not having any tourist facilities along that road is a black mark against our province and it is hurting our tourist industry," Mr. Phillips said.

He urged the government to set up a Northern Development Council to co-ordinate government activities or "at least give one of the lady ministers (without portfolio) a job and call her the minister of northern development.

"This government must pay more attention to the orderly development of our north," he declared just before his concluding statement: "This is a tremendous provincial budget and it's going to help us get on with the job of continuing economic development of this province."

UNDERSPENDING

He was preceded in the budget debate by Leo Nimsick (NDP — Kootenay) who said provincial underspending of education and welfare funds voted by the MLAs was "an atrocity" against children and senior citizens.

Mr. Nimsick said public accounts showed $11.4 million of last fiscal year's education vote was not spent "yet the government put a freeze on school construction and our children are forced to go on shifts."

Mr. Nimsick said the same situation applied in social welfare estimates and predicted that current fiscal year funds would be underspent by $5 million.

"Yet the premier took the supplementary allowances from the senior citizens after promising them he wouldn't," he said.

"He has reneged on his promise. Why, I have had these people come to me in tears, by the dozen.

"I hate to see a man cry, but when there's nothing to put on the table I guess it's hard not to."

Mr. Nimsick said Socreds and Liberals were smug about the Vietnam war and last session showed it by voting down his motion condemning U.S. intervention.

'HANG HEADS IN SHAME'

"They should hang their heads in shame," he said.

"How you people can bow your heads in prayer at the start of each sitting and then vote against a resolution that is attempting to bring an end to this slaughter and genocide in Vietnam is hard to understand," he said.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault protested his party had not voted aginst peace but had only proposed an amendment that both sides in the war be urged to work towards a settlement.

Mr. Nimsick also said helicopters should be banned from biggame hunting in the province before technology wiped out the sport.

He said hunters should have to use pack horses and not be allowed to ride into hunting grounds in helicopters or airlift their kill out.

He added that modern gadgets are a danger to the sport.

"It's another case of automation.

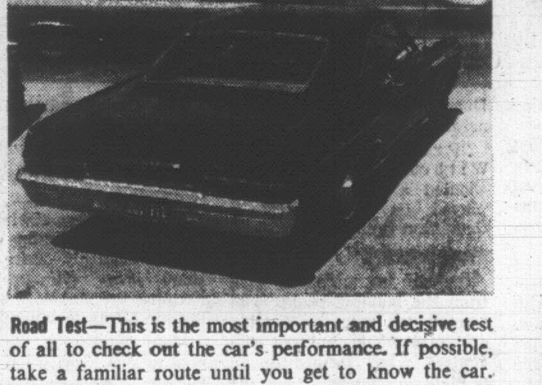
How to buy a good used car

Take to the road and see how it runs

One in a series

More than two-thirds of all cars sold are used cars. This means there's a big choice available whether you're looking for a first car, a second car or a replacement for your present car. Decide what your needs are. Don't buy by price alone if another car comes closer to meeting your particular needs. Here, then, are some ideas on what to look for once you've decided what you want. Keep it for reference and look for more good advice in the rest of the series.



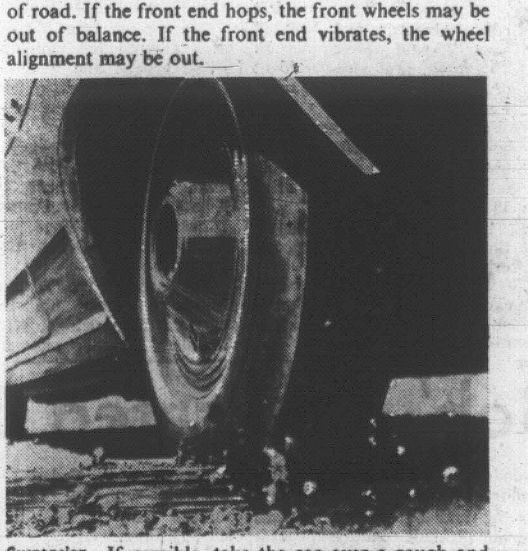
Road Test—This is the most important and decisive test of all to check out the car's performance. If possible, take a familiar route until you get to know the car. By the time you return from a road test, you should know the used car well.

Control—Check its manoeuvrability. Get to feel the car's response. When you see it's safe to do so, increase your speed and test the car on a sharp corner. If it corners in a steady, well-balanced manner, it means the shock absorbers and springs are in good shape.

Acceleration—Stop the car and test its acceleration by taking it up to 40 miles an hour. Acceleration should be steady. The performance should be smooth. If not, the ignition system or carburetion may need checking.

Braking—First, stop the car at 20 miles an hour, then 30 miles an hour and finally at 50 miles an hour. If the brakes squeal and chatter or if the car swerves, the braking system needs attention.

Balance, Alignment—Take the car over a smooth stretch of road. If the front end hops, the front wheels may be out of balance. If the front end vibrates, the wheel alignment may be out.



Suspension—If possible, take the car over a rough and bumpy road for a further check on the car's front and rear-end suspensions, the springs and shock absorbers. If the front end whips up and down freely or the rear end bounces on the rear axle, the springs or shock absorbers may need replacing. A good used car will ride steady. It won't jump from side to side and the steering is easy.

Gauges—Finally, another look at the instruments to make sure the gauges are all working properly. Watch that the temperature reaches normal or doesn't go too high. The speedometer should move up the scale evenly as you accelerate. Make sure the odometer is measuring off the miles. If the direction signal warning light isn't working, chances are the signals aren't working either.

Your awareness is your protection. When you know what to look for, you can buy with confidence. This series has been developed to help build your confidence in used-car buying.

Of course, an even better way to gain confidence is to talk to a Chevrolet-Oldsmobile OK Used Car Dealer. He has the choicest used cars available—reconditioned and selected to meet the highest used-car standards. You can be sure that they will stand up to this recommended inspection. Your Chevrolet-Oldsmobile Dealer's reputation rides with you. That's why, when you buy an OK Used Car, you know what you're getting into.

PURCHASING AUTHORITY URGED

'Buy All Drugs by Tender'

The provincial government was urged Tuesday to get into the drug wholesaling business by William Hartley (NDP — Yale Lillooet.)

He told the legislature a drug purchasing authority should be set up to make use of provincial experience gained in bulk purchases of drugs for government institutions.

Major and essential medications, either by generic or brand name, should be bought by tender in consignment lots, he said, and sold to all retail pharmacists and hospitals in the province wishing to take part.

It would be a non-profit operation, Mr. Hartley said.

He also urged that the Pharmaceutical Act be changed to allow doctors to decide whether a prescription should be filled with either generic or brand name drugs.

"Generic drugs are just as good as, and in many cases better than, the brand product," he said.

Either the department of health or the Pharmaceutical Association should publish a list of the drug firms that maintain proper standards and can be relied upon to supply a high quality of generic drugs, he said.

Mr. Hartley said the proposed government action on drugs would have the effect of "reducing most, if not all, drugs to a fair market price."

HARVISON REMEMBERED

Tribute was paid in the legislature Tuesday to former RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvison, who died Monday.

Resources Minister Williston recalled that Commissioner Harvison was in charge of the RCMP in B.C. when the 1958 centennial celebrations were on and that he was a man of "good humor, efficiency and great qualities as a policeman."

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Teeth Added To Pollution Control Act

Teeth will be added to last year's Pollution Control Act by an amendent introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

The bill, submitted by Resources Minister Ray Williston, would provide penalties for anyone discharging any sewage into water or on land without a permit from the control board.

The maximum penalty for a single offence would be a $1,000 fine and a three-month jail term.

But, for a continuing offence, the maximum penalty could be up to $500 "for each day the offence is continued."

The bill also adds eight grounds for cancellation of a pollution control board permit.

These include:

Failure to proceed with development of the approved works within three years or failure to use the completed sewage facility within that time;

A variety of failures to comply with statutory regulations, conditions of the permit or orders of pollution control board officials;

Misrepresentation in the permit application or termination of the permit holder's ownership interest in the property involved.

Mines Minister Donald Brothers introduced a one-clause bill which would establish "jade, that is to say, the two mineral species nephrite and jadeite" as the mineral emblem of the province, forecast in the throne speech.

Bennett Hiding 15,000 Letters!

Premier Bennett is modestly hiding 15,000 flattering letters and telegrams under a bushel.

That's how many he has received since opening fire on bilingualism and a constitutional bill of rights at last week's Ottawa conference, he told reporters Tuesday.

"There's support from everywhere," he said.

"Of the 15,000 letters and telegrams since I made my statement at the conference, only one in a hundred was against my position."

He said a CBC national television newscast proved French-speaking residents of Maillardville support him too because they claimed extending French across Canada "would never work because the young people want English."

Then he repeated the 15,000 figure.

But, when asked if he would be willing to pose for photographs alongside the pile of letters and telegrams he claimed in his support, the premier said:

"The answer is no."

LECTURES, GIVE TWO PERFORMANCES

Outstanding British Team 'On-Campus' for One Week

By AUDREY JOHNSON

The two most distinguished British stage personalities to have visited the University of Victoria campus to date, will arrive Thursday to spend a week with the theatre division and to give two on-campus performances which are available to the public.

Barbara Jefford and John Turner, top-rated actors of the British theatre, are husband and wife. Each has had a notable individual career as well as outstanding success in playing opposite each other.

Miss Jefford's most recent exploits include critical acclaim for her starring role as Molly Bloom in the film of James Joyce's Ulysses, playing the role of Hippolyta in the Peter Hall film production of Midsummer Night's Dream starring on television as Mrs. Erlynne in Lady Windermere's Fan and as Anna in Doris Lessing's Play With a Tiger. The last two opposite John Turner.

Born in Devon, Miss Jefford studied for the theatre at Bristol and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art from which she emerged as winner of the gold medal.

Starting her career in repertory companies, she rose rapidly to the position of a leading classical actress after joining the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford.

TURNER

GREAT TALENT

Critics hailed her as a great new talent when she appeared there opposite John Gielgud in Measure for Measure in 1950.

She remained with the company for two years, leaving to play the title part in Trelawny of the Wells. She then returned to Stratford and as leading lady to Anthony Quayle, toured Australia and New Zealand, playing Desdemona, Rosalind and Lady Percy.

Returning to Stratford she added Katherina in Taming of the Shrew to her repertoire.

Next came the lead opposite Michael Redgrave in Giraudoux' Tiger at the Gates, in London and New York.

Becoming leading lady of London's Old Vic meant that most of Shakespeare's leading roles were added to her record and she also appeared in Wilde, Shaw and O'Neill plays among others.

SEVERAL TOURS

Tours with the Old Vic Company encompassed several continental tours and visits to the United States and Canada. She also played in Russia, Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

Following personal successes on these tours, her reputation was even further enhanced with her solo performance, "Heroines of Shakespeare," which delighted audiences in many countries.

Since leaving the Old Vic in 1962, Barbara Jefford has played opposite Sir Ralph Richardson at the Mayfair Theatre, and with Peter O'Toole at the Piccadilly Theatre.

After a 1964 tour of South America and Europe with Ralph Richardson she was given the Order of the British Empire for her services to British theatre.

Her performance with her husband, John Turner at the Oxford Playhouse Theatre, in Antony and Cleopatra, was described as "worth waiting a lifetime to see."

Recently she has appeared at the same theatre with John Turner in Genet's The Balcony and the Giraudoux revival, amphytrion 38.

John Turner also trained at RADA and made his first professional appearance at the Nottingham Playhouse while still a student.

He spent three seasons with the Shakespeare Memorial Company, and after another interval at the Nottingham Playhouse, was a member of the Peter Brock-Paul Scofield Company which became the first British company to visit the U.S.S.R. with a production of Hamlet.

In the mid-1950's Mr. Turner commenced a long run at Her Majesty's Theatre playing the villainous Irvin Blanchard in No Time for Sergeants. Later he took over the starring role of Will.

During the run he signed a long term contract with a film company and after starring with Rachel Roberts in the John Cranko musical, Keep Your Hir On, at the Apollo Theatre, he began a film and television career which involved playing the leading roles in three TV series, many plays and several films.

But he still found time to appear at the Mermaid Theatre, the Lyric, Hammersmith and the Oxford Playhouse.

After starring in the screen costume thriller, Black Torment in 1965, he concentrated on the stage once more with seasons at Oxford, Coventry and Birmingham.

After appearing in Racine's Phedre with his wife, and in Midsummer Night's Dream in the Regent's Park Open Air Theatre production, Plays and Players' magazine called John Turner "one of Britain's leading heroic actors."

Under the title, "The Labours of Love," (courtship and marriage as seen through the eyes of some British dramatists), Barbara Jeffords and John Turner will appear at University of Victoria Education-Arts lecture theatre, presenting scenes from Taming of the Shrew, Man and Superman, The Importance of Being Ernest, Antony and Cleopatra, The Lady's Not for Burning, As You Like It, School for Scandal, Henry IV, Part I, Julius Caesar, The Cocktail Party and Macbeth.

The recitals will be given at 8:30, Friday night and 12:30 noon on Tuesday, Feb. 20.

Tickets are available through the Phoenix Theatre box office, 477-4821.

'Mikado' Needs Few Adjustments

By BERYL PROUDMAN

With a few minor adjustments, the Naden Amateur Concert Society's presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" may prove a most enjoyable and popular fund-raising project.

The show opened Tuesday night at the McPherson Theatre.

Considerable improvement is needed in the intonation of the violins. The orchestra as a whole, under the baton of LCDR Tudor Jones, supported the cast well throughout and individual players added delicious touches to the madrigals and catches; but time after time the introduction to a song was played out of tune, and sometimes out of time with both orchestra and singers.

This poor intonation only affected the first bars of the songs but it made the problem of pitching their songs that much more difficult for the soloists.

The singing voices of the leading players were pleasing and varied though one or two of them lost pitch on the last long-drawn note of some of their songs.

The chorus was extremely good. The girls looked pretty, and moved easily and gracefully; and their singing was lovely.

The men stood in natural groups and sang with robust confidence. The whole chorus showed the ability to melt into the background when necessary and to enter into the dramatic action precisely on cue.

The threatening crowding of Katisha and the rebuffing of Ko-Ko were particularly effective and the simple large-scale dance movements were well executed on the limited stage.

A preposterously funny Pooh-Bah, when he had overcome his early tendency to slow the action by his ponderous enunciation, delighted the audience. The appealing pathos and monkey-like agility of Len Goodman made him perfect for the part of Ko-Ko.

His mastery of the fast-paced patter-songs was very commendable but as his voice is not large, he should stand as far forward as possible when singing them. This will ensure our hearing the few words we missed.

Helen Middleton sang Katisha with remarkable vocal ability and dramatic intensity. Her spoken lines were a little stiff with cockney accentuation but her presence was most august.

Peep-Bo (Rita Goodman) delivered her lines in a stylish British accent which, with Ray Middleton's formal Mikado postures and strictly emphasised rhythms was reminiscent of many D'Oyley Carte productions.

Dina Noble's mature Pitti-sing set off to advantage the coy, demure feminity of Yum-Yum, exquisitely played by Barbara Desprez. Doug Erikson made a romantic, lyrical Nanki-Poo though his acting needed more formal discipline and occasional notes flew far wide of their target.

I hope that Tuesday's success will give Les Pelletier as Pish Tush, confidence enough to relax and make more of his fine voice and acting skill.

The sets were well-designed and the costumes most attractive; more could have been made of lighting devices to produce dramatic effects but, all in all, this production, which continues until Saturday, is well worthy to carry on the beloved Gilbert and Sullivan tradition.

Canadian Laws Govern Firms Commons Told

OTTAWA (CP) — The government view that Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms should not be bound by United States laws on trade with certain nations was reiterated in the Commons Tuesday by Finance Minister Sharp.

NDP Leader T. C. Douglas asked whether the government had "made it clear" to Canadian subsidiaries, including potash companies, "that their responsibility is to the laws of Canada and not to the laws of the United States."

Mr. Sharp said both he and Trade Minister Winters have made Canada's position clear.

Mr. Douglas asked Mr. Sharp to make clear that the U.S. Trading with the Enemy Act does not apply to Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms.

Mr. Sharp replied that "American laws do not apply to any Canadian companies."

Earlier, Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) said a U.S. treasury department official recently announced that any subsidiary of an American firm trading with China would be liable to fines or prison sentences for breaking the Trading with the Enemy Act.

Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) asked whether the minister had been notified that Amax Petroleum Corp. and Southwest Potash Corp., both subsidiaries of American Metal Climax Corp. of New York, had decided to close as a result of U.S. government curbs on spending abroad.

The finance minister said U.S. moves to curtail export of capital "was a matter of concern."

Sasquatch Film Set For Viewing

Whether a controversial amateur film shows a real or fake Sasquatch, the provincial museum thinks it's an interesting show and will put it on view next week

Dr. Clifford Carl Monday said it will be shown to members of the Victoria Natural History Society Feb. 20 in the museum.

"Hoax or reality, the film is of scientific interest," Dr. Carl said.

He made the statement after Sasquatch hunters John Green of Agassiz and Rene Dahinden of Richmond met him to protest comments by Frank Beebe, associated with the museum, that the film was a fake.

"We are personally satisfied with the sincerity of Green and Dahinden," Dr. Carl said after the meeting.

Ottawa Promises 'Empty' Says Quebec Labor Group

OTTAWA (CP) — Promises from Canada's leaders to build a "great society" in this country have so far proved "mostly wind and emptiness," the Confederation of National Trade Unions said today.

In its annual brief to the federal cabinet, the 205,000-member labor organization called for a policy "of stimulating the economy, of relaunching production, of increasing public works, of suppressing the tax increase and of boosting government expenditures."

The 17-page brief, dealing with everything from medical care insurance to Vietnam, contained an over-all reproof of the government for applying "purely technical" or restrictive remedies to problems that call for a complete overhaul of the economy.

"Hundreds of thousands of families . . . will have to wait without hope, in poverty, for the day when we decide to begin building a slightly more equitable and better considered economic and social order," the brief said.

It called for a prices board to review requests by companies for price increases, for taxation of capital gains and extension of unemployment insurance. Support was expressed for the government's medical care insurance plans.

The CNTU chided the Liberal government for being "too timid and reverential" toward the U.S. government "which, in Southeast Asia, South America and other countries of the globe, follows a policy which should alarm all nations of the world."

BRITAIN PUTS CLAMPS ON GAMBLING

LONDON (Reuters) — The government Tuesday announced drastic curbs on gambling casinos and a purge of gangsters cashing in on this boom industry in Britain.

The crackdown will threaten the existence of many posh casinos and backstreet dens with part-time croupiers.

No gambling will be allowed in night clubs and places of entertainment and fewer gambling clubs will be licensed. A new gaming board with headquarters and inspectors will enforce the clampdown.

TO ACCEPT CHALET SEWAGE SCHEME

Deep Cove Residents Reluctant

More than 200 people jammed a public meeting Tuesday to seek information on a proposed Deep Cove Chalet sewage scheme.

But after two hours of questions directed at a panel of experts, most seemed reluctant to accept the project until more details are available.

The Chalet is seeking pollution control board permission to pipe treated waste about 3,000 feet to sea from an aeration plant. The $40,000 scheme would serve 500 persons in the immediate area.

A public hearing is expected soon.

William Cole, proprietor of the Chalet, said when the final details of the project have been worked out, the system would be an asset to the entire area.

EXPAND FACILITIES

"My plan is to increase the accommodations at the Chalet," he said. "You can't keep the place going on just a restaurant and expansion is necessary."

He said the treated sewage would ensure that sanitary conditions continue to prevail at the Deep Cove Beach, a favorite swimming area.

"Whatever I do I want to keep the respect of the residents of the district," he said. "I am sure we can work out a scheme which will be acceptable to all."

The meeting, sponsored by the Deep Cove Property Owners' Association, was held in the Mills Road Legion Hall.

Questions were directed at a panel of speakers composed of Coun. Trevor Davis, Frank Neate, Saanich sanitary engineer, Laurel Benham, assistant director, sanitary services, metropolitan board of health, and Gordon H. Campbell, president of the Saanich Action Committee.

'KEEP OPEN MIND'

Capt. C. R. Wilson, a member of the audience, urged residents to keep an open mind on the issue.

"Surely the question is which is the lesser of two evils—sewage waste from septic tanks or treated effluent from an aeration sewage scheme," he stated.

He said residents should only make up their minds on the matter when full details of the project are made known. This could not be done until the pollution control board had studied the project and made recommendations.

Mr. Benham said the metropolitan board of health is opposed to the private ownership of sewage plants.

"If the application is approved by the pollution board, we would recommend that the system be publicly owned and operated by the municipality," he said.

Coun. Davis said council had this in mind when it approved the project in principle.

He said the applicant would pay for the project which would then be turned over to a local improvement district for operation and maintenance.

"The municipality would operate the project," he said.

OPEN DITCHES

He wasn't sure if he would support the plan to treat the sewage in open ditches before the waste is pumped into the sea.

"There are different ways of aerating sewage," he said. "It can be enclosed in a building or tank for oxidization before discharging it into the sea."

Mr. Campbell opposed Mr. Cole's plan.

"I am opposed to the disposal of sewage into the sea on any occasion," he said. "The best method is to filter it through land."

Mr. Neate said the system proposed by Mr. Cole is effective and used in many countries.

But despite assurances from Coun. Davies the council will not approve the project until it satisfied there would be no pollution, many residents were still not satisfied.

"If we have one plant, others are sure to follow," said one.

Pair Guilty Of Stripping Parts Off Car

Two men pleaded guilty in central court Tuesday to stripping parts off a car early Tuesday morning.

Police said Gary Bennett, and Craig Campbell, both of suite 3, 1219 North Park, took the parts from a car parked at the back of 1213 North Park.

A generator, air filter, and oil filler cap were taken. Both accused said they were intoxicated at the time.

Magistrate Byers remanded them to Feb. 21 for pre-sentence report.

Car Weaving In Parking Lot

Larry Smith, 604 Atkins, was fined $300 in central court Tuesday for impaired driving.

Saanich police said Smith was the driver of a car observed making fast backwards U turn on the Town and Country Parking lot and then to weave in and out of the parked cars Feb. 1.

Gerald Swanick, 7245 Puckle, was fined $250 for impaired driving.

Police said he was driver of a car weaving on the Gorge Road Dec. 9. They said he failed to heed the police car's red light and siren.

JOBS SAVED

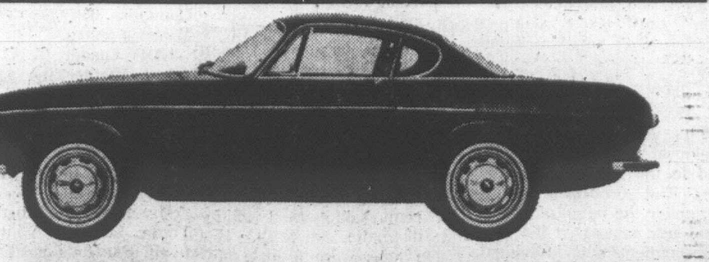
Pulp Workers Win Court Test

VANCOUVER (CP) — The jobs of 10 Prince George pulp mill workers were saved Tuesday by an injunction granted by the Supreme Court of British Columbia.

The court upheld an application by the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada to prevent Prince George Pulp and Paper Ltd. from dismissing the men under terms of an agreement with another union.

The men wanted to leave the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and join the Canadian union.

Under the international's agreement with the mill, the men would forefeit their jobs unless they were members of the international union.



This car won't do 150. It just looks like it will.

But it will do an honest 106 mph. And for $4895 the Volvo 1800 S gives you features that 150 mph cars give you for $14,000. As Road & Track magazine put it, "The 1800 S is a very civilized touring car for people who want to travel rapidly in style, a Gran Turismo car of the type much in the news these days—but at a price that many people who cannot afford a Ferrari or Aston Martin will be able to pay." Come in and take an 1800 S out for a drive at your convenience.

PARENTS TO PAY FOR SHOTS

A massive anti-measles vaccine campaign will be launched in Greater Victoria next month with the $2.50 a shot paid by parents.

The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health Tuesday decided to go ahead and innoculate all pre-school and elementary school children despite the fact that school boards, federal, provincial and municipal governments have refused to assist with the costs.

A measles epidemic has been forecast for this March or, at the latest, March of 1969.

Two school districts—62 and 64—and three municipalities, Sidney, North Saanich and Central Saanich did agree to provide some funds for the vaccination program but following Tuesday's meeting the municipalities fell in line with rejectors of financial aid leaving the two rural school districts alone on the cash-line.

CRITICISM

Although the board finally agreed to carry out the program at the expense of individuals seeking innoculation, board staff members came in for stiff criticism from Sidney's Ald. Norma Sealey.

"This whole thing has been pretty pathetic," Ald. Sealey said.

"We were told some months ago that the Lions Club would raise the funds for this program, but subsequent checks reveal that someone was committing the club to a program it knew little or nothing about.

"There has been a serious breakdown in communication which has created most unfortunate confusion."

Ald. Sealey also had harsh words for earlier reports from Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer.

She charged that not only had he failed to convey the full story of the need for the vaccine program to the service club, but that he had also been misleading on the cost.

Quoting from an extensive file Ald. Sealey listed four or five different prices the board had been given at different times.

They ranged from $1.75 a shot to $2.50.

TWO PRICES

"And now, today, on two places in today's agenda and reports we have another two different prices. On the agenda we are told the cost will be $2.25 and on the full report on the program we are told $2.50. What is the actual cost and why have we received all these different prices?"

Dr. Whitbread said the price discrepancy came from the manufacturers and explained that the ultimate price structure depended on how much vaccine was being purchased and what type of doseage unit was being called for.

As to the Lions Club mix-up Dr. Whitbread suggested that if the service club "had a misunderstanding it should keep it in committee and not air it in public."

Total cost of the program has been estimated at $20,000.

Reeve Gordon Lee, Central Saanich, said funds would be available to pay vaccine costs for families unable to afford the $2.50.

City Collects View Royal Water Bills

View Royal panhandle residents soon will be getting their water bills from the city of Victoria.

In the past water has been purchased directly from the Greater Victoria Water District. But the district's constitution prevents it from retailing water within organized municipal boundaries.

On Feb. 3 View Royal property owners voted in favor of joining Esquimalt.

The Esquimalt domestic water supply lines are owned and serviced by city with the supply under city control.

"This means that we now have to purchase from the Water District that small section of line serving the panhandle area," Mayor Hugh Stephen said. "With a few minor adjustments we then become responsible for the panhandle domestic water supply."

Details of the price and the switch in jurisdiction will be worked out by district and city representatives.

Family Jailed On Arson Charge

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—members of a Fraser Valley family received prison terms in magistrate's court last week on charges of setting fire to a Matsqui home with intent to defraud an insurance company.

Richard Alexander Madison received two years, his wife, Anna, 18 months, and their daughter, Mrs. Shirley Bendickson, was sentenced to nine months.

Court was told the Madison home was insured one week before it was destroyed by fire last May. Furniture was removed from the dwelling a few hours before the blaze.

SC MEMBER RAPS GOV'T CAMPAIGN

Support for All-Canada Route Urged

CHABOT
. . . "exporting jobs"

The B.C. cabinet was warned by a government backbencher Tuesday night to stop its campaign against an all-Canadian rail route for Fernie coal exports.

It came from James Chabot (SC — Columbia River) who said the federal government is right in insisting that the 51-million-ton Fernie coal export contract signed by Kaiser Steel and Japanese interests should be hauled over Canadian Pacific Railway.

He said the provincial government's vehement argument that Great Northern Railway should be allowed to haul the coal through the U.S. and back up to Roberts Banks amounts to "exporting jobs."

He said just the extra CPR train crews that would be needed for unit trains to move the coal "would mean 150 permanent jobs between Michel and Roberts Bank."

More jobs also would be created in larger railway maintenance crews as a result of the traffic.

"I think it is important that the B.C. government agree to support the federal policy that this coal move over the CPR," Mr. Cabot said as opposition MLAs hooted becaus Trade and Industry Minister Loffmark left his chair.

Mr. Loffmark last week bitterly attacked the CPR as a monopoly strangling the province and said GN should be given half the hauling contract.

"It will be a sad day for Canada if we allow Great Northern to extend its tracks across the border into the Fernie area so that this natural resource from B.C. would be carried over an American rail line," continued Mr. Chabot.

"To me, it seems important that the B.C. government adopt the national policy to ensure that we get the full benefit of this contract."

He also said he hoped the provincial government would co-operate with the federal plan to develop the Roberts Bank superport where the coal would be loaded into bulk carriers.

Mr. Chabot said the superport had been opposed by former transport minister Jack Pickersgill and the provincial legislation to establish it had been opposed by Liberal MLAs.

But, he said, Transport Minister Paul Hellyer had changed the picture by promising the National Harbors Board would start building the superport.

SHARP SURE OF ONE VOTE —HE HOPES

BROOKS, Alta. (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp appears to have one sure vote in his bid to become the next prime minister of Canada.

Among delegates to the leadership convention in Ottawa April 4-6 will be Noel Sharp, 32, a son of the finance minister.

The younger Sharp Saturday was named a delegate for the southern Alberta riding of Crowfoot.

He is a graduate of the University of Calgary, and now lives in Bassano, Alta., where he is a school teacher.

Criticism Brings Reforms

By AB KENT
Business Editor

With the biennial publication of its research bulletin Financial Reporting in Canada, the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants has added criticism to its earlier views on corporate statements — views which have brought praiseworthy reforms.

The latest area of concern is the use of notes in conjunction with financial statements. Often they are unnecessary and vague, tending to obscure rather than enlighten, the accountant's group says.

Kent

But an area in which Canadian financial reports are doing well is the inclusion of statements relating to the source and application of funds.

The institute recommended this in its 1965 critique and since then many companies, large and small, have published these useful statements with their annual balance sheets.

The current edition of Finacial Reporting is the seventh, analyzing 325 annual reports by Canadian companies.

Another point the institute found helpful with regard to statements of the last two years is a trend toward disclosure of gross sales values, which is a requirement of the Canada Corporations Act since it was recommended by the CICA.

This gives a better idea of inventory valuation than the previously-used "market."

More companies, too, are using the deferred basis of accounting relative to taxing income, or taking more capital cost allowance than depreciation.

Intention of the publication is to contribute to the improvement of accounting procedures and make financial reporting by Canadian corporations more meaningful.

★ ★ ★

Speaking of financial reporting, the most noticeable change in this regard is the public awareness being expressed by the chartered banks. Not so many years ago bank reports were the epitome of dusty, dull description of fiscal affairs.

Today, bank reports not only disclose more facts about the banking business, they are so readable they invite perusal, and for those who don't read the color photos are mint.

Take the 150th annual report of the Bank of Montreal, for instance. This could almost double for a tourist brochure, its 80 pages well endowed with high quality full color pictures depicting historical and contemporary Canada.

The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in its 101st report, does much the same thing, only featuring Canadian industrial, agricultural and educational activity.

They not only make their banks more easily understood, they do a public service to boot.

★ ★ ★

Canadian production of liquid hydrocarbons is expected to increase by 7 per cent this year, following a record 1.1 million barrels per day during 1967.

Exports were high, too. increasing by 20 per cent from 1966, and mostly by virtue of American purchases.

But in the Pacific Northwest U.S., the outlook for importing Canadian crude oil is not as good as it was before the emergence of Cook Inlet production.

Canadian exports ought to go up by 5 per cent this year, despite the intrusion of Alaskan oil landed in the Puget Sound area by ocean tanker.

According to a study by the Babson Canadian Investment Letter, sulphur demand will remain high at least until the end of 1969, with prices at a good level.

Natural gas, too, will remain in healthy condition, with total sales rising 14 per cent this year (12 per cent last year) and combined domestic and export markets worth $675 million.

Petrochemicals and fertilizer are in less favorable shape, with world demand for fertilizer off despite a need for increased agricultural productivity. An improved supply-demand ratio is looked for in the near term, Babson's reports.

★ ★ ★

At the end of January there were 220,106,758 offshore acres under federal oil and gas exploration permit on Canada's Pacific, Atlantic and northern coasts.

New permits granted last month went to New Associated Developments Ltd., Montreal, covering 417,895 acres in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. They are valid for six years and may be renewed annually for another six years.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:

WHITE BLIGHT

In recent months I've developed many little white spots—I guess you could call them "whiteheads"—on my cheeks. They started a few months ago with one or two spots. I stopped using creams and cosmetics immediately but the whiteheads kept spreading. I'm 35 and have dry skin and have never had any facial problems except for dryness. Do I need a dermatologist? And if so, how can I find a competent one?

Mrs. J. R.

The blemishes you describe do sound like whiteheads which may be caused by the onset of hormonal changes. Since they are spreading I would definitely recommend that you see a dermatologist. You can get a list of well-qualified ones from your local medical society.

In any case, don't attempt to squeeze them. These are actually little cysts and should be professionally removed.

PREVENTIVE POLISH

Can you please tell me the brand name of the new "polish" that discourages nail biting?

D. F.

The name is "Nailcure" and it's manufactured by the Purepac Laboratories in Elizabeth, New Jersey. It's available in clear as well as in a pink opaque shade.

BRIGHT LIGHTENER

My dark blonde hair is turning brown. Is there some mild bleach I can make at home which will lift my hair a shade or two?

S. G.

Former blondes can brighten dull drab haircoloring by concocting a "French Fluff."

After shampooing your hair, mix 1 tablespoon of commercially bottled whipped hair lightener (a form of oil bleach) and 2 tablespoons of 20 per cent bleaching peroxide. Add 1/4 cup of your shampoo and massage the combination through your hair. Leave it on for about 5 minutes.

Unfortunately, if left on much longer it tends to bring out the red in your hair. This procedure may be repeated every few weeks but remember it is only effective for hair that was once blonde.

OPT FOR OPERATION

I'm a youngish looking woman in my late 50s. I've kept my figure and my complexion but the most telltale signs of my age are the bags under my eyes.

I'm strongly considering plastic surgery but I've heard so many pros and cons about it I can't make a decision. What is your opinion?

M. B.

Plastic surgery, especially involving the area above and below the eyes, is not unusual these days. The operation involves removing excess fatty tissue under the eyes and "tightening up" the skin, as well as raising the overhanging tissue directly under the eyebrow. This can be an "eye opener" and may very well improve the over-all facial expression. My advice would be to find the very best plastic surgeon in your area and discuss the advisability with him.

TIPS FOR THIGHS

Although I have an average build I have very slim thighs. I'd like to know what kind of exercises to do to make them heavier.

L. C.

The thighs are a difficult part of the body to fill out (or should we say "fill in"). Nevertheless, here are a few helpful suggestions:

A recommended daily exercise is lying on your back and doing a rhythmic bicycle exercise very s-l-o-w-l-y for 5 minutes. Rest frequently in the beauty angle (feet 12 to 15 inches higher than your head) in order to get circulation up to your thighs. While you're in this position, massage thighs with cocoa butter or lanolin to help keep skin "plumpy." For best results do this just before getting into bed. Also, be sure to wear low heels whenever doing any amount of walking.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Plain, White China—Inexpensive Elegance

By Penny Saver

One of the girls in my neighborhood is to be married soon and she and her groom-elect decided to make Valentines Day an excuse for adding some small items to their home furnishings. I don't know what the girl chose for her gift, but the boy came to me for help Obviously I couldn't tell my other readers what we found until the gift had been given.

The couple had decided to start fairly humbly as far as dishes and cutlery were concerned and during their talks the boy had discovered that his bride-to-be loved things that were starkly simple. "I want to buy her a set of dishes," he said, "but all the ones we can afford are covered in flowers or some other design. All I want is a plain white plate!"

I know how he felt. The manufacturers don't seem to be able to keep up with the shifts in public taste from ornate flowers to stark simplicity and back again. I was however, able to find some dishes that fit the bill. These begin with a five-piece place setting for $2.75. This includes a dinner plate, salad plate, bread and butter plate and cup and saucer set. The plates themselves are snowy-white but the cup and saucer can be all white or white inside with black, orange, turquoise or green outside. After a bit of thought the groom-elect chose green as a contrasting color. This isn't the finest of china as the price suggests but it makes an elegant show on the table and is easily within the reach of newlyweds. Extra pieces are available at reasonable prices.

To basic place settings for six was added, (at my suggestion), a cream and sugar set for $4.95 and a gravy boat with a saucer for $9.80, all in snowy white. I suggested soup bowls as well but it turned out that a fine set of bowls with a green pattern were among the wedding gifts that had already arrived.

Another addition to the basic place setting that the couple were already provided with were serving bowls. However this set of china includes lotus-shaped bowls from small 85-cent ones for dessert to large $4.95 ones for serving. These bowls are all in white with the delicate flower shape.

Dessert dishes were another thing that this couple prefer to wait for but the set includes attractive sherbert cups, white inside and colored outside, at $1.25 each as well as the lotus bowls. There is a tall, thin coffee pot for $9.95 and tiny demitasse cups and saucers, again both colored or white, for 95 cents a set. Salt and pepper sets are 95 cents each. An egg cup that has the regular size cup and larger one on the reverse end for large eggs such as duck eggs or use as a serving dish for dippers or entree items is $1.10. The list goes on and on. I was pleased to see that such an elegant set was available at such reasonable terms.

If you would like to know where I found this chinaware, please call me at 382-3131.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Men—Where's Your Sense of Adventure?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a teen-age girl with the same kind of problem every other teen-age girl has. Boys! First, let me explain that I am not "boy crazy." I'm just tired of going out with my girl friends.

In our social setup, the boys reserve the right to ask the girls to go out with them, marry them, etc. This is stupid. All the boys I know are shy and have no initiative. It is very frustrating!

Could you do me a favor and tell the boys of the world to open up their eyes and notice that there are girls around, and to please pay some attention to them, to call them up and show some interest?

And, Abby, if you know of a planet where it is acceptable for a girl to ask a boy for a date, please let me know. I am packed and ready.

A PROTESTER

DEAR PROTESTER: I agree. The system is all wrong. Not only do the girls outnumber the boys, but they mature earlier and are ready, willing and eager to commingle while the boys stand around with their hands in their pockets blushing it up.

No wonder the women are becoming the more aggressive breed. And even more frightening is the undeniable increase of men who don't care whether they lead or follow.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the girl who wants to change her fiance's name to something shorter and easier to pronounce: Don't do it.

My name has 14 letters in it, too, but I've known how to spell it since I was three. (I'm 10 now.)

Nobody can spell it, and very few people pronounce it right, but do I care? No, Sir!

I am proud of my name, and your fiance is probably proud of his too. Just think of someone with a name like "Eleuthere Irenee du Pont de Nemours." How would you like to sign a check with a name like that?

You woud be doing your fiance a great favor by keeping his name like it is. You may even learn to like it yourself.

A "BRETTSCHNEIDER"

DEAR ABBY: To the girl who was engaged to a man whose last name had 14 letters in it: No name is unpronounceable. Some just require a little more practice.

I wouldn't recommend changing one's name, but it might simplify matters if one were to change the spelling. For instance, Hyszczynsky can become Hisschinsky. And Ardziewsky can become Arjeffsky. There isn't much you can do with Baccigaluppi, but as it stands, it isn't ridiculous to one who has used it all his life.

There are 39 William Johnsons in the Seattle telephone directory. Why not enjoy an unusual name?

HAVE ONE, IN SEATTLE

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARIE IN AMARILLO: Anyone can "get used to" a wart on the end of his nose if he lives with it long enough, but that doesn't mean he'll learn to love it.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Youthful Beauty

From the early twenties, bedtime massage with a vitalizing night cream is ideal for softening traces of surface skin dryness and tiny lines. Apply Olay vitalizing night cream to cheeks, forehead, and throat and coax it into the skin with light, upward moulding strokes, then remove with a tissue. Such care will encourage complexion loveliness.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Keep Your Heart Healthy By Indulging in Exercise

Lowman

Long before the day of transplants the heart was known to be essential to life. It has also been thought of as the centre of our emotions. "My heart is broken; I am heartsick; I love you with all my heart," are all familiar expressions.

The heart is such a wonderful organ and often takes a lot of abuse before it rebels. It is a magnificent muscle! During a lifetime of 70 years, it beats almost 3 billion times and pumps more than 50 million gallons of blood through the body.

The normal heart beats between 70 to 80 times a minute. During physical strain or emotional stress, it will beat much more rapidly. The great muscle needs exercise. Supervised exercise is even prescribed for many heart patients.

However, those who are unaccustomed to exercise should have their heart and blood pressure checked by a physician before beginning an exercise routine. They should build up gradually. Even those who are used to exercise often place a strain on their heart by plunging suddenly from inactivity to strenuous activity.

When I was in college preparing to become a physical education teacher my professors constantly emphasized the importance of protecting the heart curve. In other words, begin an exercise period with mild exercises and build up to the more vigorous ones.

Do not jump out of bed in the morning and start your exercises before walking around the room a few times, at first slowly and then more briskly.

You can see why this is protective to the heart when you know that it pumps three and one-half quarts of blood through the arteries each minute when a person is calm and at rest but must pump almost five quarts a minute during stenuous exercise. It is not fair to throw such an increased load on the heart suddenly.

Don't dash up the stairs after sitting for a while. Take care about running for a bus or train. Increase your daily walk gradually.

Also, guard your heart by controlling your emotions. Emotional strain can speed up your heartbeat and shoot your blood pressure sky-high. The heart thrives on sensible exercise and happy emotions!

If you would like my leaflet "Six Introductory Exercises" which will give you a good start on daily exercise, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

CHESTERFIELD, England (CP) — Actor Chris Winners was supposed to propose to a character on stage. Instead he turned to the theatre audience and asked his girl frined sitting in the 10th row to marry him.

"I nearly died," said 20-year-old Nicola Coleman. "I tried to hide under the seat." Chris repeated the question later.

THE DOCTOR SPEAKS OUT

Swinger Goes to Bat for Swiggers

By JOHN MIKA

Socred backbencher Dr. H. R. McDiarmid of Alberni bellied up to the rostrum Tuesday night and did the next best thing to ordering drinks for the house.

He read a lecture on the benefits of beer to the cabinet's teetotalers.

"I think it is high time that someone from this side of the house said a word on behalf of the drinking population of this province," declared the Tofino doctor.

●

"The views of the minister of highways and other dry members are well known throughout the province," he said looking at a grinning Premier Bennett.

"But there a lot more people that drink in the province than do not and there are certainly a large number of them in my constituency."

He blasted the refusal of the government to heed a petition of 2,500 residents protesting the closing of two downtown liquor stores when Alberni and Port Alberni amalgamated last year.

He said the new liquor outlet in a suburban shopping centre is "unhandy to the majority of the residents of either town."

Dr. McDiarmid also criticized the "two substantial increases in the price of liquor in a few short months" and warned the government against jacking up beer prices.

"The reason I say this is that like it or not, the beer parlors of this province are the only clubs that the working man has," he said.

He said most of the workers in his riding labored hard in the woods, in mines and on fishing boats.

"Many of these people are away from civilization for days or even weeks on end and the only form of relaxation which many of these people know is the beer parlor.

"I can assure you that if we had all the logs produced, all the ore mined and all the fish caught in the beer parlors of this province, we would be a lot wealthier than we are today.

"To many of our pensioners, this is one place where they can go and afford a glass of beer or two on the odd occasion and reminisce with their friends of days gone by."

●

Dr. McDiarmid nailed down his hold on the title of chief swinger in the backbenches with a complaint about lack of facilities at Long Beach provincial park which made other MLAs sit up suddenly.

"Are you aware Mr. Speaker that on July 1st of last year there were 7,000 campers tenting on Long Beach provincial park?

"Seven thousand, Mr. Speaker, crammed in cheek by jowl, defacting, micturating (urinating) and copulating — and not separated by so much as a blade of grass, Mr. Speaker!

"In fact, barely a grain of sand!"

He said there were only two toilets and no running water provided in the park for the crowd.

Dr. McDiarmid said a charge of $2 per night should be levied at all provincial campsites.

This would ensure caretakers were posted to control rowdyism, provide revenue for improving facilities and give private camp operators a chance to be competitive.

He also said "unrealistic" health regulation which require private camp operators to provide hot water under 20 pounds pressure and other amenities should be eased so that they could lower their costs and expand their service.

●

Dr. McDiarmid lashed Northern Development Minister Arthur Laing for failing to perform after promises the federal government whould establish a national seaside park at Long Beach.

He urged the government to set up a central advisory committee for helping laymen trustees on regional hospital boards plan the location of new hospitals serving several communities, particularly in wilderness areas.

BOYCOTT ENDS AT SCHOOL

PORT ALBERNI, — The A. W. Neill school is back in business here after student leaders ended a boycott of classes by colleagues dissatisfied with school rules.

The junior high school was closed Monday and again Tuesday morning because of student dissatisfaction with rules controlling school dress, no smoking, and prohibiting students from leaving the grounds during lunch hour.

Principal R. W. Lawson closed the school Tuesday morning when students booed him for his handling of a student sitdown last week.

A student meeting later, however, decided to request him to re-open the school. Classes resumed.

Ag a meeting Monday night, parents of the children almost unanimously supported the school staff and the rules which the students protested.

Foot Patrols Asked Again For Duncan

DUNCAN — City council is maintaining its pressure to get police foot patrols.

It will be used as a bargaining point with the RCMP who have asked city hall to allow in their 1968 budget for an additional constable.

Mayor Jim Quaife said the request will have to be carefully considered.

He said the attorney-gereral's proposed roadside jurisdiction would mean a loss of revenue to council from court fines.

Part of this revenue went toward police costs and if the roadside plan is adopted more money for police protection would have to be raised from the local taxpayer.

Ald. Tommy Kilpatrick raised the question of foot patrols.

"It's a good time to discuss with the RCMP the question of foot patrols with men in touch with each other and detachment headquarters by walkie-talkie."

TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES

Trio Charged in Ladysmith After $14,820 Burglary

LADYSMITH — Two Fort William youths and a Calgary juvenile were to appear in court here today in connection with the theft of $14,820 in travellers' cheques from Ladysmith Credit Union.

RCMP said all the American Travellers' cheques have been recovered.

The overnight Monday theft was discovered when a youth tried to pass one of the cheques at the Bank of Montreal in Duncan. A teller became suspicious because there was no signature from the place of origin.

DIDN'T KNOW

Police were called and the youth arrested.

The credit union had reported the break-in but didn't realize the cheques had been stolen.

Later two other youths went to the police station demanding to know why their companion was being held.

They were questioned and arrested.

TRACKING DOG

Police later — with the help of a tracking dog from Nanaimo — found a large portion of the cheques hidden in the bush behind the Cowichan Indian band office on Allenby Road.

Police said the thieves entered the credit union building on High Street through a rear window early Tuesday morning.

They took the cheques from an unlocked cabinet.

'Don't Swim' Signs Set For Gorge

Tourists and residents in Victoria in April will be greeted with "water polluted—don't swim signs from Portage Inlet down the full length of the Gorge.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread made the announcement Tuesday afternoon after members of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health had rejected a request from the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterways Society to postpone the sign posting program.

The society had also asked for a meeting with the board to present its arguments against posting the signs.

"The Gorge waters are either safe or they are not safe," said Saanich Coun. Leslie Passmore. "If they are not safe for swimming we would be remiss in our duties if we didn't post signs saying so.

"I am not an expert. Board officials tell us the water is polluted and we have to go along with them. Do we listen to them or do we listen to outsiders?"

Esquimalt Coun. Roy Elphick agreed.

"I can't understand what they're trying to say," he said. "I would have thought that the posting tf signs would help their cause."

Informing the board that the signs would start going up in April, Dr. Whitbread said the only reason they are not in position now was because of the normal winter closure.

"We delayed placing the signs because nobody swims in those waters in the winter anyway. But I am requesting all municipalities involved to cooperate in placing the signs in April.

HOME GARDEN

Healthier, Less Work In Coldframe

By HILDA BEASTALL

Winter storage of hybrid fuchsias is not easy for the gardener who brings them into the house.

Constructing a coldframe in a well-chosen spot outdoors, and attending to it daily during the period from November to early April or so seems to me a far more satisfactory way of keeping fuchsias.

Hilda

In a coldframe the plants are not taking up house space, they will be healthier, less likely to contract an infestation of greenfly and whitefly, and will start their spring growth slowly as sturdy shoots.

Towards the end of February will be a good time to cut back the plants. The amount of cutting, or pruning, depends on the type of fuchsia, whether it has an upright or arching habit, and also on the age of the plant.

For general garden work, a fuchsia is good for three years of flowers, and after that the woody branches no longer produce strong shoots to bloom abundantly. All flowers come on new shoots.

CUT BRANCHES

So with two-year-old plants, each branch or branchlet can be shortened to a spot just beyond the bottom sets of buds. These will show now as green dots.

Plants which had long arching branches last year can be reduced, say, to three sets of buds on each lateral growth. All thin, weak twiggy growth should be cut off.

Having kept the plants practically dry all winter, there should not be any young stringy green shoots to deal with now. If there are, the fuchsias have been too warm and too wet, and the soft shoots can be cut right back.

By the end of February, thoroughly water the plants once if the weather is mild at the time. Otherwise, delay for another two weeks.

Repotting in rich humus soil should be done about 10 days to two weeks after the first good watering.

Cool airy conditions must still be maintained to prevent insect infestations so prevalent with fuchsias indoors.

NEW FRENCH MACHINE HEART TRANSPLANT AID

LYONS, France (Reuters)—A Lyons heart surgeon, Prof. Jacques Descotes, has perfected a machine which can reanimate a heart up to one hour after it has been removed from a dead body and keep it beating for five hours, it was claimed Tuesday.

The new technique is considered a great advance because previous transplant methods required the removal of the heart within half an hour of the donor's death.

Doctor Raps 'Reign of Terror and Fear'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver surgeon Dr. Magnus Verbrugge said Tuesday night that mismanagement by the provincial government is driving doctors out of Vancouver and the general practitioner is being slowly eliminated.

"The government has endorsed a master plan for Vancouver General Hospital which in effect makes it an exclusive university training hospital," Dr. Verbrugge told a meeting of the general practitioners of Greater Vancouver.

"Doctors will be driven into specialization and out of general practice, where lies the most critical need," he said.

Dr. Verbrugge said the VGH emergency ward on a busy night was an "appalling spectackle."

He said all cubicles were filled, often two patients to a space, patients on open stretchers lining all corridors, in full view of the traffic of incoming fracture cases, lolling drunks and screaming children.

"One might well ask how the profession allows this mismanagement to occur," he said.

"It happens because the board of trustees may at any time and without reason, suspend or cancel the appointment of any person on the medical staff.

"This rule has kept the entire profession quiet for decades.

"After I criticized the government for its hospital policy recently, dozens of doctors asked me if my appointment was in danger, because its loss would cost me my opportunity to earn a living.

"And this," Dr. Verbrugge said, "is reigning by terror and fear."

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most sensational hands of all times occurred in a match in Sweden some years ago. Einar Werner, secretary of the Swedish Bridge Federation, sat South at one table and waited while his non-vulnerable opponents contracted for seven hearts. Then Einar decided to save at seven spades. He estimated the cost at 800 and figured that his opponents were cold for their slam.

See text for bidding and opening leads.

We aren't showing the bidding here because it serves no useful purpose. Freak hands like this one are laws unto themselves.

Einar was wrong on both counts. His partner's queen of hearts would take care of the heart grand slam, but after West opened the ace of hearts Einar had no trouble making all 13 tricks.

All he had to do was to run off all his trumps. On the last trump lead, West had to come down to two clubs in order to hang on to the king of hearts, and a successful club finesse brought the grand slam home. This was total points, and the Werner team scored 2,470 at the table.

At the other table, the East-West bidding went rather peculiarly and East wound up as declarer at seven diamonds doubled. At some stage of the proceedings, North had doubled a club bid by West and South opened the queen of clubs. This produced the king, ace and a small trump. East drew trumps and eventually led the 10 of clubs through North for a ruffing finesse. This set up enough clubs in dummy to give East a chance to discard all his losing hearts. The grand slam was worth only 1,630 because East and West were not vulnerable, but the total of 4,100 points settled the match easily.

Also an interesting note is that the right opening lead would take care of both grand slams

NEW DATSUN
FOR 1968

The "more-for-your-money car."

If somebody ever tells you he drives an economy import with 96 h.p. engine that goes 100 m.p.h. has a safer, impact absorbing body, the safest suspension money can buy, a wrap-around air-flow system that keeps windows clear, that it looks great, handles like a dream, and that he bought it from us for only $2025, believe him. It's the DATSUN 1600, the "more for your money car" at

DAVID MOTORS LTD.

TOYOTA COROLLA

"THE CLEANEST ECONOMY CAR EVER TO COME FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF THE OCEAN!"

Who wants an economy car that won't get out of its own way and is left behind on hills? The TOYOTA COROLLA has more power, a higher top speed and better acceleration than any other car in the 1,100 cc class. And it still gets better than 40 miles on a gallon of regular gas.

Brittany Separatists Steal 1,500 Pounds of Dynamite

ST. BRIEUC, France (CP) — About 1,500 pounds of explosives have been stolen from a company in Brittany, an area of western France which has had farmer discontent and two recent bomb plantings by an apparently separatist organization.

The bomb incidents, involving explosions but no injuries, are termed highly significant by one spokesman for the cause of Breton autonomy.

Yann Fouere, who has spent years in Ireland as an exile from his native Brittany, says in the current issue of his monthly journal that the blasts signal a new stage in the operations of a secret group called Le Front de Liberation de La Bretagne (Brittany Liberation Front).

"It is obvious that the FLB can, if it wishes, go farther along the road of violence," writes Fouere in his paper, L'Avenir de La Bretagne or Brittany's Future.

He says that "the political, economic and social demands of Algerian nationalism were taken seriously by the French government only when Algeria resorted to arms in support of these demands."

DOESN'T WANT TROUBLE

Fouere, who has been operating a lobster business in Ireland, is himself opposed to violence.

The stock of explosives was stolen early Monday from a company supplying such materials for civilian uses in western France.

It disappeared from a depot in an area of inland Brittany called the Loudeac Forest.

Police found some 12 miles of telephone line cut between the communities of Quillio and Uzel.

Officials declined comment on the theft. The company building where it took place was heavily secured.

Fouere said in his article that only the "creation of a Breton regional state . . . can permit Brittany and its people to develop materially and spiritually."

SEATTLE, KING COUNTY

Rapid-Transit Plan Rejected by Voters

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle and King County voters rejected a $385,000,000 bond issue for a rail-rapid transit system in a special election Tuesday, but approved $40,000,000 for a multi-purpose stadium. (See also Page 9).

The two measures were part of an $819,200,000 forward thrust program designed to cope with the problems of an expanding population, which is expected to see 750,000 persons settle in the area in the next two decades.

The 47-mile transit proposal was the largest item in the 12-part money package and the one which had drawn the only organized opposition.

The voters approved all 12, but the count in some cases failed to reach the 60 per cent favorable majority required by Washington law.

With the unofficial vote tallied in all but 10 of the 1,082 reporting units, the rapid transit system had only a 50.7 per cent favorable margin.

James Ellis, Seattle attorney who conceived the forward thrust program more than two years ago and headed the committee of 200 civic leaders who brought it to the ballot, indicated the transit proposal would be resubmitted.

Included in the package were $118,000,000 for parks and recreation, $81,600,000 for arterial highway improvements, $71,000,000 for separation of storm and sanitary sewers, $68,000,000 for storm water control $26,200,000 for community centres, $12,000,000 for neighborhood improvements, $6,200,000 for fire stations, $61,000,000 for expansion of the youth service centre, $33,000,000 for Seattle city maintenance shops. and a $3,000,000 special levy for a low-income housing land bank.

Reynolds To Lead Chamber

GANGES — Gavin Reynolds was elected president of Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce at the recent anual meeting.

Mr. Reynolds is well known for community work at Beaver Point and is the first resident from south Salt Spring, for several years, to serve as the chamber's first officer.

Also elected were vice-president Tom Portlock; treasurer Robert Clarkson; secretary Mrs. Judy Mollison; executive members, Ernie Lowe, Alfred Temmel, H. Van Dack, Reginald Taylor, Robert Marshall, Ray Hill, Joe Nickerson, Peter Arnell, Frank Richards, Cam Bastedo and T. E. Harcus.

The Chamber has 180 members.

The Chamber gave a standing ovation to Lt.-Gol. Maurice Peiler when he was presented with a certificate of appreciation.

The honor acknowledges Col. Peiler's leadership of the centennial committee in creation of Centenial Park on a land fill at Ganges.

Presentation was made by retiring president Les Ramsey.

"Col. Peiler said the Centennial committee cannot be praised enough for the hour and hours of work put in on the project," declared Mr. Ramsey. "You have done a tremendous job."

Two Socreds Hit Special Quebec Status

Two Social Credit MLAs split over the Maple Leaf flag Tuesday night but both attacked Quebec's call for special status.

The ruckus began with an outburst by Works Minister Chant during the budget debate against the Maple Leaf flag.

"We had a very good flag," he said.

"The new flag carries no significance. I can't see any dignity in the choice they made,"

He accused the Liberal government of "snitching or filching a South American republic's flag" and putting a Maple Leaf on it as a first step towards a republic.

His blast drew opposition outcry that he was attacking the national flag which had been approved by the Queen.

Mr. Chant said he was attacking the Liberal government, not the flag, because it used the flag as a step towards removing the crown from Canada.

"It is high time the people have the courage to stand up and be counted on this," said the minister, who described himself as a Canadian of British heritage who always regarded Canada as one of the family of British nations.

CAN'T HAVE BOTH

"There should be no special privileges for any province or any part of Canada," he said. "You can't have two nations and one nation at the same time"

Mr. Chant, a former minister in the Alberta Social Credit administration of William Aberhart, made his reference to the flag after attacking "scandalous" economic inequalities faced by B.C., particularly in regard to high freight rates for shipping goods to the east.

Later in the evening, James Chabot (SC—Columbia) entered the debate and said he is a French-Canadian who had spent most of his life in Quebec but "I hope I never have the opportunity again of speaking as a hyphenated Canadian."

With opposition tauts. "what flag are you for?" ringing in the chamber, Mr. Chabor caused a roar of guffaws with the answer: "the fleur de lis."

Moments later, he added:

"Seriously, though, I say I'm for the Maple Leaf flag.

"The Maple Leaf forever."

POWER ISSUE

However, he said he is opposed to special status for Quebec and argued that there is only an issue of provincial power not linguistics agitating the French-Canadian province.

He said the Duplessis regime's systematic exploitation of French-Canadian fears, church control of the provincial schools and the Liberal 1963 election slogan of "two nations" and caused discord and disunity in Canada.

Mr. Chabot said he is opposed to allowing French as a language of instruction here.

"I think that if you establish French schools in B.C. you will be compounding the problem that exists and you will be exporting it to this province."

He said a system of French schools would create a linguistic ghetto in the province that would prevent French-speaking

But, Mr. Chabot said, he believed that French should be taught as a language early in the public school system "because we have to accept the fact that basically in Canada we are a bilingual nation—that we speak French and English."

Sidney Woman Named President Of Riding Club

Sidney horsewoman, Mrs. Colleen Hague, has been elected president of the Sunset Riding Club which has a concentration of membership on the northern end of Saanich Peninsula.

She will have a six-member executive including Mrs. Jessie Chranows, vice-president; Mrs. Dawn Meredith, secretary; Mrs. Madeline Coppinger, treasurer; Mrs. Joan Walker, Dr. Frank McCombie and Mrs. Emily Burrows, directors.

Plans for the coming season are under discussion, and the first activity of the club will be a dance early in April. Organized riding events will not be held until low lying areas have dried, although some trail-clearing will be undertaken.

The Sunset Riders have a membership of 42 adults.

The secretary, Mrs. Meredith, resides at 10708 Madrona Drive, Sidney.

'Silent' Star Dies

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Mae Marsh, who achieved stardom in the silent movie era with her role in the film classic, The Birth of a Nation, died at her home Tuesday. She was 72.

Iceland Hit By Fish Drop

REYKJAVIK (AP) — A sharp drop in Iceland's fish catch, accounting for a one-third decline in fish exports last year, has created widespread depression.

Building starts have fallen off sharply; unemployment, practically non-existent a year ago, has risen; the kronur has been devalued 24.6 per cent, and the tiny country's balance-of-payments deficit has tripled from a year ago to $25,000,000.

Fish exports account for about 95 per cent of Iceland's total foreign sales. But unexpected migration of the herring that traditionally clustered only 100 miles from the coastline, unusually fierce weather in the North Atlantic which destroyed even the big nets of the trawlers, and a downward spiral of world prices for fish have cut exports sharply.

Arabs Rounded Up

TEL AVIV (AP) — Military sources reported that 74 Arabs suspected of being members of the El Fatah ring of saboteurs and terrorists were rounded up in a massave raid on the casbah at Nablus, on the west bank of the Jordan River. The raiders discovered two caches of arms.

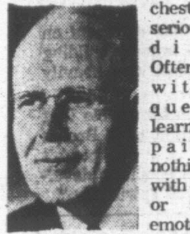
YOUR HEALTH

Fibrositis Can Cause Chest Pain

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ



Alvarez

I Many people come into my office much frightened for fear that the pain "in their chest" means serious heart disease. Often then, with one question, I learn that the pain has nothing to do with exertion or strong emotion, and then I doubt very much if the pain has anything to do with the heart. Also, I note what is very significant and very reassuring: namely that the man sits in my office perfectly comfortable with no shortness of breath.

Next I ask and find that the pain has nothing to do with coughing or deep breathing, and thismeans that it is not due to a pleurisy. I palpate the muscles that move the arms and if those on the right side are sore and tender to pinching, and I am seeing the patient on a Monday or Tuesday, I ask, "What unusual work did you do over this weekend?" And if the man syas, "I painted my garage," or, "I painted two rooms in my house," there is the explanation; he has what some people call a "charley horse."

Sometimes a woman of 55 comes in with pain in her chest which follows the course of a nerve under one of her ribs. Then I note that her spine is caving in, and she is getting very round-shouldered, with a bit of a hump. I X-ray her spine and there I see the trouble. With the menopause, the lime has been going out of her vertebrae (spinal bones) and with this softening, the bones have been caving in, and thereby pinching a nerve or two. The woman perhaps should have been given female hormone when her menopause came, and that might have saved her trouble.

Then, there are chest pains that are due to arthritis or fibrositis. Fibrositis is a usually mild, life-long disease of joints, muscles, tendons and bursas (the little bags of fluid that serve often as pulleys). I have had a fibrositis all my long life, and as I write this, the tissues in my right thumb are sore. Tomorrow I may wake with a sore shoulder or a sore hip joint. I never have taken any medicine for this mild disease, and always, so far, the pain has left me, usually in a few days.

In college when I was a "track man," running a couple of miles every day, I used to get a fairly severe pain due to inflammation in one of the little joints that connect the front end of the tenth rib on the right with the ninth rib just above. Once this inflammation was so severe that I had a patch of red skin over an area 6 inches in diameter. I got some relief then by wearing a tight flannel belt over the area.

★ ★ ★

Many a time I have had a man come into my office saying, "I think I have a stomach ulcer, but my doctor cannot cure it with diet." All I have to do to make the diagnosis is to press on the joint at the lower end of the brestbone where a little piece of cartliage (gristle) is attached. When this joint is very tender, what the man has is probably a fibrositis. Occasionally, I get this pain as part of my chronic trouble.

Sometimes a person comes in suffering from a "pain in the chest" which is due to a fibrositis or soreness in one or more of the joints that connect the ribs through cartilage to the brestbone. This is a fairly common disease. Other pains in the back of the chest are due to an arthritis or fibrosits in the joints between the several vertebrae and the ribs. Rarely, pain in the upper chest can be due to soreness of muscles in the lower part of the neck.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas

Andy sends a complete, 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Lynne Hovey, age 10, of Charleston, West Virginia, for her question:

What kind of animal is the wallaby?

Scientists classify the animals in family groups, and the wallaby belongs to the animal family Macropodidae. Most of these scientific family names are long and fancy words. They are built up from words borrowed from older languages such as Greek and Latin. These older words have hidden clues and the family name of an animal usually tells us something about itself. The name Macropodidae means BIG-Feet. So our wallaby belongs to a family of big-footed animals. His relatives also happen to have very long, strong hind legs. And most of them have very long, strong tails that works as well as extra legs.

The wallaby family and several somewhat related families are grouped together in a big animal order. Their order is Marsupialia—the pouched animals. Every marsupial mother carries her infant baby inside a cosy pouch on her body. As a rule, the built-in cradle is a fur-lined fold of skin on Mama's tummy. This bit of news reminds us of the timi opossum who lives in our own native woods. It also brings to mind the big-footed, high jumping kangaroo. The opossum and the kangaroo are both marsupials. And so is the wallaby.

Most members of the Marsupialia order are at home on the opposite side of the globe in Australia, New Guinea and Tasmania. In that part of the world, the most plentiful four-footed animals are pouched marsupials. The giant of the clan is the long-leaping, high-jumping kangaroo. And everybody knows what he looks like. The wallaby looks just like him, but he is smaller. In fact, even experts say that the average wallaby is just a small variety of the big kangaroo.

Forages by Night

The wallaby is small by nature. He may be a hare wallaby, who never grows bigger than a jack rabbit. He may make his living on the barren, rocky deserts of Australia, or he may live on the open prairies, hiding himself in the tunnels he makes through the scrubby grasses.

All the wallaby cousins are strict vegetarians. Some forage by night. Others begin munching at dawn and take a sunny siesta during the heat of the day. Most wallabies gather greenery, leaves and sometimes berries with their dainty little hands. When a mother wallaby has a half-grown youngster in her pouch, he may pop out his head and shoulders and grasp a handful of munchable greenery for himself.

Mrs. Wallaby has only one infant at a time and the family does not multiply at a great rate. But before their land was settled by busy farmers and ranches, they were plentiful almost everywhere. The hungry wallabies devoured the grass meant for sheep and cattle, and even raided the farm crops. So they were hunted and hunted, along with their big kangaroo cousins. There are still many big-footed members of the Macropodidae family on the other side of the globe, but not so many as there used to be before mankind came to settle their native lands.

★ ★ ★

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to John Boydol, age 13 of Calgary, for his question:

What kind of plant is the puya?

The puya and its 50 or so cousins are seldom seen outside their native territory. They are tough an hardy plants of South America. Most of them grow wild in the tropical and semi-tropical regions of Peru and Chile. Their long leaves tend to grow in tight spirals like rosettes around their central stems. Many have leaves ending in sharp spikes and the low-growing types wait like daggers to pierce the feet and legs of careless travelers.

The leaves are too tough to be used as vegetables and so far as we know, we cannot extract from them any medicines or other useful juices. But the puya plants bear beautiful blossoms. People of South America sometimes cultivate certain varieties for their tall, spreading spires of showy white flowers.

Certain relatives of the puya are far more famous and at least one of them produces a tempting item on our dessert menu This one is the pineapple. Both the pineapple and the puya belong in the plant family Bromeliaceae. Many other bromeliad plants are cultivated in greenhouses for their brilliant an ususual flowers. Their showy blossoms make a brilliant contrast among their thick, spiky leaves.

Whispering Dome To Remain

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Second stage of the mammoth renovation project in the Empress Hotel is well under way.

The Georgian Lounge has been completed and is again in use. A new showcase is being constructed on the lower floor. An enlarged front office is taking shape on the main floor.

Forbes

The newsstand is to have a face-lifting and workmen's hammers are gradually getting nearer and nearer the ballroom and its adjourning little lounge.

This last fact has turned many anxious thoughts to the unique leaded glass ceiling in the little lounge and has resulted in any number of equally anxious questions as to its possible fate.

In order to relieve any thoughts that this unusual bit of glasswork might be relegated to the rubbish pile, I talked briefly yesterday with Mr. A. Tremaine, the man in charge of the over-all renovation project.

He assured me that the leaded glass ceiling will be preserved and indeed enhanced eventually by soft lighting inside and perhaps on the outside of the multicolored dome.

* * *

This should bring sighs of relief from all those who love the whispering ceiling.

Whispering—I can hear some who read this column saying. Others will laugh and remember incidents that prove the word to be true.

The domed ceiling, circular in shape, has been a talking point with visitors to the hotel for a good many years.

Sit anywhere on the perimeter of the circle. Talk about Aunt Susie's ulcers. Those on the far side of the room will hear the gory details. The dome acts as a sounding board. Even whispers are magnified.

Those who discover this phenomena enjoy the fun of initiating others into the secret. The flow of voices from one side of the little lounge to the other gives the whispering ceiling a continuous workout.

* * *

This small lounge is a part of the original hotel wing opened in 1908. It was designed as an indoor court for strolling or sitting out in the days of the Saturday afternoon tete dansantes and the elegant balls.

In the centre of the court was a fountain. Palms, exotic flowering plants, spindly-legged wrought iron chairs and settees and soft lights added a romantic touch.

Acoustics of the ceiling intensified the murmur of the fountain and helped filter music from the adjoining ballroom through the palms in a muted accompaniment to the tinkle of the water.

This lured young couples from the ballroom to dance in the fountain court.

Intensified also were words meant only for one pair of ears. There were occasions when proposals of marriage, husband and wife tiffs and even tips on the stock market were given public hearing by way of the whispering dome.

* * *

Time passed and the inner court was changed to the present little lounge. In 1929, fountain, palms and flowers were removed to a conservatory opened at the back of the main wing.

The ceiling with its priceless leaded glass dome was not touched. It was left to intrigue succeeding generations of Victorians and visitors with its unique whispering qualities.

Now comes further change. Mr. Tremaine told me the little lounge will be incorporated in some way into the present ballroom.

Naturally he does not divulge all the plans he has in mind. But he did say, "in our decorative scheme we will bring back much of the elegance of the past." With, of course, some modern innovations.

Whether, after walls are removed, ceilings redecorated and the entrance to the ballroom changed, the leaded glass dome will still retain its whispering qualities, remains to be seen.

Whatever happens, it will still be there. So relax, ye lovers of the Empress Hotel, and rejoice!

CHINESE DOWN U.S. NAVY PLANE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An unarmed U.S. navy plane was shot down by a MiG when it strayed into Chinese air space Tuesday near Hainan Island, the Pentagon announced today.

The Pentagon said the downed plane was one of two navy A1 Skyraider aircraft which "experienced navigational difficulties and inadvertently strayed" within five miles of the island.

"One of the planes was shot down by a Chinese Communist MiG aircraft," the Pentagon said. The second flew to the U.S. Marine air base at Da Nang, South Vietnam.

A Radio Peking broadcast said the planes deliberately violated Chinese air space as a "military provocation." The broadcast heard in Tokyo said the plane was shot down as "punishment" but made no mention of the fate of its pilot.

The two propeller-driven Skyraiders were on a ferry flight from Cubi Point in the Philippines to the aircraft carrier Coral Sea in the Gulf of Tonkin. Each plane carried one pilot.

This was the second incident of this type involving navy planes in six months. Last Aug. 27, two navy A6A Intruders crossed briefly into Chinese air space after raiding North Vietnam and were shot down.

School Boards to Be Made Responsible for Finances

Peterson Plans Major Changes

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Education Minister Leslie Peterson told the Legislature today that major changes will be proposed to make school boards directly responsible to ratepayers.

He did not elaborate on the methods that will be used to make the change, first hinted a year ago when there was a province-wide reaction against the government over large school tax increases.

"It is our purpose to effect major improvements at this session of the legislature," the text of his speech in the House said.

"School boards will be made completely responsible for the management of the financial affairs of their districts.

"In the future, school boards will be the taxing authority, will fix the mill rate for school purposes and will be answerable directly to the local taxpayers."

Mr. Peterson also indicated that some of the $18.9 million increase in government grants to school districts will be used to change the present cost-sharing formula under which the province picks up about half of the overall average tab for operating schools.

Grant System to Be Revised

"The formula for determining the cost of the basic education program will be revised," he said.

"The new plan will be simpler in many respects and will overcome the complaints of school boards that the basic costs on which grants were computed were far below actual costs.

"The new plan will ensure that the cost of basic education program will automatically increase from year to year and always in relation to actual costs.

"A uniform basic levy will apply in every school district to ensure that education costs are spread more equitably across the province as a whole," his text continued.

"Improvements will be made in the budgeting procedures of school districts to encourage efficiency and economy in their operations.

"The specific details of the changes will be part of my submission to the House when the amendments to the Public Schools Act are presented and I shall say no more about them at this stage."

The education minister also said he plans to set up a special committee aimed at rationalizing the program of the three public universities to cut costs caused by a prestige race among them.

Caught in Net of Own Making

His speech said many cost increases, such as inflation and enrolment, are beyond the universities' control.

"But with respect to others, the institutions are caught in a net of their own weaving.

"The rising expenditure of any one—perhaps through an understandable desire to embrace too many disciplines and too many specialties — become the reason for an increase in the others.

"Considering the high expectations we have for the total program of our three public universities—and considering those expectations in relation to the budgetary demands of all other provincial services—I feel that we must now ensure there is neither redundancy of effort nor fruitless competition among the institutions.

"With this in mind, I propose to establish a small advisory committee to study the relationships between the three.

"This will be a difficult assignment but one of major importance and I would expect to give the committee enough latitude to allow it to consider seriously any reasonable modifications in our present arrangements."

OF FOREST INDUSTRY

Wage Talks Hold Key To Survival

By BRUCE YEMEN

Resources Minister Ray Williston delivered in the Legislature Tuesday what he called a "most serious" economic warning.

He also slapped higher taxes on the forest industry.

The minister said the basic economic stability of the province hangs in the balance at forthcoming forest industry wage negotiations.

He called for "responsible citizenship" by both labor and management and added pointedly:

"I trust that the shipyard industry has not set an example."

He said a continuing successful industry "will depend upon the manner in which those directly affected resolve the economic problems they now face," and warned of the danger of the forest industry pricing itself out of markets.

"We have arrived at a very important crossroad."

$400,000 A MONTH

Mr. Williston said the current forestry strike in the interior is costing the government $400,000 a month and traced a decline in government revenue from the industry over the past two years.

"I am confident the bottom would have been reached but for the present strike," he said.

The new revenue boosters are in addition to the increased logging tax announced in the budget.

They will account for about $4,000,000 extra revenue and should hold 1968 forest revenues at about $46,000,000, compared with the 1966 high figure of $50,000,000. Last year's total was about $48,000,000.

The new measures are:

- Doubling the forest protection tax from six cents to 12 cents an acre to cover more costly and effective fire control techniques.
- Tripling sawlog royalties for fir on the coast and white pine in the interior and doubling those for other species.
- Reducing the allowance in lieu of higher costs for interior pulp mills from a range of $9-$12 per 1,000 board feet to a standard $7.

STABILIZE RETURN

"Log prices have now increased and it is hoped that the combination of measures announced will fairly stabilize the revenue return to the people, who own, protect and manage the natural resources," he said.

Surveying the forest industry last year, Mr. Williston said it had been a good year "from a strictly operational point of view," with the 1966 record cut of 1.6 billion cubic feet almost matched by the 1.57 billion total of 1967.

Mr. Williston said the U.S. Pacific Northwest had met its problem of oversupply of logs and resulting downward price pressures by exporting round logs—5.7 per cent of the total in 1965, 7.3 per cent in 1966 and a substantially higher percentage last year.

The B.C. log export comparison for the same periods was .65 per cent, 1.5 per cent and 2.2 per cent of total cut said the minister.

"This province cannot afford to export jobs and so it is not proposed to recommend a change in our export regulations," said Mr. Williston, denying opposition charges that the government was encouraging round log export to Japan.

BACKS UP WARNING

Mr. Williston gave the legislature a lesson in basic economics to back up his warning about inflationary pressures.

"We must produce, we must market; and we can only provide the quality of life in British Columbia which other people are able and willing to pay for.

"We do not develop merely by perpetuating services for each other."

Mr. Williston said that up until two years ago the forest industry seemed to provide each contributing segment—labor, management and the Crown—with a fair return on investment, with wages related to productivity.

"Then came the 1966 wage negotiation on the coast . . . I point no finger of blame in any direction but I do strongly suggest that this negotiation marked the end of an era in the

WON'T COMMENT ON PEACE EFFORTS

Thant Meets Top Hanoi Envoy

PARIS (UPI)—UN Secretary-General Thant, making a surprise detour on his Vietnam peace mission, met in Paris today with Hanoi's top diplomat in the West and then discussed Vietnam with President Charles de Gaulle in a session lasting more than an hour.

Thant made no statement to newsmen and the exact aim of his quick trip from London to Paris remained an official secret.

But observers said Thant may have been informed that Hanoi was ready to answer questions he had put last week to Nguyen Hoa, North Vietnam's consul general in New Delhi.

In London, informed reports on Thant's Paris talk with North Vietnamese diplomat Mai Van Bo said Hanoi apparently had refused to soften its stand on peace talks with the United States.

The London reports said the North Vietnamese remained adamant on their formula for peace talks, demanding unconditional cessation of American bombing on the North and a hatl to other "hostile acts" as Hanoi's price for coming to the conference table.

MET WITH WILSON

The UN chief, who had visited New Delhi, Moscow and London on his solo mission seeking a formula for Vietnam peace talks, flew in unannounced today from the British capital where he had conferred with Prime Minister Wilson.

After his hurried round of talks in the French capital, Thant announced he was flying back Thursday to the U.S. where, it was expected, he would waste little time conveying the result of his talks to Washington leaders.

He was picked up at the airport in a black limousine and whisked to headquarters of the North Vietnamese general delegation in Paris, where he conferred for an hour and 10 minutes with Bo, ranking Hanoi diplomat in western Europe.

A Thant aide later told newsmen the conference was held in a "friendly spirit" but he refused any details. Bo, intercepted by newsmen afterward, declined to comment.

Thant's visit to Paris apparently caught everyone off guard. A confused Elysee presidential palace spokesman announced at one point that the French president would not see Thant. Later the de Gaulle meeting and a subsequent session with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville were arranged.

ITALY GETS HANOI WORD

ROME (UPI) — The Italian foreign ministry said today Italy has been approached by North Vietnam in connection with possible peace talks and has relayed the information to the U.S. state department.

The ministry did not say what Hanoi's terms were or how Washington reacted.

WALLS CRUMBLE

Citadel 'Turned Into Flaming Hell'

SAIGON (UPI) — Tons of bombs began crumbling the thick walls of the last Communist stronghold in Hue today in an intense attack marking the first heavy use of American airpower in the battle for the old imperial city.

Napalm fireballs and clouds of non-toxic gas turned the battleground into a flaming hell.

U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen holding most of the ancient citadel area pulled back temporarily to let the low-flying bombers blast through the walls around the palace where North Vietnamese regulars were holding out and fighting back against seemingly impossible odds.

"That wall was built to defend the city, and the damned thing is doing its job," Brig. Gen. Foster C. Lahue of the U.S. Marine Corps said as he commanded the siege from a helicopter.

"As soon as we crack that wall, we're going right in."

ROCKET BOMBS HIT HANOI

TOKYO (A)—Radio Hanoi said U.S. jets attacked a populated area of Hanoi with rocket bombs today. If true, it would be the first raid of the year on the North Vietnamese capital.

The broadcast account said three planes were shot down over Hanoi and three others over Nghe An Province, at the country's midsection. Several pilots were reported captured.

Sharp Words Used At Panmunjom Talks

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — A North Korean representative said today there will be war unless the United States gets out of Korea. The U.S. delegate replied that the North could ensure peace by stopping acts of aggression.

The harsh exchange came at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission called to discuss charges by the United Nations Command of armistice violations by the North Koreans. There was no discussion of the fate of the 83 crew members of the Pueblo, the U.S. intelligence ship seized by North Korea Jan. 23.

Meanwhile, U.S. special envoy Cyrus Vance extended by still another day his visit to Seoul, where he is trying to patch up U.S.-South Korean differences over U.S. priorities in Korea.

The South Koreans have complained that the United States is paying more attention to the Pueblo incident than to the attempted assassination of South Korean President Chung Hee Park Jan. 21 by 31 North Korean commandos who invaded Seoul.

MANY VIOLATIONS

Rear Admiral John V. Smith, senior U.S. representative on the armistice commission, cited the assassination attempt today and said there had been 74 other serious truce violations by the North in the last 44 days.

"The decision whether there is peace or hostility depends upon the whim of an apparently irresponsible North Korea," he said. "Your side can have peace merely by unilaterally stopping acts of aggression.

"You must stop dispatching armed murderers into the Republic of Korea."

North Korean Gen. Pak Chung Kook glared at Smith and replied: "We don't want war but we are not afraid of it."

He said North Korea would match buildup for buildup, blow for blow "and all-out war with all-out war" if it should come to that.

Pak added that it would come to war unless the United States agreed to "take your bloody hands off Korea and withdraw from South Korea."

The only mention of the Pueblo was a charge by Pak that the United States was taking advantage of the incident to make "full preparations for war" and create a climate in which hostilities could be touched off "at any moment."

Judge Draws Line, Won't Skirt Issue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Judge Joan Dempsey Klein disapproves of the mini-skirts worn by another blonde judge, Noel Cannon.

"She's a constant source of embarrassment to me and to every municipal court judge I know," Judge Klein said Tuesday at a press conference called to announce her candidacy for the Superior Court bench.

"We feel her conduct is not befitting a member of the court."

Judge Cannon delights some and appalls others by wearing mini-skirts.

Judge Cannon was not available for comment, but in the past she has not been defenceless. When three-fourths of the municipal court judges censured her last year, saying she sought personal publicity, she accused some of them of "immorality, intemperance, inability and absenteeism."

To those judges who criticized her clothes, Judge Cannon replied: "I don't criticize their attire—I don't point out that some of them wear food on their clothing."

'Improve Lousy French' Trudeau Tells Quebecers

HAMILTON (CP) — French-Canadians should abandon their demands for more rights and use the powers they already have to improve the "lousy French" spoken in Quebec, Justice Minister Trudeau said in a television interview Tuesday night.

"I don't think Ottawa should give one single whit of power to the province of Quebec until it has shown the rest of Canada it can teach better language in its schools," Mr. Trudeau said.

The justice minister was replying to questions from a panel of French-speaking students at Carleton University, Ottawa, on the television show Under Attack.

The pre-recorded program was shown on CHCH-TV Hamilton Tuesday night.

Mr. Trudeau said some Quebec nationalists and separatists speak "awful French" and "they want to impose this lousy French on the whole of Canada."

SOME FRENCH GOOD

Asked what standard he would set for the language, he said French spoken on the CBC is "very good." He also said "some educated Quebecers . . . speak very good French. . . ."

He said the Quebec government should realize "there's a state of urgency as regards the language."

He said Quebec has had full control over education for 100 years and it isn't the fault of the rest of Canada that "our French is lousy."

"I think French-Canadians have been betrayed by their elite for 100 years," he said.

Mr. Trudeau said he does not agree there are two nations in Canada—one English and one French.

"But there are some naive people — including politicians — who think it's nice, who can get a few votes by saying: 'I'm for two nations.' But they don't realize that the people who are putting the two-nation concept forward are people who really want two Canadas, and I don't."

The justice minister said those who accuse him of being a traitor to Quebec are displaying "the masochistic tendencies of just about all French-Canadian nationalists."

OR WILL IT LEAD TO WORLD CATASTROPHE?

Arthur's Hideout Just Purr-fect

By JOHN LeBLANC

LONDON (CP) — Is Arthur the tom a catspaw in an international intrigue?

The foreign office, the Soviet embassy and the courts are all agog today over Arthur's whereabouts. He's also on page one of most of the morning papers.

Arthur is a white tomcat with the valuable knack of eating with his paws. This has made him the star of a series of TV commercials for a cat- food firm.

But actor Toneye Manning claims ownership of Arthur, and a week ago he got a court order to take him out of the kennels where the firm was keeping him. Then Tuesday, the catsmeat people got a high court order telling Manning not to take Arthur out of the court's jurisdiction pending an ownership hearing next week.

However, the actor told reporters later that Saturday night he had got political asylum for Arthur in the Soviet Embassy.

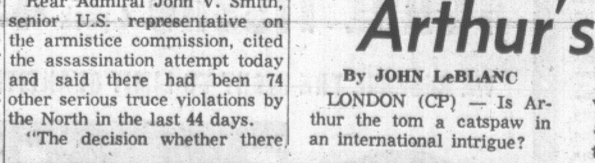
As he describes it, he and Arthur ran into a Russian diplomat coming out of the embassy.

"I asked him if he would give political asylum to a cat. At first he laughed but when I explained the situation to him, he agreed he would look after the cat, took it in his arms and walked off."

The Russian Embassy denied any knowledge of Arthur Tuesday night.

The foreign office was puzzled about Arthur's status in the diplomatic field.

"I can't see that the cat would qualify for political asylum," an official said. "He has not committed any political act that would endanger any of his lives."



Apparently th' Marines are goin' t' recapture Hue by wipin' it out.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — A somewhat broader export interest in nearly all commodities featured trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Most of the activity was in oilseeds and rye with a highlight being the reported sale of 56,000 tons of Canadian wheat to Japan and indications that more than a cargo of wheat had been taken by Britain.

Flax showed underlying firmness and North Korea was credited with taking 1,200 tons. Some activity was noted in rapeseed where a parcel lot was reported sold to Japan.

Oats trade was light and domestic.

Rye reflected upturns in Chicago.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat all were unchanged.

Takeover Bid Brings Brief Suspension

TORONTO (CP)—Kerr Addison Mines, Ltd., has made a takeover bid on Quemont Mining Corp., Ltd., and Normetal Mining Corp., Ltd., the Toronto Stock Exchange announced Monday.

The TSE said the offer, subject to shareholders' approval of a formal agreement, would provide for the exchange of two Kerr Addison shares for three Quemont shares and of three Kerr Addison shares for 10 of Normetal.

The exchange said the directors of both Normetal and Quemont consider the offer "fair and reasonable".

Halted Friday afternoon, trading resumed Monday in shares of Normetal and Quemont. Normetal slipped 15 cents to $4.50 and Quemont 20 cents to $9.75 shortly after opening.

After three days of severe pounding the New York stock exchange staged a rebound today.

Trading was heavy as the market, embarked on a technical rally from an oversold condition, was subjected to selling on news that a U.S. navy plane was shot down by the Chinese and a call for economic controls by chairman William Martin of the U.S. Reserve Board.

Following the trend on Wall St. the Toronto market rallied in light activity.

Share prices also staged a comeback at Vancouver in forenoon trading.

AT TORONTO, Beaver Lumber, reporting increased annual profits, gained 1¼ to 44¾. Oshawa A slipped ½ to 30¼ in active trading.

Uraniums lifted the base metal average as Denison climbed 1¼ to 65¼, Rio Algom 1 to 30½ and Roman Corp. 1⅝ to 20⅝.

In the oils section, Great Plains climbed 1 to 18, Husky ½ to 19⅞ and Canadian Export Gas 40 cents to 6.40. Dome fell 1¼ to 48½ and Superior ½ to 37.

Small gains among gold issues were offset by losses. Kerr Addison rose ½ to 16 as Campbell Red Lake slipped ¾ to 33½.

AT NEW YORK steels and motors were mostly higher. Gold mining issues encountered some profit taking on Tuesday's strength. Glamor stocks, clobbered in recent sessions, snapped back.

AT MONTREAL Royal Trust retreated 1⅝ to 16⅞ with Hudson Bay Mining and Levy Industries both losing one point to 55½ and 29 on slight turnovers.

AT LONDON the stock market appeared uncertain today despite optimistic remarks made by the governor of the Bank of England.

Industrials were mixed and gilts fell back after an early rise, but maintained some of their gain.

AT VANCOUVER trading remained quiet, but gains far outnumbered losses, with mining issues showing the most consistent increases.

Churchill Copper was trading at $2.40, up .25 from Tuesday's close. Magnum Consolidated was up .12 to $1.75, Hurley River .12 to $1.30, Lornex .10 to $7.25 and Brenda .15 to $7.85.

Oil Import Program Set by U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian crude oil may be imported at a daily rate of 415,000 barrels for the first seven months of this year, Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said in releasing the terms of the mandatory U.S. oil import program.

The allocations were made much later than usual and for only six months, reflecting assorted problems.

The allocation for Canadian oil in the vital area east of the Rockies is 280,000 barrels daily compared with actual deliveries last year of about 245,000 barrels.

The 1967 forecast was 225,000 barrels but the Middle East war helped increase it.

The figure reflects the U.S. approval given this year for construction by a U.S. subsidiary of the Interprovincial Pipe Line Co. of a new line into the Chicago market.

The level of 280,000 barrels daily represents private Canadian producer agreement not to take advantage of the new pipeline with exports that would stir resentment among U.S. counter parts.

On the West Coast, Udall said, Canadian overland deliveries will be 135,000 barrels daily compared with last year's allocation of 144,000 and actual deliveries averaging about 195,000. This again is attributed to delivery disruptions working in Canada's favor due to the Arab-Israeli war and the closing of the Suez Canal.

But the smaller allocation for the first half of 1968 is also a token of rising competition west of the Rockies from Alaskan oil.

Udall said he will announce by March 15 a proposed plan for crude oil and some other categories of imports "which, following public comment and review, will provide the basis for allocations in the latter part of 1968."

Many of the company's plants were closed down by strikes during much of 1966.

If One Asks About 'Germ Warfare for Beginners' . . . Nab Him!

By JIM HUME

If you have any skeletons in your closet, look out.

There's at least one high school youngster in Greater Victoria seeking ways to preserve them.

The bright-eyed youngster, whether male or female isn't known, dropped into the young people's section of the Greater Victoria library the other day with a simple request: "Give me everything you have on the methods of preserving skeletons."

The library, as always when the request is reasonable, complied.

Other requests for information made the same day (the details are contained in a "day-at-the-library" report prepared by chief librarian Jack Lort) reveal some fascinating aspects of the reading habits of our often belittled teen-agers.

Along with the request for skeletal knowledge came a call for information on cosmic cells and the details on how to build a fuel cell.

Somebody thinking of starting from scratch to see if he can build a better man?

As adults so often say, "You just don't know what the kids are up to these days."

Tied in with the cosmic-skeleton business was a request for the Communist Manifesto and whatever books were available on contemporary Indian problems.

Ha, plotting a revolution in the quiet backwaters of Oak Bay.

Down in the pamphlet section, the requests for information were as varied as the youngsters asking the questions.

One wanted to know all about milk goats, how to breed, feed and raise them. Another wanted a leaflet on LSD and yet another a paper on VD.

●

And one budding tycoon sought all the available data on shipbuilding in Britain, thus serving notice to VMD and Yarrows that all is not lost in the shipyards.

Other requests on the day the survey of library-users' habits was taken included a demand for airline pilot training information, background on travel agents and occupational therapists.

Experts in the first two fields say the third request is essential if would-be pilots and travel agents are to remain sane.

Adults using the reference department the same day were pretty square when compared with the exotic and exciting selections made by the youngsters.

What were the grown-ups looking for while their children sought ways to pickle skeletons? Such sparkling tomes as The International Yellow Pages, the Standard Trade Index of Japan and the Financial Yearbook of Europe.

Could be a father and son team, of course. The youngster preserves the skeletons in the basement while dad looks after the shipping.

Adults did a little better in the general book circulation departments.

Library staffers there answered requests for Philippine rice recipes and a travel guide for Hawaii. The Pacific is obviously beckoning at least one family.

Other requests and guesses at the identity of the borrowers:

The British North America Act. Premier Bennett?

How to Build Dog Houses. The Association of Irate Housewives?

Leather Tanning. The mother of the lad looking for skeleton preservatives?

How to Make a Telephone. Eric Mallett, local manager of the B.C. Telephone Company?

Lip Reading Techniques. A joint loan made by members of the press corps covering the present legislative session?

Opportunities in New Zealand. Minister of Highways P. A. Gaglardi?

Text of "The Innocents." Opposition leaders Bob Strachan and Ray Perrault?

All these, says Mr. Lort in his report, are fairly simple requests handled on the average day by his staff.

●

The going gets a little tougher when they are asked for a book on carpentry "to buy for a friend building a home in northern B.C."

The library staff is always polite, but they can be forgiven if they think that request comes just a little late.

Nothing really perturbs the librarians. Requests for information on hypnotism, palmistry, yoga, sex or how to prune a tree are routine.

But how to preserve skeletons? Well, that is just a little scary, isn't it?

Especially if the average reader has as many hidden away as the average newspaper reporter.

FROST TRICKS DRIVERS

Four Injured In Collisions

Four persons were injured in traffic accidents on Greater Victoria streets early today.

A navy truck eastbound on Esquimalt Road skidded on frosty pavement just before 7 a.m. and collided head-on with a car.

Truck driver William Brander, 2579 Bowker, was treated for cuts. Esquimalt police report car driver Michael Dunn, 150 Egerton, was uninjured.

At 7:30 a.m., two men were injured in another head-on collision on Hillside near Grosvenor.

Police said an eastbound car driven by Giovanni Lepetrone, 904 Hillside, collided with a westbound car driven by Harald McLaughlin, 4574 Sumner Place.

BACK INJURIES

At press time, McLaughlin was being treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for back and shoulder injuries. A passenger, Don Andrew of 4456 Tyndall, was released after treatment for facial cuts.

At 7:45 a.m., a car went out of control and struck a tree at Shelbourne and Blair.

Driver Alide Hodder, 4385 Robinwood, is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital with head cuts.

The weatherman predicts morning frost on roads in the Victoria area for at least the next two days.

Lockheed Hires 12 Victorians

The big Lockheed shipyard in Seattle has signed up 64 Vancouver pipefitters and about a dozen from Victoria.

The figures were provided by officials of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Pipefitters in both cities.

The Seattle shipyard sent representatives to B.C. last week looking for 100 pipefitters to overcome a shortage which is preventing employment of other skilled trades, said a company spokesman.

A second American shipyard, Ingalls of Pascagoula in Mississippi, hired about 40 platers and pipefitters last month in Victoria and more from Vancouver.

14 RETURN

Fourteen of them have returned to B.C. already, expressing dissatisfaction with living conditions and tight security in the shipyard which is constructing a nuclear submarine for the U.S. Navy.

Four of the 40 hired in Victoria have returned, one of them because of a family illness.

Two of the others "didn't take kindly to the very strict security," said a union spokesman. But he added, everyone was told about security when recruiters were here.

Skilled shipyard and construction workers have been leaving B.C. because of the lack of work here.

Decision Delayed In Arbitration Of Mill Firings

Decision was reserved Tuesday in a labor arbitration case involving dismissal of two workers at Sooke Forest Products sawmill.

The case was taken to arbitration by the International Woodworkers of America, Victoria local. The two men, Darshan Singh Gill and Banta Singh Sihota, were discharged last November.

A decision is expected in a few days. The press was excluded from the arbitration hearing, held in Victoria Law Courts building.

Members of the arbitration board were B. W. Dysart, chairman; Allan Cox, company nominee; and I. D. Pal, union nomineee.

Child Swallows Cleaning Solvent

A two-year-old is in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today after he swallowed a quantity of cleaning solvent Tuesday afternoon.

Aubrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Sommerville, 95 Battleford, was taken to hospital just after 5 p.m. Tuesday by Saanich fire department ambulance.

Brief Stoppage At Chemainus

There was a brief work stoppage at the MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. sawmill in Chemainus Tuesday affecting half a dozen men.

Company public relations officer Ted Stroyan said today it was a "contract revision dispute" affecting carrier drivers.

After a brief work stoppage the men met with management and the matter was resolved.

No pickets were put up and there was no general shutdown of the mill.

President of Duncan Local 1-80 of the IWA, Weldon Jubenville, said today he had no comment on what was a "minor incident."

$900 Car Damage

Reginald Welcher of Duncan was fined $300 in central court today after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Court was told Welcher was the driver of a car involved in an accident on Craigflower Road Tuesday night causing $900 damage.

HAVE A HEART BUILD OUR SCHOOLS NOW

PTA LOBBY in support of thawing the current school construction freeze began in a ladylike fashion at the Legislative Buildings today and featured programmed discussions with MLAs in committee rooms. Dainty signs carried by Mrs. Byers, left, PTA regional director, and Mrs. Frank Whittaker, president of Victoria PTA Council, expressed gentle request. But then the men came.

PTA Lobby in Tizzy As Cutback Protest Escalated by Unions

By PETE LOUDON

It started out as groups of matrons in pretty hats in quiet discussion with their members of the legislature.

But it was soon a full-fledged demonstration with unemployed men carrying placards and marching back and forth before the "Buildings."

The Parent Teachers' Association wasn't too happy this morning when their dignified protest over education cutbacks took on a scrappy tone.

MENACING

It was all well-organized and orderly but to the PTA a large body of marching workers with placards, appeared menacing.

Some of the women were reluctant to have a labor union on their side in case it hurt their cause.

"They said they wouldn't carry placards and look at them," said Mrs. A. B. Thompson, first vice-president of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation.

The PTA members from lower Vancouver Island points began gathering at the Legislative Buildings shortly after 10 a.m.

"Don't call it a demonstration," they cautioned reporters.

They didn't have signs except for two tiny, red, heart-shaped ones which no one really rushed to display.

WE WANT SCHOOLS
NO OVERCROWDING IN OUR SCHOOLS

FREEZE ON SCHOOLS is a freeze on jobs said militant unemployed marchers called out by Vancouver Island Building Trades Council to reinforce PTA protesters. Women, who had zeen trying to avoid appearance of a "demonstration" were reluctant allies.

"Have a Heart, Build Our Schools Now," they read.

The women from the local area entered the building in small groups and were soon closeted in committee rooms with MLAs according to previous arrangements.

Mrs. Martin Redgrave, of Trail, provincial PTA president, was to meet with Education Minister Peterson. It was all being done in the dainty fashion of lady finger sandwiches.

But soon after 11 buses began to draw up, three carrying PTA delegates from mainland points, one from Duncan and one from Nanaimo.

"Progressive Education Without Accommodation," shouted a huge banner displayed on a bus by a Coquitlam group.

TRADESMEN

Another bus offloaded men from the building trades who formed up with a Victoria delegation of unemployed carpenters. They formed up in militant fashion with placards on high, 150 strong.

"We Want Schools."

"2,000 Carpenters Unemployed in B.C."

"No Overcrowding In Our Schools."

"Thaw The Freeze."

The placards were bold and demanding.

The affair that started with a whisper was ending with a shout. Suddenly there were more than 400 protesters roaming the corridors searching for MLAs to buttonhole.

Main purpose of the event was to show opposition to the current government cutback in school building funds.

PTA spokesmen said, "We're interested in sex education in the curriculum (they support it) and teaching French in elementary schools, a wide program of kindergartens and more elementary school libraries—but we're mostly interested in lifting the construction freeze."

In Coquitlam the freeze is keeping hundreds of children on swing shifts and the PTA fears the trend will spread.

The labor union men say they were appearing principally as parents, "But we're interested in our jobs too."

Whether it will all make an impression on the government wasn't immediately indicated.

FARE HIKE, SUBSIDY?

Reaction Cool To Bus Warning

MISSING MAN TURNS UP AT NANAIMO

A former Victorian feared drowned three months ago has been found alive, suffering from amnesia.

Rex Jackson, a Vancouver auctioneer thought to have drowned in Burrard Inlet, was traced last week by chance when a doctor answered an emergency call to a fever patient in a Nanaimo motel. The patient turned out to be Jackson.

Mr. Jackson disappeared after he planned a business trip to the Nanaimo area from Vancouver.

RCMP found his car abandoned in North Vancouver. Divers searched the area for his body after his wallet was found floating near Second Narrows Bridge.

"We are just thrilled," his wife said in Vancouver Tuesday.

"He has no recollection at all of the last three years, and was startled to see I had some grey hairs."

Speech Renews Dumping Fears

Municipal leaders in Greater Victoria reacted cooly today to a warning by a B.C. Hydro director that in the future there must be higher bus fares or heavy municipal transit aid.

Resources Minister Ray Williston told the legislature Tuesday B.C. Hydro will lose $3 million this year on bus service in the Victoria and Vancouver areas in spite of the recently-annunced $1 million subsidy from the government.

"If rates are not to rise in the future, the areas of benefit will have to assist in stabilization of the costs," he said.

Outside the legislature, he said "if they (municipalities) don't want the buses dumped then some type of shared cost agreement obviously will be necessary."

FACE PROBLEM

But he added that B.C. Hydro isn't suggesting a cost-sharing formula.

He "just threw out the suggestion so we could face the problem instead of everybody saying it's not our responsibility."

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant said the Hydro director's comments did not surprise him and he remained convinced the government will dump the buses on the metropolitan areas.

"I am afraid I was not one of those who heaved a sigh of relief when the budget speech (announcing the $1 million subsidy) was over," he said.

'YEAR OF GRACE'

"We have been given an apparent year of grace but I fully expect that with the usual Social Credit aplomb, the losses would be shifted to us in some other way. And here it is, right in Williston's speech.

"As far as I am concerned the provincial government will have to pass an act physically ordering the municipalities to get into the transit system before I move. I shall resist bitterly any other moves."

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said "the latest manoeuvre by the government pushes us further along the line for what has been a discouraging year," pointed to increased sharing by municipalities in social welfare costs and problems caused by a new tax form notice.

'NOT VALID'

"The business of municipalities sharing in some of the cost is just not valid. We are not sharing in the revenues from electricity." Yet the urban areas were supporting rural electrification, where customers are few and distance are great.

"When the price was arbitrated for the takeover of B.C. Electric the losses for transit were taken into consideration.

"I can't accept the argument that municipalities should accept the money-losing side but not the profit side. It's like making you a shareholder but you only share in the losses."

Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen said he didn't interpret the speech as meaning "the government is going to force us, just a hint." The 60 per cent of B.C. residents living in Victoria and Vancouver areas are in effect subsidizing other areas and it was "quite legitimate" that Hydro should subsidize transit.

Road Program Slashed In Saanich

A recommended road construction program in Saanich was cut from $1 million to $246,710 Tuesday night.

The original recommendations by municipal engineer Neville Life for the 1968 were reduced to just over $400,000 by department staff before being considered by the public works committee.

Dropped from the original recommendation were such major items as $210,000 for four lanes on Lansdowne, city to Foul Bay, and $69,500 for Quadra, from McKenzie to Nicholson.

Shelbourne Street, which was to be widened to four lanes from Ruby to Feltham for $14,000, was cut back to $40,000 by reducing the length to Ruby-Blair.

Biggest casualties as the committee sliced into the already-reduced recommendations were $70,000 for four lanes and two intersections on Carey, Tillicum to Glanford, $55,000 for Durrance Road and $35,000 for Interurban—but a proviso was made in the last case to use any funds left over for it.

'RIDICULOUS'

Reeve Hugh Curtis said it is "ridiculous" to cut back road work to $246,710 and criticized the provincial government for lack of help in this area.

"We're doing one-tenth of the work we should be doing," he said.

"Until there is recognition by the provincial government we won't be able to afford any more road work."

Q. Could you please tell me the addresses of all the kennels on the Island which have small, registered dogs; I am interested in getting a small dog for show; small dogs includes terriers, toys and miniatures. Wanted by 'Dr. Bob': Dedicated Canadians

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Six new villages, each housing 5,000 persons are needed in war-torn Vietnam.

And competent Canadian workers are being asked to help build them.

"These villages are needed for all the thousands of men, women and children who have lost their homes and livelihood in the Vietnamese war," says Dr. Bob Pierce, founder and president of World Vision of Canada.

"To help build these villages I am recruiting dedicated Canadians of various skills.

"We need draughtsmen, sanitary engineers, drainage workers, and people with the know-how to help us establish poultry and crop-raising.

"We also need nurses, hospital orderlies, nutrition experts and people experienced in all kinds of welfare work. But they must believe in what we are doing and be willing to work under difficult conditions."

On a cross-Canada speaking tour from his Toronto headquarters, Dr. Pierce met local clergy in the Empress Hotel this morning and will address a public meeting in Metropolitan United Church tonight at 8.

He is throwing out a challenge to Canadians to join in the latest of many projects he has initiated over the past 21 years.

SITES CHOSEN

"I have already picked out six very suitable sites for these villages," he said, "but I may have to re-assess my plans in view of current war developments."

A tall, grey-haired enthusiast, Dr. Pierce is a doctor of theology who was originally a Baptist minister. Today he is associated with all Christian churches and prefers to be called Dr. Bob.

He established a headquarters for World Vision at Saigon, Vietnam, five years ago, and set up a pre-fab residence alongside it. He has since commuted regularly between Saigon, the United States and Canada.

"We work with missionaries of all Christian churches," he said, "and we have turned many churches into schools where the largely illiterate population can be taught to read and write."

"It is very easy to say the United States should pull out of Vietnam. I would say without hesitation that all missionaries who have lived and worked with the South Vietnames would oppose this."

THE DOCTOR SPEAKS OUT

Swinger Goes to Bat for Swiggers

By JOHN MIKA

Socred backbencher Dr. H. R. McDiarmid of Alberni bellied up to the rostrum Tuesday night and did the next best thing to ordering drinks for the house.

He read a lecture on the benefits of beer to the cabinet's teetotalers.

"I think it is high time that someone from this side of the house said a word on behalf of the drinking population of this province," declared the Tofino doctor.

●

"The views of the minister of highways and other dry members are well known throughout the province," he said looking at a grinning Premier Bennett.

"But there a lot more people that drink in the province than do not and there are certainly a large number of them in my constituency."

He blasted the refusal of the government to heed a petition of 2,500 residents protesting the closing of two downtown liquor stores when Alberni and Port Alberni amalgamated last year.

He said the new liquor outlet in a suburban shopping centre is "unhandy to the majority of the residents of either town."

Dr. McDiarmid also criticized the "two substantial increases in the price of liquor in a few short months" and warned the government against jacking up beer prices.

"The reason I say this is that like it or not, the beer parlors of this province are the only clubs that the working man has," he said.

He said most of the workers in his riding labored hard in the woods, in mines and on fishing boats.

"Many of these people are away from civilization for days or even weeks on end and the only form of relaxation which many of these people know is the beer parlor.

"I can assure you that if we had all the logs produced, all the ore mined and all the fish caught in the beer parlors of this province, we would be a lot wealthier than we are today.

"To many of our pensioners, this is one place where they can go and afford a glass of beer or two on the odd occasion and reminisce with their friends of days gone by."

●

Dr. McDiarmid nailed down his hold on the title of chief swinger in the backbenches with a complaint about lack of facilities at Long Beach provincial park which made other MLAs sit up suddenly.

"Are you aware Mr. Speaker that on July 1st of last year there were 7,000 campers tenting on Long Beach provincial park?

"Seven thousand, Mr. Speaker, crammed in cheek by jowl, defacting, micturating (urinating) and copulating — and not separated by so much as a blade of grass, Mr. Speaker!

"In fact, barely a grain of sand!"

He said there were only two toilets and no running water provided in the park for the crowd.

Dr. McDiarmid said a charge of $2 per night should be levied at all provincial campsites.

This would ensure caretakers were posted to control rowdyism, provide revenue for improving facilities and give private camp operators a chance to be competitive.

He also said "unrealistic" health regulation which require private camp operators to provide hot water under 20 pounds pressure and other amenities should be eased so that they could lower their costs and expand their service.

●

Dr. McDiarmid lashed Northern Development Minister Arthur Laing for failing to perform after promises the federal government whould establish a national seaside park at Long Beach.

He urged the government to set up a central advisory committee for helping laymen trustees on regional hospital boards plan the location of new hospitals serving several communities, particularly in wilderness areas.

BOYCOTT ENDS AT SCHOOL

PORT ALBERNI, — The A. W. Neill school is back in business here after student leaders ended a boycott of classes by colleagues dissatisfied with school rules.

The junior high school was closed Monday and again Tuesday morning because of student dissatisfaction with rules controlling school dress, no smoking, and prohibiting students from leaving the grounds during lunch hour.

Principal R. W. Lawson closed the school Tuesday morning when students booed him for his handling of a student sitdown last week.

A student meeting later, however, decided to request him to re-open the school. Classes resumed.

Ag a meeting Monday night, parents of the children almost unanimously supported the school staff and the rules which the students protested.

Foot Patrols Asked Again For Duncan

DUNCAN — City council is maintaining its pressure to get police foot patrols.

It will be used as a bargaining point with the RCMP who have asked city hall to allow in their 1968 budget for an additional constable.

Mayor Jim Quaife said the request will have to be carefully considered.

He said the attorney-gereral's proposed roadside jurisdiction would mean a loss of revenue to council from court fines.

Part of this revenue went toward police costs and if the roadside plan is adopted more money for police protection would have to be raised from the local taxpayer.

Ald. Tommy Kilpatrick raised the question of foot patrols.

"It's a good time to discuss with the RCMP the question of foot patrols with men in touch with each other and detachment headquarters by walkie-talkie."

TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES

Trio Charged in Ladysmith After $14,820 Burglary

LADYSMITH — Two Fort William youths and a Calgary juvenile were to appear in court here today in connection with the theft of $14,820 in travellers' cheques from Ladysmith Credit Union.

RCMP said all the American Express Travellers' cheques have been recovered.

The overnight Monday theft was discovered when a youth tried to pass one of the cheques at the Bank of Montreal in Duncan. A teller became suspicious because there was no signature from the place of origin.

DIDN'T KNOW

Police were called and the youth arrested.

The credit union had reported the break-in but didn't realize the cheques had been stolen.

Later two other youths went to the police station demanding to know why their companion was being held.

They were questioned and arrested.

TRACKING DOG

Police later — with the help of a tracking dog from Nanaimo — found a large portion of the cheques hidden in the bush behind the Cowichan Indian band office on Allenby Road.

Police said the thieves entered the credit union building on High Street through a rear window early Tuesday morning.

They took the cheques from an unlocked cabinet.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — A somewhat broader export interest in nearly all commodities featured trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Most of the activity was in oilseeds and rye with a highlight being the reported sale of 56,000 tons of Canadian wheat to Japan and indications that more than a cargo of wheat had been taken by Britain.

Flax showed underlying firmness and North Korea was credited with taking 1,200 tons. Some activity was noted in rapeseed where a parcel lot was reported sold to Japan.

Oats trade was light and domestic.

Rye reflected upturns in Chicago.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat all were unchanged.

Takeover Bid Brings Brief Suspension

TORONTO (CP)—Kerr Addison Mines, Ltd., has made a takeover bid on Quemont Mining Corp., Ltd., and Normetal Mining Corp., Ltd., the Toronto Stock Exchange announced Monday.

The TSE said the offer, subject to shareholders' approval of a formal agreement, would provide for the exchange of two Kerr Addison shares for three Quemont shares and of three Kerr Addison shares for 10 of Normetal.

The exchange said the directors of both Normetal and Quemont consider the offer "fair and reasonable".

Halted Friday afternoon, trading resumed Monday in shares of Normetal and Quemont. Normetal slipped 15 cents to $4.50 and Quemont 20 cents to $9.75 shortly after opening.

After three days of severe pounding the New York stock exchange staged a rebound today.

Trading was heavy as the market, embarked on a technical rally from an oversold condition, was subjected to selling on news that a U.S. navy plane was shot down by the Chinese and a call for economic controls by chairman William Martin of the U.S. Reserve Board.

Following the trend on Wall St. the Toronto market rallied in light activity.

Share prices also staged a comeback at Vancouver in forenoon trading.

AT TORONTO uranium carried the day in the base metals section. Denison was up 4½ to 68½, Rio Algom 2¾ to 32¼ and Roman Corp. 2½ to 21½.

Central-Del Rio paced the western oils advance, gaining 1½ to 18⅞. Great Plains climbed 1¼ to 18¼ and Husky and Banff 1⅛ each to 20½ and 14.

In industrials, Pembina Pipe Line rose 1 to 15¾ and West Coast Transmission ⅞ to 23⅛. Beaver Lumber gained 1¼ to 44¾ and Moore Corp. 1 to 27½.

AT NEW YORK steels and motors were mostly higher. Gold mining issues encountered some profit taking on Tuesday's strength. Glamor stocks, clobbered in recent sessions, snapped back.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange appeared to withstand the news shocks even better.

AT MONTREAL Royal Trust retreated 1⅝ to 16⅝ with Hudson Bay Mining and Levy Industries both losing one point to 55½ and 29 on slight turnovers.

AT LONDON the stock market appeared uncertain today despite optimistic remarks made by the governor of the Bank of England.

Industrials were mixed and gilts fell back after an early rise, but maintained some of their gain.

AT VANCOUVER trading remained quiet, but gains far outnumbered losses, with mining issues showing the most consistent increases.

Churchill Copper was trading at $2.40, up .25 from Tuesday's close. Magnum Consolidated was up .12 to $1.75, Hurley River .12 to $1.30, Lornex .10 to $7.25 and Brenda .15 to $7.85.

BUSINESS COLUMN P-22

Oil Import Program Set by U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian crude oil may be imported at a daily rate of 415,000 barrels for the first seven months of this year, Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said in releasing the terms of the mandatory U.S. oil import program.

The allocations were made much later than usual and for only six months, reflecting assorted problems.

The allocation for Canadian oil in the vital area east of the Rockies is 280,000 barrels daily compared with actual deliveries last year of about 245,000 barrels.

The 1967 forecast was 225,000 barrels but the Middle East war helped increase it.

The figure reflects the U.S. approval given this year for construction by a U.S. subsidiary of the Interprovincial Pipe Line Co. of a new line into the Chicago market.

The level of 280,000 barrels daily represents private Canadian producer agreement not to take advantage of the new pipeline with exports that would stir resentment among U.S. counterparts.

On the West Coast, Udall said, Canadian overland deliveries will be 135,000 barrels daily compared with last year's allocation of 144,000 and actual deliveries averaging about 195,000. This again is attributed to delivery disruptions working in Canada's favor due to the Arab-Israeli war and the closing of the Suez Canal.

But the smaller allocation for the first half of 1968 is also a token of rising competition west of the Rockies from Alaskan oil.

Udall said he will announce by March 15 a proposed plan for crude oil and some other categories of imports "which, following public comment and review, will provide the basis for allocations in the latter part of 1968."
